NINE DIE IN MOVIE STUDIO FIRE; BALLET GIRLS LEAP TO SAFETY

Today

Much News Today. Protestantism Declining. In the World Court, Soon. Speakeasies and Opera.

-By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WHAT is the news? There is a good deal.

The storm continues to rage off the British coast, 100 lives lost, six more vessels founder, 50 ships in distress. England has been cut off from France, too rough on the water, too rough in the air.

The British and French will think harder than ever about a tunnel under the channel.

THE Pope finds, at this Christmas season, cause for rejoicing. A semi-official message from the Vatican reports that in the course of a solemn ceremony, approving the beatification of 136 English martyrs, the Pope said, "Protestantism is getting more and more exhausted until it has reached the point where its own very sterility is inspiring many souls with a nostalgia for Catholicism."

POPE PIUS remarked that the church was emerging triumphant from the duel with the state, referring to the recent agreement with Italy, and added "thus confronting Protestantism today Catholicism breathes in a free atmosphere while Protestantism goes on ever wearing itself out."

MR. JAY P. MOFFATT, representing the United States at Geneva, signs the protocal that, if nothing happens to prevent, will land us in the World Court.

THE Senate is to be heard from, but probably it will agree with Mr. Moffat and the European powers that Americans are not able to decide important questions for themselves and need a little help from Europe. Not one of the senators or any other that helps to put the United States in the power of a hostile European court would think of referring his own private affairs to a court of European judges hostile to him.

He would say "No, an American court is good enough for me." The United States Supreme Court ought to be good enough for the United States.

EVERYBODY knew that the speakeasy was more powerful than prohibition laws.

Some will learn with surprise that speakeasies are more powerful than John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Mr. Rockefeller assembled some blocks i New York, intending to build a civic and commercial center around a fine opera house.

Speakeasies have some subleases on the land in the heart of New York, very valuable, and the speakeasy proprietors will not get out, won't consider selling of their leases.

Thus, the speakeasies will remain and the opera house will not be built.

THEY that go down to the sea in ships can now call up the dear ones at home and tell what they forgot to take with them.

Sunday, Walter S. Gifford, head of the big telephone company, said to his telephone operator, "Give me the commander of the Leviathan." In a few minutes he was talking to the steamship Leviathan, 200 miles out at sea. That would surprise Jonah.

IN New Jersey, Thomas N. McCarter, announces a cut of $1,300,000 in light charges for the coming year. The intelligent idea is to charge less for electricity and thus encourage the use of more current.

This program was mapped out at Atlantic City over a year ago by Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company.

GEN. GRANT'S great-granddaughter, Mrs. J. S. Hanbury, formerly the Princess Cantacuzene, has given birth to twin daughters, in London. If those little girls grow up, and have sons, and are poor, so the sons will have to work, those boys should amount to something.

Unfortunately the successful man, by his very success, makes it hard for his descendants to succeed for at least a generation or two.

WASHINGTON reports that "the administration," which means President Hoover, is anxious to have Calvin Coolidge elected senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. Coolidge would render distinguished service in the Senate. It would be hard for any senator to talk more than two hours, before that cold blue New England eye, and hard for any senators to spend millions recklessly.

BUT Mr. Coolidge, like the young gentleman in "Excelsior" doesn't believe in turning back. He and Mrs. Coolidge fixed the White House all over, cedar closets and everything. When President Hoover is through with it, Mr. Coolidge, it is said, would like to return to the "old home."

GERMANY'S Lufthansa, ablest commercial flying organization in the world, is pushing its lines into Asia and South America.

And intelligently, Germany lends Lufthansa $1,500,000 to help.

If Germany after the war, compelled every year to pay hundreds of millions in gold to the allies, can afford $1,500,000 to support one commercial aviation undertaking, what could the rich United States do, if it had the intelligence to do it?

SENATE RAPS FISHER AND GRUNDY

Governor 'Kept Politician,' Caraway Says; Lobbying Of Pennsylvanian Hit

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, was described on the floor of the Senate today as a "kept politician" by Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, in a speech assailing the prospective appointment of Joseph R. Grundy, so-called "granddaddy of all lobbyists," to the Senate seat vacated by William S. Vare.

Caraway was angered by Fisher's statement to newspapers that his selection of Vare's successor could not be dictated by senators.

If Grundy is named, he said, the appointment will be "made by the people who bought and paid for the office the governor now occupies."

SUBMITS REPORT

The Arkansan made his statement, of which he is chairman, criticising Grundy's activities in favor of high industrial tariff rates.

Meanwhile, in Harrisburg, Gov. Fisher was announcing that no appointment to the Senate would be made before tomorrow, the governor desiring to consult with W. L. Mellon, former state Republican chairman, tonight.

There was much speculation as to what effect the bitter criticism of Grundy in the Senate would have on the situation. Reports from Harrisburg had intimated that a very unfavorable lobby report might lead Grundy to refuse the proffered appointment.

Grundy, said today's special report of the lobby committee, sought to add at least $1,186,000,000 and possibly "double that amount" to the cost of living through his advocacy of higher tariff duties.

The committee declared Grundy held an "extraordinary and com-

7 Indicted In Fraud

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Representative Frederick H. Zihlman, of Maryland; Daniel R. Crissinger, former Comptroller of the Currency, and five officials of the F. H. Smith Company, investment security house, were indicted today on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Zihlman and Crissinger were members of the board of directors of the F. H. Smith Company, whose affairs have been under investigation by a grand jury for some time. Several days ago, Zihlman, who is chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee, announced he had submitted his resignation as a member of the board.

In addition to the indictments against the seven men, an indictment was returned against the "F. H. Smith Company as a corporation."

Harrison Charges Hoover Plotting Against Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A "friendly tip" was offered to Calvin Coolidge by Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, in the Senate today not to "fall in with the conspiracy" of Republicans associated with President Hoover to run for the Senate in the Massachusetts election next year.

Harrison suggested the "conspiracy" was to "burry" Dwight M. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and put Coolidge into the Senate. He said those anxious about the renomination of President Hoover regarded these two men as the "serious" contenders for his post.

POLICE IDENTIFY ACCORSI

Salvatore Accorsi, Cheswick miner, today was identified as the armed man who stood over the fallen form of the dying State Trooper John J. Downey at Acmetonia two years ago.

Accorsi, on trial in Criminal Court on a charge of murder, was identified by Private W. M. Brown, of the state police.

"Downey was on one side of the Russelton road, I was on the other," Brown testified. "I heard a shot. I saw a man with a gun in his hand standing over Downey, who had fallen to the ground. I didn't know who the man was then, but I know now. It was Salvatore Accorsi."

Downey was fatally shot in the riot which followed attempts of state police to break up a Sacco-Vanzetti sympathy demonstration at Acmetonia.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

"Downey and Private Francis Hanley and I had been detailed to check on the license numbers of automobiles on the Russelton road," Brown related. "As we walked down to the road we scattered various groups. Hanley left us before we reached the road.

"I went down the right side of the road and Downey went down the left side. I was standing at the store there when I heard a shot. I saw the man standing over Downey. I fired two shots at him as I ran towards him and he fired two at me, but none of them took effect."

The riot at which Downey was

BUILDS FIRE IN CHURCH, JAILED

The police found a fire kindled in the basement of St. Cyprian's Roman Catholic Church, 204 East Stockton avenue, and an old man crouching over it. He gave vague answers to questions, and they suspected for a while that they had caught a fanatic with a mania for burning churches. But no evidence could be found to support that theory.

The prisoner was arraigned before Magistrate E. M. Hough today as a "suspicious person." He said he was Charles Clifford, 65, and that he was homeless.

Unable to obtain work at his trade as a crane operator, he told the magistrate, he came to Pittsburgh a few days ago from Georgetown, Pa. He went into the basement of the church for shelter, he said, and built the fire just to keep warm.

Hough sentenced him to pay a fine of $25 or go to jail for 30 days. Penniless, Clifford went to prison.

Rumania Refuses Entry to Carol

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—An application of Prince Carol, former crown prince of Rumania, to return to his native land was rejected by the government today. The decree of Ferdinand, late king of Rumania, banishes the errant son until 1936, it was said. Carol is father of the boy King Michael.

Attorney's Pocket Picked, 6-Month-Old Son 'Guilty'

The report to city detectives by Warren H. Van Kirk, former assistant United States district attorney here, that he had been fleeced by a pickpocket, developed into an anticlimax when he discovered that his 6-month-old son was the "culprit."

Before leaving for his downtown office yesterday, Van Kirk told the detectives, he put his son, Warren, Jr., to bed for an afternoon nap. After a visit to the county jail, the Federal Building and his office Van Kirk missed his watch, worth $385, and his platinum chain and gold pocket knife, valued at $175. He reported his loss to detectives.

When city sleuths visited the Van Kirk home they found that the child had lifted the watch from his father's pocket and dropped it behind a nursery crib.

POLICE CHIEF ACCUSED IN RUM TRIAL

Paroled Bootlegger Tells Court McKeesport Official Gave Liquor Runners Aid

BULLETIN.

John F. Brennan, former police chief of McKeesport, set the police roll call hour, between 6 and 7 p. m., as the best time to make moonshine whisky deliveries, Charles Friedman, pardoned bootlegger, testified today in the McKeesport rum ring trial in Federal Court.

Charges against four defendants in the McKeesport rum conspiracy case were dropped, and the $2,500 bond of another four hours late in reporting was forfeited, as the case got under way in Federal Court today.

Judge R. M. Gibson granted a motion by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh to quash charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws against Charles Friedman, Louis Klein, David Klein and Harry Markoss.

ALL PREVIOUSLY CONVICTED

All had been convicted in a previous McKeesport liquor conspiracy case, Marsh informed the court. Friedman, sentenced to serve two years in a federal prison, was pardoned after serving 11 months, following his testimony before the grand jury that returned the indictment in the present case.

The $2,500 bond of Martin Firestone, one of the defendants, was ordered forfeited by Judge Gibson, when he failed to answer the roll call, and a recess taken until 1:30 p. m.

When court convened for the afternoon session, Firestone appeared in court with the explanation that he had gone to Salem, O., where he had a store, last night, and that his automobile had broken down enroute to Pittsburgh, causing him to be late.

"Your bond is forfeited and you must post $15,000 bail to replace it or remain in custody of the United States marshal," declared Judge Gibson.

Assistant Prosecutor Marsh began his opening address to the jury explaining the ramifications of the alleged liquor ring.

TWENTY TO STAND TRIAL

Today's developments reduced the number of defendants on trial to 21. Thirty-two were indicted.

Pedestrian Prevents Man's Leap in River

Scores of pedestrians watched an unidentified man today prevent Charles Burke, 30, of "city," from leaping over the rail of the Seventh Street Bridge into the Allegheny River. Burke was intoxicated at the time, according to Traffic Policeman Patrick J. Lentz, into whose custody he was placed by his rescuer. He was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

CORDELIA GUMMERSHEIMER

DEAD TEACHER'S LOVES PROBED

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—One of the most baffling murder mysteries in the annals of Illinois criminal history confronted the Rockford constabulary today as authorities sought a clue to the murder of comely Cordelia Gummersheimer, high school teacher who was clubbed to death in her bed Saturday night as she slept.

Discovery of several serious love affairs which the teacher has had turned the investigation into new channels and brought forth added possibilities, yet did not point to anything definite.

NOT ROBBED

Police have abandoned the possibility that a robbery motive lay behind the slaying, for the instructor's purse lay untouched in her small apartment. Neither was there evidence of a criminal attack, according to authorities.

Miss Gummersheimer's body was

75 TRAPPED BY FLAME IN TALKIE FILM PLANT AS 15,000 LOOK ON

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Nine persons—five men and four women—lost their lives in a spectacular fire which swept the three-story brick studio building of the Manhattan Film Company here today. The studio was used by the Pathe Company for making sound pictures.

Seventy-five persons, at least, were in the building when the fire broke out and a billowy wall of smoke and flame cut off avenues of escape.

Girls, attired in flimsy ballet costumes, rushed for exits. Finding all those on the main floor a mass of flames, they dashed upstairs and many of them leaped from windows.

STUDIO INFERNO DESCRIBED

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Eye witnesses to the Manhattan film fire today vividly described how, in a twinkling, the studio was transformed into a blazing furnace. They told of the cry of "Fire!" then the panic and of men and women leaping from windows.

One of the eye witnesses was John C. Flinn, vice president of the Pathe Company.

"I was seated in my office on the second floor with my secretary, Frances Walsh, when a loud cry or fire rang through the building," said Flinn.

"I looked through the door of the office, which is located on a sort of balcony, and saw the back drop in flames and actors, actresses, carpenters, scene shifters, cameramen and musicians rushing madly toward the exit. The place was filling rapidly with smoke.

"As I was about to close the door, Leonard Melone, the building superintendent, rushed in."

Melone took up the story.

HANG BY FINGERS

"I had just left Flinn's office and was at the edge of the balcony when a tremendous sheet of flame shot up from the stage

Koehl, Ocean Flier, To Sail for America

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Capt. Hermann Koehl, German trans-Atlantic flier, and Mrs. Koehl will sail from Hamburg tomorrow aboard the Deutschland for New York at the invitation of the Hamburg-American Line.

Capt. Koehl said today that this time he wanted to see what the Atlantic looked like from the surface, and that he also welcomed the opportunity to see more of the United States than he had time for on his last visit.

He will meet his old comrade, Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, in New York.

SCORE IN HOSPITALS

A score of injured were taken to various hospitals. Fire equipment from all parts of upper Manhattan—the studio is at Park avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street—was rushed to the scene and fire boats in the Harlem River also poured water on the burning structure.

Fifteen thousand persons quickly gathered and watched the firemen battle the spectacular blaze. The police were forced to use their clubs to keep the crowds back of the fire lines.

So intense was the heat generated by the flames that firemen were unable to enter the building until almost half an hour after they arrived on the scene.

FLAMES SPREAD QUICKLY

With amazing rapidity the flames, fed by quantities of film and the papier mache used in making sets, spread through the structure.

A revue company, comprising mostly girls, was preparing to rehearse a "talkie" comedy when the fire broke out. The flames spread so swiftly they became panic stricken. Men and women who were on the second floor were cut off from the exits and many of them rushed to windows and leaped to the street. Those on the first floor were blinded with smoke. Those who fought their way out were on the verge of collapse.

BODIES CARRIED OUT

A few minutes after they were able finally to enter the building, firemen emerged carrying the bodies of two men and two women, and a third woman who was so badly burned she was taken to a hospital in a dying condition.

The acrid smoke almost overcame the firemen, and when they

Talking Dolls Bring Joy To Children's Hearts

By THE DOLL LADY

Goodness, how the little folks' eyes beamed with delight at the sight of these pretty dolls and oh, how their hearts fluttered when Dolly began to sing for them.

Have you seen this wonderful doll family of mine? Have you heard them sing their little songs, say their prayers and sit so ladylike on the edge of a chair and talk to you? Or have you had the thrill that comes when you take their hands and find they can walk with you—just like a real little girl?

Doll Lady

They're, oh, so very big. And they are dressed in blue that matches their very eyes. And some of them are in pink — the color of their rosy cheeks. There are others dressed in yellow, which brings out their yellow curls.

You can't help but fall in love with them. The whole window of them at 135 Sixth street, Roosevelt Hotel, and the Davis Theater Lobby, Smithfield street, will make you want to own one of them more than anything else you ever owned in all your life.

If you haven't held them in your arms, cuddled them up, and listened to them sing and recite, you should go in and hear them and meet the Doll Lady and her big family and she will let you hold these pretty dollies of hers and have them sing and pray for you.

After you've seen and heard them you will want to own one of these famous dolls. You can get one free. It won't cost you a cent re-entered the structure they donned gas masks.

NINE DIE AS FIRE TRAPS 75 IN NEW YORK MOVIE STUDIO

Some of the bodies carried from the building were burned almost beyond recognition.

IN BALLET COSTUMES

In flimsy ballet costumes, girls leaped from the second floor windows—their clothes aflame. The girls had just donned their costumes in preparation for participation in Harry Delmar's "Black and White Revue," which was to be "shot" as a sound picture, with Eddie Elkins and his orchestra of 12 furnishing the music.

There was a rain of blazing comets as the young women, in their gauzy costumes, jumped from the windows.

Elkins and his orchestra were on the studio stage when the blaze broke out. The ballet girls —approximately 30 —were in their dressing rooms waiting for Director Delmar to call them to the camera room.

PANIC FOLLOWS FIRE

It was then a great black velope in the rear of the studio into flames. If there was losion, as reported, it was ..... Those in the building had no warning of this tragedy, as they were about to stage a comedy.

Screams of "fire!" rent the place, precipitating a panic. The smoke and flames shot upward to the second floor, where the other girls and studio force were preparing for work.

The studio crew seized fire buckets and tried, ineffectually, to quench the flames.

EXITS BLOCKED

Driven by terror, men and women fought their way toward the exits and, finding them blocked, rushed downstairs and leaped from the windows. One man carried the glass and sash with him. He was picked up, gibbering and semi-conscious.

One man managed to escape through the flames that enveloped the main floor exits, rushed to the fire box on the corner and the glass, summoning the rtment.

owds gathered, as if by Police used their clubs ... keeping the throng back of the fire lines.

The bodies of those who lost their lives were found, according to the firemen, at an exit on the One Hundred Thirty-fourth street side of the studio.

When the bodies were carried to the street, several of them burned almost beyond recognition, the casting director was called on to make such identifications as he could. He made the identifications of four of the bodies.

RUINS SEARCHED

One of the bodies was that of a female impersonator. His body was little burned and he apparently had died of suffocation.

The flowing dresses and vividly colored cheeks and lips made an incongruous picture as firemen carried the body to a waiting ambulance. It was not identified.

An hour and a half after the fire started it was brought under control and an incomplete search of the ruins revealed no more bodies.

Harry Ford, of the Bronx, master electrician of the studio, denied to Assistant Fire Marshal Sam Willis that the fire was caused by an electrical flash. He explained that the curtain was seen to flare as it was lowered, but that no current, beyond that of the regular lighting, was on at the time and the cameras were not yet working.

Three companies of actors were in the studio, it was said, when the fire broke out. A sound picture—a Pathe comedy, directed by Arch Heath, titled "Scared to Death"—had been completed yesterday. In addition to the Delmar Revue, a comedy directed by George Lemaire and a third picture had the boards today.

Following is a list of the identified dead and injured:

fatally shot was re-enacted by Lieut. Thomas F. Martin of the state police, who told of amounting the platform before 2,000 Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers and asking them to disperse, "in the name of the sheriff."

"The crowd jeered at me," Martin testified. "Somebody took Sergt. Frank Gleason's club away from him and I gave the signal to my men to disperse the crowd with tear-gas bombs."

On cross-examination Martin testified that "some people" were clubbed while the police scattered the crowd, but he didn't know that any of the injured were women and children.

Other state police corroborated Martin's testimony that the crowd was antagonistic. None of the first half-dozen state witnesses mentioned Accorsi's name.

Sheriff Robert H. Braun, a witness, told of asking the state police to send men to the meeting. Braun anticipated the meeting as "a delicate situation," he said.

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt, planned to rest his case late today. The defense, which hopes to show that Accorsi was not present at the meeting, will probably need two days.

PAIR SILENT ON M'ARDLE RAP

R. J. Alderdice and Harry A. Little have declined to comment on a statement from P. J. McArdle after Council's election last Saturday of George J. Kambach to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Daniel Winters to assume the city controllership.

McArdle was defeated at the last election to succeed himself and was considered a candidate for the Winters' vacancy.

Little was his running mate on a ticket opposed to Mayor Charles H. Kline and made numerous speeches during the campaign extolling McArdle's particular fitness for Council. After the election Little was said to have pledged his support to McArdle for Winters' seat.

Alderdice was active during the campaign supporting the ticket including McArdle and later he urged support for McArdle to succeed Winters.

Alderdice and Little voted for Kambach last Saturday and although McArdle's name was not placed in nomination he received the pledged votes of President James F. Malone, Charles Anderson and Robert Garland.

After the meeting McArdle issued a statement that declared in part:

"Mr. Little, who, during the recent primary campaign indulged in flattering praise of my fitness for the office of Councilman and who has since repeatedly said that in the face of such public atterances he could not in decency vote for anyone else and who repeatedly renewed his pledge of support, wholly repudiated it.

"Mr. Alderdice likewise gave his pledge. His vote speaks for itself."

SNOOK APPEAL WITH JUDGES

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court today took under advisement the appeal of Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State University professor from a sentence of death in the electric chair for the murder last June 13, of Miss Theora K. Hix.

Arguments on the defense motions for leave to file a petition in error as of right and to require the Franklin County Court of Appeals to certify its records, were submitted before a record crowd in Supreme Court room.

Among the spectators were Mrs. Snook, wife of the deposed professor and Dr. Melvin T. Hix, Bradenton, Fla., father of the murdered girl.

Arthur C. Fricke, of defense counsel, asked the court to reverse the conviction and expressed a belief that Dr. Snook, if convicted at another trial, would be found guilty of a lesser crime.

He launched an attack on the methods used by the state to obtain the confession and the actions of Prosecuting Attorney John J. Chester.

Prosecutor Chester in his argument admitted he had struck the prisoner in securing his confession, but said that Snook had said threats and violence would not make him talk.

The chief point before the court seemed to center on one question —whether Snook, in testifying, and the testimony of other witnesses that his second confession was voluntary, was sufficient to overbalance the first confession, which the defense claims was made under threats and violence.

THEATER BLAZE ON NORTH SIDE ROUTS SCORE

2 Firemen Hurt in 3-Alarm Fire Sweeps East Ohio St. Building; Loss $30,000.

Two firemen were injured, a dozen families were routed and loss estimated at $30,000 resulted when fire swept through the Gould Theater, at 719-21-23 East Ohio street, shortly after last midnight.

The interior of the structure, a three-story brick, was a mass of flames when firemen arrived. Dense smoke from the building filled adjoining dwellings and routed occupants.

Three alarms sent firemen from 10 companies to the scene. They battled the blaze for more than two hours.

Firemen William Krebs, of No. 41 Engine Company, and Joseph Wheeler, of Engine Company No. 46, were cut on the hands by glass, and treated by Dr. D. E. Sable, police and fire surgeon.

Among persons driven from their homes were Dr. P. G. DEAD TEACHER'S LOVES PROBED found Sunday night in her bed. She was clad in night garments and her skull had been crushed in by several blows from a lead pipe which lay nearby.

While police today turned to a scrutiny of a number of fervid love letters found in the victim's apartment, Dr. Floyd Leach, former Hollywood dentist, was still in police custody. Highly cultured and at one time a professor at Northwestern University dental school, the dentist now lives in a hovel five miles north of the city.

DEAD ANIMALS

Dr. Leach's offices are in the building adjoining the apartment house where Miss Gummersheimer was slain.

When arrested Dr. Leach was clad in hunting attire. In his automobile were the bodies of three dead dogs and a cat. Police found a dead mouse in his trousers pocket also. Curiously, all of the animals had their heads crushed, police said.

The name of Glen Wiseman, of Tarpon Springs, Fla., who was once engaged to Miss Gummersheimer, has entered the inquiry with the finding of the love letters. It was said that the teacher had broken her engagement to Wiseman several years ago. A diamond ring said to be a gift from Wiseman was found on the slain woman's finger, however.

DESTROYERS, CRUISER ON WAY

Four British Vessels Arrive At Shanghai Preparatory To Journey Up Yangtze

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The United States cruiser Pittsburgh and six American destroyers were speeding from Manila toward Shanghai today, pursuant to orders issued by Rear Admiral Charles B. McVay, Jr. They are expected to arrive Thursday to protect, if necessary, American life and property in the rebel-torn areas of China.

In issuing sailing orders at Manila, Admiral McVay asserted that whenever American life and property were endangered the routine duty of the Navy was to protect them. The six destroyers, comprising the Thirty-ninth American Destroyer Division, had sailed earlier in the day. The Pittsburgh, Admiral McVay's flagship, followed.

Four British ships, the cruiser Berwick and the destroyers St. Cloud, Serapis and Bruce, arrived here this morning from Hong Kong. The destroyers are expected to proceed up the Yangtse River.

CRISIS NEARING

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The internal disturbances of China became more acute today as fighting between rebels and government troops continued over a widespread area, according to dispatches from the Far East.

As a precautionary measure to protect American lives and property in the battle-torn areas, the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, flagship of Rear Admiral Charles B. McVay, and six United States destroyers have been dispatched to China from Manila.

With the Nationalist capital, Nanking, in imminent danger of falling into the hands of the rebels, all American women and children, together with those of other foreign nations, have been removed to Shanghai.

Most of the foreigners still remaining in Nanking are Americans attached to the Gin-Ling College. At Ichang, American and British gunboats have taken most of the foreigners aboard because of intense fighting in the vicinity of the city.

REBELS ENTRENCH

According to latest reports from that battle-zone, the rebels have been repulsed by government forces, but are now entrenched five miles east of the city biding their time for another attack.

President Chiang Kai Shek continues to maintain that government forces have the rebellion in full control.

The situation in Canton remains the same. The Kwangsi and Ironsides forces are still pressing the defenders of the city on a fan-like front.

The Yellow Cab Company is asked for $50,000 damages for personal injuries sustained by Mrs. Sadie G. Silverman, of Mt. Lebanin, in a taxicab collision, through a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. While a passenger in a taxicab from the Pennsylvania Station to her home, August 15 last, the driver attempted to pass to the left of a street car on West Liberty avenue and struck an automobile coming from the opposite direction, the suit alleged. Mrs. Silverman averred she was thrown to the floor of the cab and suffered a broken wrist and other injuries.

"I got into Flinn's office.

"The door was blocked. In fact, it was already burning.

"We broke the windows and lowered ourselves out on the ledge. As we went, flames were licking through the other side of the office.

"We hung by our fingers from the ledge for dear life. Did you ever try a stunt like that?"

HANDS, FACE BURNED

Melone displayed his hands. The fingers were cut and burned. His face was black and his hair and eyebrows singed.

"It seemed like hours we hung there. Flames were billowing out of the windows. They got my hair. You see, I was ready to let go and take my chances, when I felt a ladder beneath me and somebody's arm on my back. I let go and guess I went unconscious.

"The others, I learned later, were taken down ladders also."

Lyle Bowen, a member of the "Black and White Serenaders," was filing down a spiral staircase in advance of the other musicians when the flash came.

"Suddenly," he said, "the dark velvet backdrop of the stage shot up in flames. It must have all happened in a second. We rushed frantically back up to the second floor and made our way to windows, from which we were taken down ladders."

Two who tried to get hoses into play were Ernest Flessler and Charles Korbell, electricians.

PANIC DESCRIBED

"I was on the balcony with my spotlight focused on the cabaret scene which was about to go on," said Flessler.

"I heard a cry of fire and saw a red glow on the scenery over where the paint frames hung.

"'Take it easy!' someone shouted."

"I left my light. There was no one on the scene yet. If it had happened five minutes later, all would have been saved."

Korbell then broke in: "I ran for the fire hose and Flessler turned on the valve. But the crowd rushed me then and carried me along in the stampede. I tumbled to the bottom of the stairs. I weigh 200 pounds, but I was thrown on my hands and knees."

HE QUITS, SHE'LL BE "THE BOSS"

MRS. EDNA M. WILCOX — J. F. PIERCE

Mr. Pierce, borough manager of Springdale, resigning his post, Mrs. Wilcox becomes the borough's "boss." She's everything now, including sergeant of police.

Woman Fills Six Jobs In Springdale Borough

There are those who have so much to say of the great amount of work they must do each day, but Edna M. Wilcox, of Springdale, isn't among them.

Heretofore Mrs. Wilcox busied herself about the borough office with clerical duties, police complaints, borough books, and as a fountain of general information.

But she finds herself in a new role today with the resignation of J. F. Pierce, borough manager and secretary. Pierce will quit soon, and until the second week in January, when council will reorganize, she will be borough manager, secretary, clerk, bookeeper, police sergeant.

Mrs. Wilcox doesn't resent the added work. She says she's going to do her best to fulfill every borough need that presents itself. Pierce wants to leave to join his family in New York, where he has accepted another position.

GIRL ATTACKED AFTER HOLDUP

Police today were investigating the story of Agnes Reikhauser, 19, who said she lived at 335 Taylor street, Bloomfield, alleged to have been attacked by two men after she and her escort were robbed in an automobile on Brighton road early last night.

After returning to her home and telling her mother of the attack she was sent to St. Francis Hospital, where it was said she was suffering from shock.

The girl told police that her escort, who she knew only as "Al," was relieved of $84 by three men, who took $9 and two rings from her. Two of the men then drove away with "Al," she said, after the third dragged her from the machine and attacked her. Later the men returned and a second man attacked her, she related. After fighting free she walked to her home, she said.

PERMIT M'EWAN TO RESIGN

Eulogizing his accomplishments and regretting the necessity of having to take action, the Pittsburgh Presbytery today accepted the resignation of the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, of the Third Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Negley avenues.

Immediate relinquishing of duties performed by Dr. McEwan for 35 years was forstalled by the inclusion in the resignation that it will become effective when a successor has been called and installed.

Many members spoke reverently of the work of the retiring pastor, not alone within his own congregation, but throughout the church world. Dr. McEwan announced last spring the intention of resigning upon reaching his seventieth birthday this fall. The congregation refused to accept the resignation at a meeting November 26 and the following day the church officials requested he reconsider the action.

MARINES KEPT FROM HAITI

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The 500 Marines en route to Haiti to augment the present force of 700 in the Negro republic, have been diverted to Guantanamo, Cuba, the State Department announced this afternoon.

Secretary of State Stimson said he had wireless messages sent to the United States destroyer Wright, carrying the Marines, not to proceed to Haiti because "the situation there has clarified itself."

This action, Stimson said, was taken on recommendation of Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, United States commissioner in Haiti.

He issued this statement:

"Cables received this morning indicate that the situation in Haiti is better and that the cities where disturbances broke out are now under control.

"For this reason, on recommendation of Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, it has been decided that there is no present need of the additional force of Marines and the Wright has been diverted and sent to Guantanamo."

The government did not state how long the Marines, taken from the Quantico, Va., and Paris Island, S. C., barracks, will be kept at Quantanamo, but it is believed they will be held there for some time in event rioting breaks out in Haiti anew.

More than a million automobile owners in Pennsylvani have not received their 1930 licenses, according to figures supplied by the State Highway Department. Secretary Paul C. Wolff, of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, announced today in urging motorists to make early application for next year's plates.

After midnight, December 31, owners may not use 1929 plates, he pointed out.

Harrisburg dispatches report that the State Highway Department has issued about 400,000 plates, at the rate of 15,000 daily.

During 1929 1,523,950 passenger cars were licensed in Pennsylvania, almost 100,000 more than in 1928. Preparations have been made to license about 100,000 more cars in 1930 than were put on the road this year.

LIQUOR IN AUTO, DRIVER HELD

Marion Delmastro, 19, of 68 Washington street, was arrested by prohibition agents last night when 80 gallons of moonshine was found in an automobile he was driving at Broad street and Frankstown avenue, agents reported. The car and liquor were seized.

In South Fork the agents raided a dwelling where they seized 33 52-gallon barrels of whisky and 208 gallons of wine, and arrested Dominic Meri, 44, and Paul Chickolene, 51, according to their report.

Three other raids netted the dry officers two stills and large quantites of moonshine, it was said.

Indict Labor Agent, No License Charged

W. R. Jones, with offices in the Fitzsimmons Building, was indicted by the county grand jury yesterday on a charge of operating an employment agency without a state license. J. W. Borland, investigator for the State Department of Labor and Industry, charges that Jones enrolled students in his school, called the Radio Corporation of Pennsylvania, with the promise that he would obtain work for them.

Lindsey, Disbarred, Plans To Open Domestic Forum

DENVER, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Ben B. Lindsey, former Denver Juvenile Court judge and exponent of the doctrine of companionate marriage, announced today he would not contest the decision of the State Supreme Court disbarring him from the practice of law in Colorado.

He said he would devote his time to establishing a legal reform which he calls "The House of Human Welfare." This would consist of a commission of specialists to settle divorce cases and domestic difficulties without the aid of courts. A psychiatrist, a medical specialist and a specially trained lawyer would comprise the commision.

Lindsey asserted the disbarment case against him was inspired by lawyers opposed to his activities along this line and by political enemies.

The Colorado Supreme Court disbarred the former jurist as the result of his acceptance of $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, of New York, in the settlement of a will case, and $10,000 from her attorney, Samuel Untermyer, of New York.

Lindsey said:

"I did not ask or charge anything for my arbitration services, but Mrs. Stokes and her attorney wished to settle $200 a month on myself and wife as a sort of pension for the voluntary service such as I had done for thousands of poor mothers.

"I refused to accept it unless it was approved by the judge of the court in Denver having charge of the estate of the Stokes children. That court not only approved but heartily recommended it as did other eminent members of the bar."

War Comrades at Banquet Sound Hochs for Kaiser

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Hochs for the Kaiser resounded at a banquet given last night by old war comrades to Field Marshal Mackensen, veteran German soldier, on the occasion of his eightieth birthday.

Last night's banquet which had all the military pomp of past days was attended by the former crown prince in the full uniform of the Black Hussars and his brothers, Eitel, August and Oscar, as well as brilliantly uniformed generals from the former Kaiser's army.

The hall was decorated with the imperial colors and rang with hochs for the Kaiser called by Admiral Von Schroeder. Field Marshal Mackensen, wearing the uniform of the Death Head Hussars and numerous orders, thanked the company for the cheers for their "noble kaiser and king" which he said had given the meeting due consecration.

"We do not belong to those ungrateful ones who forget what the kaiser has done for the army and the fatherland's prestige," he said. "He was our best comrade. The World War is not yet ended. The struggle for Germany's future continues. I hope to witness the beginning of the fatherland's resurgence, although I cannot expect to live to see its consummation."

He then expressed hope that a new German army was in the making in which the old Prussian virtues and spirits would prevail. The enthusiasm of the guests reached its highest point when a band played famous old army marches, a great crowd outside the hall watched the revival of the pre-war military splendor.

President Von Hindenberg, who is an old friend of Field Marshal Mackensen, had him for luncheon today.

Man Gets 3 Years, Sister Year for Half Pint

TOWANDA, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Evidence consisting of less than a half-pint of whisky found in the wall of his store has resulted in George Vogle, of Towanda, being sentenced to serve three years in the county jail and to pay a $5,000 fine and costs.

The decision was handed down by Judge Charles M. Culber, who also sentenced Vogle's sister, Ruby, to serve one year and pay $1,000 fine and costs for violation of the prohibition law.

Federal prohibition agents testified at the trial that 13 five-gallon cans, also found in Vogle's establishment, although empty, gave evidence of having contained intoxicants. Another brother and sister, Fred and Caroline Vogle, are awaiting sentence pending an appeal for a new trial.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A sentence of two years in the county prison and a fine of $200 was imposed today on Edward Beaner, 28, after a jury convicted him of illegally possessing a half pint of liquor. The liquor was found in a side pocket of his automobile. He has served two shorter terms previously for the same offense. The sentence was imposed by Judge Thomas of Carbon County, substituting in Quarter sessions court.

BORAH HEADING WORLD COURT OPPOSITION

Western Senator Organizing Senate Bloc for Fight On Ratification of Pact

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The United States is still many months from entering the World Court if it becomes a member at all.

Administration leaders in the Senate do not expect the protocol of the court, signed yesterday in Geneva by American Charge d'Affaires J. D. Moffat, to be submitted for ratification until next session.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has already begun to organize opposition to ratification, it was indicated today, and when the pact once reaches the upper chamber the fight for ratification is expected to be prolonged. Borah declared he was ready at any time to meet the issue and lead the fight against approval.

WALSH FOR PACT

Administration leaders and Democrats who have favored entry of this country into the court, declare that the Root-Hurst formula successfully negotiated last summer at Geneva to meet the Senate's reservation on advisory opinions, fully protects American interests.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, is expected to support ratification when the fight begins.

Lined up against the World Court will be the old band of irreconcilables, including Senators Moses (Rep.), of New Hampshire, and Johnson (Rep.), of California. Senator Swanson (Dem.), of Virginia, author of the famous fifth reservation on advisory opinions, may also continue his opposition.

There is some feeling among the irreconcilables that the Root-Hurst formula, designed to make entry of the United States possible, actually weakens the Senate's reservation, and this may draw considerable support to Senator Borah's camp.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

On the other hand, in administration circles, the Stimson letter to President Hoover is looked upon as a clear legal argument for American participation on the ground that both under a rule of the court made in the Eastern Karelia case (when Russia declined to submit a dispuate with Finland) and the Root-Hurst amendments to the court's charter, no advisory opinion could be handed down or even considered without the consent of the United States.

Another phase of the World Court controversy, which is expected to rally the old League opponents to the Borah camp, is the belief held by them that entry into the World Court is merely letting the United States into the League of Nations through the back door. But again Stimson anticipated this in his letter to the President, pointing out that although the present court was initiated by the League, its existence was not the act of the League, but that of some 50 odd states outside that body, and many of them were not League members.

GIRL CLUBBER ARRESTED

JANESVILLE, Wis., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Lloyd Fathers, whom police are sure is the "perfumed slugger" whose attacks on women aroused a section of the Pacific Northwest last year, was held here today for Seattle officers.

Illinois officials, too, showed interest in him. They wanted to know if he was in or near Rockford, Ill., Saturday night when Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, school teacher, was killed. Officers here, however, scouted the theory.

A score of attacks upon women last year were laid to the same man because the victims all said the attacker was strongly scented with a heliotrope perfume. Sheriff Charles Gary, made his identification of Fathers through pictures of the wanted man.

SIGN ORDINANCE PRESENTED

Safety Director James M. Clark has presented to Council an ordinance substituting an existing measure that is considered obsolete for the regulation of outdoor advertising signs.

The ordinance classifies signs as ground sign boards, roof sign boards, wall bulletins and projecting signs.

The measure provides that signs projecting over and above sidewalks must be illuminated from dusk until midnight every day except Sunday.

PROVISIONS LISTED

The ordinance further includes the following provisions:

No sign now erected shall be rebuilt or relocated unless in compliance with the pending ordinance and then only after a permit has been obtained from the bureau of building inspection.

No sign of any kind shall be permitted that would obstruct fire escapes, windows and doors. Signs attached to fire escapes are prohibited.

All signs must be marked plainly with the name of the person, firm or corporation that erected and maintains the sign.

Advertising by sign tacking, pasting, or tying on poles, trees, buildings, bridges, fences or structures on city property is prohibited.

Circus signs are permitted only by a special license issued by the safety director.

MUST POST BOND

If an owner fails to comply with an official order to remove a sign it will be removed by the bureau of building inspection and the owner charged with the cost of removal.

Owners of sign boards must post a $5,000 bond with the city to guarantee observance of the ordinance.

Violators of the measure are liable to a fine of $100 with an alternative of 30 days in jail.

Power Trust Conceals, Pads Huge Lobby Costs

The Sun-Telegraph today publishes the second of a series of three articles by M. L. Ramsay, Washington correspondent of Universal Service, revealing the huge lobby activities of the Power Trust hitherto undisclosed. Here is an inside account of the Trust's operations in this country. Today's story tells how the Trust pads lobbying costs which are charged against unregulated consumers of the company.

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Lobbying costs which were a part of the Power Trust's plan to acquire and exploit the whole hydro-electric power resources of the country were at once concealed and padded by charges made to an unregulated corporation controlled by it, was disclosed today.

This concern, known as the Dixie Construction Company, was created, staffed and owned by the Alabama Power Company, it is shown in records of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

The commission's records which Universal Service has examined at Birmingham and Montgomery detail the results of a three year investigation, still going on, of the Alabama company's attempt to charge up many challenged expenditures to consumers and taxpayers, as part of the "cost" of hydro-electric plants.

The $27,000 payments for lobbying made to C. A. Beasley, and most of the payments making up the $35,186 total paid to Josiah T. Newcomb, present Power Lobby head, were made through the Dixie Construction Company. One result was to keep these payments secret until auditors of the Alabama commission and the Federal Power Commission got into the books several years later.

Overhead Added

Another was to charge up to rate payers and taxpayers not only the amount of the actual payments but an added 10 per cent of this amount. The Dixie company in billing the Alabama company superimposed this fee on everything entering into the claimed cost of the construction work done by the Dixie company.

The fee was officially challenged by engineers as a mere transfer of money from one pocket of the Alabama Power Company to another with a charge levied against taxpayers and rate payers by the transfer.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company admitted under questioning by Chief Engineer L. F. McDonnell handling the Alabama commission's field investigation that the fee added to the Newcomb payments should be eliminated. He insisted the payments themselves were a proper charge.

Three Alabama Power Company employes organized the Dixie company. They were acting for the power company and the Dixie stock they held was really owned by the power company, it was admitted by Perry W. Turner, power company counsel.

Officers Interlock

About 40 per cent of the power company employes were transferred to the rolls of the construction company when the latter was organized. The two companies had the same secretary, treasurer and a vice president.

C. G. Thurlow, who was another vice president of the Dixie company and its ranking executive officer, was at the same time chief engineer of the power company. In the latter capacity he designed Mitchell Dam, a hydro-electric project on the Coosa river. Nearly half the claimed "cost" of this dam has been either rejected or held in abeyance by the federal commission's accounting division.

After designing the dam Thurlow, as Dixie's vice president, drafted a bid for the job of building it. As the power company's chief engineer he helped pass on this bid before the power company accepted it.

Thurlow then directed the building of the dam as Dixie's vice president, the records show, while "instructing" and "supervising" as the power company's chief engineer. As the head of the force of inspectors representing the Alabama company—but paid by the Dixie company—he looked upon his own handiwork and pronounced it good.

Much of the power company's overhead expense was charged to the Dixie company, after which the power company was billed these charges with the 3 per cent fee added. Thurlow, in one capacity or another, determined what proportions of the expense should be so charged and billed.

As recently as October, 1928, the power company was still insisting that the Dixie company was an "independent organization." Lamar Aldridge, power company treasurer, when asked who the Dixie stockholders were, replied:

Fees Disputed

"I am not prepared to say."

President Hugh White, of the Alabama commission, interposed that "if the Alabama Power Company did the work for itself it might be a question whether it would be authorized, under the law, to pay itself a fee of 3 per cent for doing the work for itself."

Aldridge contended the fee was proper, adding:

"It (Dixie) was an independent organization."

White asked if it was "reasonable" for the power company to buy machinery for Mitchell Dam, pay for it, bill the charge to Dixie as part of the construction job, and have Dixie bill it back to the power company with a 3 per cent fee added.

Aldridge said it was.

The Dixie company's records were scattered and long inaccessible. Ultimately the power company had them sent to Birmingham after the official auditors had gone to the present Dixie offices in New York and demanded them.

At the next hearing Turner, as power company counsel, still contended that legally the records had no place in the proceeding, as Dixie was a non-utility and there was merely "an affiliation or association" between the two companies.

The power companies are free, in many states, to enter into contracts with affiliated companies for services, without approval or supervision by the state commissions. In the last notable attempt to find out the real cost of these services—that of the Federal Trade Commission in the Electric Bond and Share Company case—the company took refuge in the courts and was in part upheld.

Shares Transferred

The Alabama records show that in 1922, a year before Mitchell Dam was completed, the Dixie shares owned by the power company were transferred to the Winona Coal Company. This concern, however, was like the power company, a subsidiary of the holding company then known as the Alabama Traction Light and Power Company.

This Canadian holding company was succeeded by the Southeastern Power and Light Company, long affiliated with Electric Bond and Share and recently become a part of the Morgan group, with which Electric Bond and Share is considered closely associated.

Thurlow testified that it was "embarrassing" in the early days to explain Dixie's status to the Dun and Bradstreet local agents.

"But those days," he added, "have passed."

The Dixie company has grown up. It has not only established New York offices but increased its capital stock from 750 shares to 150,000. All of these are owned by Southeastern. Southeastern also owns all common stock of the Alabama Power Company.

The Dixie company now collects fees not only from the Alabama Power Company but from the Georgia Power Company, the Mississippi Power Company, the Gulf Power Company (Florida), and the South Carolina Power Company.

All these companies likewise are controlled by Southeastern.

TRADE SERVICE NETS $300,000

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Benefits in excess of $300,000 accrued to business firms in the Pittsburgh district during the past year through operations of the branch office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein reported in a communication today to Senator David A. Reed.

Reviewing the activities of the Pittsburgh branch, the Commerce Department official said:

"During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, 24 firms reported voluntarily that they had secured new business or had benefited by preventive services to the extent of $321,575 through the efforts of the Pittsburgh office. The preventive services were in the form of savings through negative information leading to the curtailment of certain unwise export plans, the discouragement of expenditures in exploiting dubious markets, etc. This office is serving some 596 Western Pennsylvania and Ohio firms so that the total results of the trade promotive efforts of the office are probably many times the figures mention, many firms reporting that it was impossible to estimate the dollars and cents results, but paying high tribute to the service by the Pittsburgh branch.

"I am sure you will agree that in view of the modest budget of that office, which is less than $15,000, and the fact that the office was in operation only nine months of the last fiscal year, the above figure represents a decidedly substantial 'dividend' for the taxpayers."

Man Struck By Auto Of Lieut. Gov. James

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Struck by the car of Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James last night, Joseph Antonmiles, 36, of Luzerne, had his skull and an arm fractured and suffered body contusions. The accident occurred on the Narrows road, between Plymouth and Kingston, the victim being on his way home from work. He was picked up by Lieut. Gov. James and A. S. Galland, and rushed to general hospital in Wilkes-Barre.

Spanish Town Hit By Water Spout

FERROL, Spain, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A water spout at the little town of Mugardos destroyed houses and San Antonio church. Residents escaped unhurt. Roads were blocked by poles and trees felled by the cyclone. The general storm in this section has caused the death of two sailors, and it has been impossible to carry on fishing operations for days.

Author of Famous Hymn Dies At Age of 78

ROCKLAND, Me., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Rev. Edward S. Ufford, who composed the hymn, "Throw Out the Life Line," died yesterday at his home in Union at the age of 78.

On a world tour a few years ago he heard sung in a score of languages this hymn, the four stanzas of which, while a young evangelistic preacher, he was inspired to write in less than half an hour while conducting services in the village square at Westwood, Mass.

The thought flashed across his mind, "they need a life line," he explained, as he felt the youth of that day was slipping away from the influence of the church and that steps must be taken to save them.

The aprons are all full length, slip easily over the head and tie at the back. You will want some of these aprons for yourself, too, when you see the pretty colorings. Also a selection of aprons, 2 for $1.00.

Gov. Fisher and Grundy Are Denounced

manding place among the lobbyists in the national capital and that his "chief contribution to political life has consisted of the raising of funds for political campaigns."

INFERENCE DRAWN

Because of these declarations the report said the inference is irresistible" that he believed he "would be able to influence the action of his party associates in the Congress." There was no doubt, the report continued, of his "ardent attachment to the principle of protection and it could not be overlooked that he has grown rich in the pursuit of a highly protective industry."

Senator Caraway in commenting on the report called attention to a statement by Grundy that he was undecided whether he would accept a Senate seat if tendered to him by Gov. Fisher.

"Whenever they make up their minds, whether it is one or otherwise," said Caraway, "Mr. Grundy will speak, but in the meantime he seeks upon the occasion, when for a little time he is in the public limelight so that he can be called to assail some of us who were opposed to the seating of Mr. Vare.

"Following the example and lead of the patriotic and wise mayor of Philadelphia who scornfully said that women were not paid for their political activities because they were not worth it, he referred to the Senator from Nebraska and myself as being effiminate.

"Mr. Grundy modestly states that he is undecided whether he will accept a seat in this body or not which it is forecast will be offered him by the Governor of Pennsylvania. I want to correct that last statement, not on the Governor of Pennsylvania but by the people who bought and paid for the office the Governor of Pennsylvania now occupies."

The committee report said Grundy as a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Committee for Pennsylvania, raised nearly $700,000 in the last campaign and that a large part of this sum was contributed by manufacturers interested in tariff rates.

CITES SCOFFING

The report said that Grundy while "scoffing" at the idea that the consumer pays any additional amount on account of the tariff, was not prepared to extend that view to include manganese.

Nor did he offer any reason why, it said, if the price of manganese would not be increased the steel manufacturers of his state offered "such stubborn resistance" to the imposition of it duty. Neither could he find this reasoning applicable to agricultural products, the report further declared.

The committee also reported that Grundy had failed to submit any evidence to it to substantiate his charge that some southern and western states "do not pay enough toward the upkeep of the government to cover the cost of collection."

"He was further obliged to admit," the report added, "that there was no truth in the statement that states like Pennsylvania support what he denominated backward commonwealths."

"The consumer does not figure at all in Mr. Grundy's views in respect to tariff legislation," the report went on. "They constitute, he says, a part of the 25,000,000 who voted the Republican ticket in 1928, giving a mandate to revise the tariff, a mandate he construes to signify such a revision as the leaders of the party shall propose, to antagonize which is treason on the part of any other of its members.

"In view of his complaint that the rates in the pending bill are not high enough, one is prompted to speculate on whether his loyalty would withstand a downward revision should such a course be advocated or pursued by those same party leaders."

APPOINTMENT HELD UP

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Gov. John S. Fisher announced today that no appointment of a United States senator from Pennsylvania to fill the seat made vacant by the ousting of William S. Vare will be made today.

The announcement was believed to have been made in order to squelch rumors that an appointment would be made tonight after the Governor and his cabinet return from the funeral of Congressman W. W. Griest at Lancaster this afternoon.

It is believed that the naming of Joseph R. Grundy to the vacant Senate seat will be made by Gov. Fisher tomorrow. The Governor has been in telephonic communication with most of the county leaders regarding the appointment and expects to get in touch with W. L. Mellon, former state chairman, tonight.

Mellon has just returned from Florida and is in Washington today.

Though the result is not to be attributed wholly to him, the report added, those who contributed, at his instance, to the campaign, could gain some idea of the value of his services in connection with the tariff from the fact that in 65 of the leading industries of Pennsylvania, the pending tariff bill recommends raises in 42.

These it said, signified added profits to the manufacturers of the state if the rates became effective, of $1,186,000,000 as compared by an expert of the Department of Commerce.

STORM DEATHS REACH 163

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Known deaths in the terrific storm which has battered Great Britain and the continental coast for the past week today reached 163, most of them at sea.

The heaviest losses were in the waters around the British Isles where at least 69 vessels were wrecked or badly damaged.

Partial reports showed that 52 lives had been lost on the French coast or inland while at least a half dozen steamers and fishing vessels foundered or were badly damaged.

Among the latest vessels to call for aid was the British steamship Mathar, from Philadelphia for London, whose rudder was carried away. The vessel was navigated with an improvised rudder and hoped to make port Tuesday.

The stormy waters had quieted somewhat this afternoon but there were signs of worse to come.

England's chief worry for the moment was the high water in the Thames and other rivers, leading to fear of a repetition of last year's serious floods.

PARIS, Dec 10.—(AP.)—France had something of a respite today from the wild storm that has been sweeping the coast and the inland districts, costing 52 lives and the loss of at least half a dozen steamers and fishing vessels as well as enormous property damage.

The National Weather Bureau predicted new gales, beginning tomorrow.

A full checkup of the loss of life and property was unobtainable.

Young Warns British Leading Cable Field

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—British supremacy and control in the communications field is imminent unless American companies combine and build up an organization strong enough to compete with the heavily subsidized British Imperial Communications tie-up, Owen D. Young, Radio Corporation of America, chairman, told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee this afternoon.

On the stand for the second day, Young continued to hammer away at his argument in behalf of monopoly in communications or government ownership.

Schwab to Give Business Outlook on Air Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

AMOS and Andy are not the only folks who will gaze into a crystal ball tonight. Out in Chicago, Charles M. Schwab will conduct a seance into future business conditions when Illinois manufacturers gather for their annual banquet in the Hotel LaSalle. The steel magnate's message will be brought to Pittsburgh at 10:30 by WJAS.

Sophie Braslau, whose resonant contralto voice is particularly adapted to radio broadcasting, will do Rubinstein's "Romance," Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of the Bride" and other selections in the Around the World concert through KDKA at 8:30.

Old Gold Hour, WJAS at 9, will present the Brox Sisters with Paul Whiteman at the last minute arrangement.

Requests for "The Old Rugged Cross" are piled high on the desk of the Sacred Song sponsor that the lovely philanthropic woman finds it almost necessary to include the song every other week. We shall hear it tonight at 7:30 over KDKA.

If the boys at KQV are really serious about the way they are, we shall hear Jolanne Marvin with his nine-piece orchestra at 7:30 p. m. At this hour, also, we shall hear Ernest Raboch, baritone, as the star of Parkway Playtime over WJAS.

"Comin' Thro' the Rye" will be a solo by Virginia Harmon, petite soprano, during the WCAE Song Story at 7:45.

We Now Present

A man very much foodle-oo called WJAS requested a contralto to sing "Sweetheart of Sig McCoy."

Won't somebody take a ride in Glenn Riggs' new auto?

Answer to R. I. W.—Milton J. Cross still sings the opening and close of Slumber Music.

Mary Ann, Don Bestor's three year old, likes her daddy very much and sometimes sits up like a trouper until 3 a. m. while he takes the band through its brass calisthenics.

FINE, FRED. How well Frederick G. Rodgers did "Lover, Come Back to Me" last night cannot be expressed in words.

Max Kroen, baritone on the Sacred Songs tonight, and Edward Kroen, "Laith" of the Singing School over WCAE, are brothers. There's still another, Vincent, who is heard much in radio work too.

Dear Kris Kringle:

Bring me an auto that doesn't burn so much gas. And a bigger and better law business. And a coal stove for my room. And a big chicken for Albert. And bring Don Bestor something real nice. And a set of blocks, stocking full of candy, kiddie car, and don't burn your whiskers coming down the chimney. And don't forget my friends the Eskimos.

Your little boy,
Lou Kaufman.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

After explaining in hoarse voice the beneficial effects of a new cold medicine over the air the other night, a local announcer received a call from a woman listener who wanted to know why he didn't use it.

SOPHIE BRASLAU

Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of the Bride" will be sung by Sophie Braslau on the 8:30 concert through KDKA tonight.

"The Chief," knowing that his time is limited, and that he must disappear, decides on one last grand gesture. He warns Jimmy that on a certain evening he will steal the City Charter. Every available reserve policeman is called and in an effort to outwit the grand old man of crime, the authorities even resort to the use of a squad of airplanes. ENDURING GIFTS

How many of us treasure the silver cup or spoon given us "when we were little" and jealously pass them down to our own youngsters! Or the watch or ring given us by Dad on our twenty-first birthday. Gifts of jewelry or silver are like that—and when measured by the enduring pleasure they afford, aren't they truly the least expensive gifts you can buy?

Move this radio anywhere . . . . it needs no aerial . . . . . .

And that's only one of the big, important differences between SILVER RADIO and ordinary sets. For radios may "all look alike"—but oh, what a difference when you listen to them evening after evening!

Outwardly, a SILVER RADIO is merely an ornament to any home. Inwardly, those four screen-grid tubes, with Silver-Marshall's two years of screen-grid experience behind them, make SILVER RADIO from 12 to 38 times more powerful than other sets—that's why it needs no aerial. Coming from such a laboratory, SILVER RADIO naturally has all the things that make a radio ultra-modern, as well as features scarcely found anywhere else—like screen-grid power detection, and the Overtone Switch for tonal brilliancy and for minimizing static.

Such excellence, naturally, has placed SILVER RADIO in the homes of many an opera star and musical authority. Yet SILVER is sold at a price that always was low—it will not be reduced.

Ask your dealer today to show you the "4 Amazing Tests" that have proved to so many the far greater value you get in a SILVER.

4 screen-grid tubes—needs no aerial for local or distance reception. Clear, humless reception, extreme distance-range and selectivity result from the exclusive combination of screen-grid power detection, band-selector tuning, and the famous Overtone Switch, minimizing static interference.

SILVER RADIO is available in an ample variety of cabinets. The Concert Grand (illustrated) is priced, without tubes, at $173

ACCEPTS G. O. P. CAMPAIGN JOB

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Theodore Gary, telephone magnate, announced that he would accept the post of treasurer of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

He did not learn of his election by the committee until he arrived here last night from his home at Macon, Mo. The capitalist said he had notified Republican leaders in Washington that he would accept the post if chosen by the committee.

"I am unfamiliar with the duties of the treasurer of the senatorial campaign committee," Gary said. "I probably will make a trip to Washington as soon as possible to familiarize myself with them. I will give the committee the best of my ability."

NINE MEN HELD FOR ATTACK

Accused of having attacked Constable Frank Kossan, of Snowden Township, Superintendent Wilbur Phillips and Foreman James Humes, of Mine No. 10, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company near Library, have been held for court. The men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. P. Burke, of Library, on Saturday. Phillips is charged with obstructing a process, aggravated assault and battery and interfering with an officer. Humes was charged with interference and larceny. Both posted bond.

Kossan, it is said, tried to serve a subpena on a mine employe and Phillips refused to permit him to enter the mine company property. In a scuffle that followed, Phillips is alleged to have knocked the constable down and Humes then is alleged to have taken his revolver.

DISCHARGED, HE SUES COMPANY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—Charging he was made the victim of a plot to arrest and disgrace him, Charles D. Tolliver, now of Colorado, has filed suit here against the Valley Camp Coal Company, of Lower Burrell Township, and operating a mine at Kinloch, asking $5,000 damages.

Tolliver claims that on December 7, 1927, he was evicted from a company house he occupied and was discharged. He claims that Thomas White, an agent of the coal company, "planted" three bottles of moonshine whisky in the house and then called county detectives, who arrested him.

After being in jail here for nearly a month, Tolliver says he was discharged on payment of costs and the case against him dismissed.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BACK HOOVER ON WORLD COURT

The Pittsburgh World Court Committee today announced itself heartily in favor of President Hoover's indorsement of the World Court protocol. The local group, a non-partisan organization, has been in existence about two years. Dean Percy G. Kammerer, of Trinity Cathedral, is chairman.

The signing of acceptance to the protocol with the Root formula means the ultimate membership of this country in the World Court, Dean Kammerer said. The protocol is an agreement between this country and member nations of the court, accepting the Senate reservations and outlining how they would work.

When the President signed the protocol yesterday he put into effect the resolution passed by the Senate in 1926, providing for the adherence of the United States to the court.

First Montevideo Air Mail Arrives

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Inaugural air mail from Uruguay arrived at the International Airport of Pan-American Airways, Inc., here late yesterday. The mail, which came from Montevideo, consisted of 69 pounds, 11 ounces, to be distributed throughout the United States.

New York mail, arriving there today, will have made the trip in 10 days, one-half the time required by steamer, officials of the flying company said. The mail left Montevideo at 6:30 a. m., Saturday, November 30.

"Dainty Frock for Teens"

Pattern 1797

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

This season brings the need of many little party frocks for the school girl, and the simpler the frock the more becoming. The adorable model sketched today boasts a daintily scalloped cape collar and a gracefully shirred skirt. A shapely pocket adds a smart touch.

Design 1797 is lovely fashioned of georgette, silk crepe, taffeta or organdie. The collar may be bound in self material or may be picoted. We suggest orchid, green, white, red or yellow with a contrasting touch given through the pert ribbon bow at the neckline.

May be obtained only in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted. The NEW WINTER FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

(Please don't send your pattern orders to Pittsburgh.)

1—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

Again! The Unexpected!

We're starting something in this town on Thursday that's going to make the whole town sit up and take notice! Like all other stores in December, we've been doing the same thing in the same old way. We stocked up with seasonable merchandise, then sat back waiting for the big holiday business. And we were always satisfied with what we got. But changed conditions make necessary changed methods. So we made up our mind to Reach Out After More Business, by staging a Stupendous Three-Day Underpriced event Ten Days Before Christmas. Something unheard-of in the history of retailing. We sent a squad of buyers to New York with this message to the manufacturers:

"Show us the merchandise you have on hand ready for immediate shipments. We'll buy it if you give it to us at Bargain Prices! Haven't much time to argue. Do you want the goods, or do you want the cash?"

Well, you never saw a group of men make up their minds so quickly in all your life. And we never believed it possible to buy Last-Minute Merchandise right before Christmas, at Such Sensational Price Concessions. But nothing is impossible if you have imagination and energy. We are not asking for a vote of thanks, because we are making it possible for thousands of families to Save Money. That's Always a Frank & Seder job! All we ask is that the buying public take advantage of the most extraordinary opportunity ever offered to purchase Practical Christmas Gifts At Less Than Regular Prices.

MORE AIRPLANE BOATS URGED

WASHINGTON Dec 10 (AP)—The military value of aircraft carriers was advanced by the Navy's bureau of aeronautics as the basis for a recommendation that the full upper strength of 135,000 tons permitted under the Washington arms treaty be reached as soon as possible.

This recommendation, which was seconded by Secretary Adams in his report to President Hoover, would involve the construction of four aircraft carriers of approximately the size of the one authorized in the 15-cruiser bill 13,800 tons. The Navy is ready to call for bids on this ship.

21 POLICEMEN FREED BY JURY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec 10 (AP)—Twenty-one policemen who were indicted on charges of bribery and extortion after an investigation by the special August grand jury in 1928, were given clean bills of health by the December grand jury, which ignored the charges.

The jury passed over each name when Morris Clearfield, known during the former investigation as "the man with the little black book," failed to appear in support of the charges.

DRY CHIEF FILES POLICE CHARGE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 10.—The arrest of O. R. Hall, 32, state "under-cover" dry agent, resulted in the suspension of Patrolman Umberto Porreca, 26, by Chief Ross Cunningham, who asked his dismissal from the force. Hall was arrested by Porreca for possession of liquor, but was released after establishing his identity.

Rupert Beetham, Ohio dry commissioner, conducted a personal investigation and demanded the discharge of Porreca, charging that he had been "tipping" bootleggers to the identity of state agents who have been here seeking evidence of prohibition violations.

Porreca claims he filed the possession charge against Hall at the order of Chief Cunningham.

BOOTHS BOOM SEAL SALES

Mrs. J. Leonard Levy, in charge of the Christmas seal booth in the Union Trust Company Building, carried off the honors in the opening day of the booth seal sale yesterday. Before noon Mrs. Levy's booth had disposed of 2,500 seals and at the close of the day sales had mounted toward the $100 mark. Other booths throughout the city also reported generous purchase with many purchasers adding to the number previously sent them by mail.

In addition to the list of booths already announced, the Woman's Club of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Sigmund Stingel, president, sponsored a booth in the Jenkins Arcade. Mrs. James McNeil and Mrs. Stella Medley in charge. Other booths added yesterday and their chairmen were University of Pittsburgh evening school, Miss Ethel Morrow; East Liberty Postoffice, Mrs. Grace Nash; Knoxville Junior High School, Miss Rosemary McMahon; McKees Rocks School, Miss Louise Curry; St. Canice School, Mt. Oliver, Sister Mary John; Homewood Postoffice, Margery Hamilton.

The second in a series of radio talks to be broadcast by Station WCAE in the interest of the Christmas seal sale of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh will be given at 6:55 p. m. today by the Rev. Dr. E. M. McFadden, general superintendent of the New Covenant Mission.

In an address broadcast last evening by Station KQV, Dr. H. B. Burns, director of hygiene, Board of Education, declared that the educational value of the Christmas seal cannot be underestimated.

Remorse, Mother Cause Youth to Admit Thefts

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—An aching conscience and a mother who has old-fashioned ideas about confessing one's sins sent a 20-year-old youth to the prosecuting attorney's office here with a statement that he is guilty of banditry.

The youth, Benny Maslak of Dearborn, told Assistant Prosecutor P. J. M. Hally that he had taken part in two holdups. He and another man, Maslak confessed, took $80 and a watch from a restaurant proprietor December 3, and on the following night held up a shoe store, where they got $12.

Maslak said his conscience kept him awake at night, and finally his mother asked what was the matter. He told her, and she sent him to the prosecutor's office.

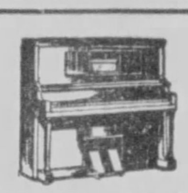
65 PIANOS LOANED FREE



Sixty-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

'White Wings' Due For Christmas Pay

Council, today, will consider a resolution offered by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, transferring $10,000 to provide funds for the Christmas payroll for employes of the division of highway cleaning, commonly called "white wings."

"EVERYTHING I TRIED FAILED EXCEPT KONJOLA"

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Vanish When New Medicine Is Put to Work.

How much better to have health instead of wishing for it. Meet the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street.

Learn why it is that Konjola triumphs even after all else tried has failed. Hear of any number of actual cases of Konjola's amazing victories, as in the case of Mr. Patrick J. Devlin, 2125 Boustead Street, this city. His is a remarkable experience with this new medicine, but not an unusual one. It is just one of tens of thousands of other proofs of Konjola's merits. Konjola is a scientific blend of 32 ingredients that goes speedily to the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and is also recommended for rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Profit by the experiences of others, and be guided by facts. Give Konjola the chance that Mr. Devlin did. Read, now, what he said to the Konjola Man:

"Everything I tried failed me except Konjola, and due to this really wonderful medicine I am enjoying health that I feared I would never have again. For four years I suffered from indigestion, kidney trouble, and constipation. Continual suffering from these ailments brought on nervousness, and my whole system became weak and rundown. Every meal was followed by pain and misery. I was forced to get up several times each night on account of irregular bladder actions. I feared I never would find a way of escape as medicine after medicine failed to give any relief.

"But what a change Konjola made in my life. My ailments were of long standing and were deeply seated, but Konjola seemed to go right to the bottom of my case and within two weeks I noticed some improvement. That gave me encouragement and I eagerly continued with the treatment. I did not miss a dose in the next few weeks and my reward is new health. My bowels are regular; my appetite is fine, and I eat what I want without the least indigestion. I sleep better and feel better than I have for years. Why, the change that Konjola made in me is almost beyond belief. I am fully convinced that Konjola was a life-saver for me."

On such experiences rests the fame of Konjola, the medicine that has won and kept more than a million friends.

There is a Konjola Man in Pittsburgh at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, where daily he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new compound. Konjola is also sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

TOKIO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the vernacular papers here today said that more than 900 Korean students were arrested at Seoul today following riots that necessitated mobilization of the entire Seoul police force. King's Thanksgiving Fund $3,497,000

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The King's Thanksgiving Fund closed with a total of £689,597, or approximately $3,497,000. The fund included an anonymous gift of 100,000 guineas (more than a half million dollars) from "Auda."

The money will be devoted, in thanks for the recovery of the King from his illness of last winter, to various hospitals and for the purchase of radium through the National Radium Fund.

A day that might have meant so much—and she has to be excused. What a pity there's a woman left who does not know of Midol! One or two tablets in time, and not a twinge of pain throughout the periodic process. Or an end to such suffering at any time, five to seven minutes after Midol is taken. Yet this merciful medicine is non-narcotic. Its wonderful results are due to the fact it acts directly on the organs affected; so it's utterly harmless, and it is only common sense to use it. Midol comes in a clever little case of metal you can slip in the smallest purse. And the cost of this comfort is fifty cents.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Weather Conditions.

Cloudy weather continues over much the greater portion of the country, and dense fog is reported over a large area in the central and southern plains, with misting rain at scattered places and snow in the Border states. The temperature changes were slight, but toward rising generally. The principal low pressure area is centered over the state of Washington, lowest barometer 29.32 inches and extends southeastward to the southern plains. High pressure, in the form of a long ridge extends from the East Gulf states northeastward over the Atlantic coast and the Appalachian Mountain states to Canada, thence westward over the Canadian provinces to Manitoba, where the pressure is above 30.70 inches.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly, or about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 5.6 feet; Parkers Landing, 8.8; Lock No. 7, 13.0; Pittsburgh, 14.3; Dam No. 2, 11.6; Dam No. 6, 12.0; Dam No. 9, 11.9, and Dam No. 12, 8.6. The dams are down. The ice from the Youghiogheny River passed Pittsburgh during last night. Most of the Allegheny ice is gorged in the Sixth pool. It raised the water to within 15 inches of the bridge at Kittanning during last night. This is a very bad gorge and will cause a very serious condition there if it does not pass out before cold weather sets in again.

OVER 2 MILL TAX RAISE FORECAST

Garland Declares Big Boost Necessary If Estimates For 1930 Needs Stand

Robert Garland, chairman of the budget committee, today said taxes would have to be raised 2½ mills to meet department estimates of expenses totaling $27,533,350 for next year.

Mayor Kline submitted the budget a few weeks ago with a letter stating the appropriation requests were $1,930,750 higher than those for the current year and would require an additional tax of a mill on land and a half mill on buildings. The current levy is 25 and 12½ mills.

VALUATION ESTIMATES

Council developed today through Thomas C. McMahon, chief assessor, that the estimated valuations for next year were $576,702,320 on land and $584,700,610 on buildings. Garland called attention to the fact that it will be the first time in history of Pittsburgh that the building valuations exceeded that of land.

Increased valuations on buildings are caused entirely by the erection of new structures and will yield approximately $375,000 additional revenue. Deducting that amount from the increase of next year's estimates over this year's appropriations leaves a balance of $1,555,750 which must be eliminated from department requests or met with an increased levy.

CONTINUE MEETING

President of Council James F. Malone declared that a mill would yield about $675,000, so that it appeared the levy for next year would have to be increased about 2 1-3 mills on the basis of present estimates of expenses.

Council will continued meetings on the budget today and will repeat them at night if necessary until the tax levy is fixed for next year.

Garland instructed City Clerk Robert Clark to arrange for a public hearing at 10 a. m. Thursday for all interested persons desiring to discuss methods of avoiding a tax increase.

Garland instructed Clark to invite members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Building Owners' and Managers' Associations who have asked for hearings and also other commercial and civic organizations.

Confesses Triangle, Must Pay $50 or Do 30 Days

Peter Ribinski, 55, of 2217 James street told Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today, that he would rather have one woman like the one he admitted he now supports than a dozen like his wife

Brandon told Ribinski he could pay $50 fine or spend 30 days in jail.

Mrs. Erma Ribinski, the wife, accused Peter of kicking, punching and failing to support her. She also blamed him for the disappearance yesterday of $170, with which she intended to pay her taxes.

The husband denied taking the money. He said a policeman friend of his wife's had taken it.

Overbrook Board Makes Nominations

The Overbrook Board of Trade has made the following nominations of officers for next year: President, Richard Owen; vice president, C. G. Bentel; secretary, P. C. Mayfield; treasurer, R. T. Camin.

Driver Ousts Passenger To Rob Her Home

In the auto which she had hired to be driven to Cleveland, Mrs. Ida Kelly, of 7725 Hamilton avenue, was telling her companion of expensive jewelry left at home.

The driver, hearing, stopped the auto, explained that there was engine trouble and regretted that the two women would have to go to Cleveland by other transportation. That was near Beaver Falls.

The driver returned to Pittsburgh, forced entrance to the Kelly home and took jewelry and other articles worth $1,200.

Mrs. Kelly told the story in North Side Police Court today. The driver, John Broadhead, 37, of East street, admitted it was the truth.

Broadhead and two companions, Morris Cohen, 37, of Sandusky street, and Thomas Irwin, 21, of Neptune street, had been arrested Saturday in Woods Run. They admitted robbing 17 places, drugstores, grocery stores and such, in the North Side and Bellevue.

One-third of the loot, valued at $6,500, has been recovered, includ-Mrs. Kelly's jewelry, police testified.

The three prisoners were held for court.

Bill Rogers

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 10.—Say, did you know that an old country boy from just 28 miles from Claremore, Okla., was secretary of war? His name is Pat Hurley, and he is making good right from the jump too. He hadn't any more than been appointed than he hatched one with Haiti.

Course, that's not much of a one, but it may lead into something bigger and better. Due to Pat we are liable to wake up some day with presidential timber on our hands right down home. He was appointed because he had fought in two wars and six Oklahoma impeachments.

He was like Mr. Hoover, soon to realize that while the Democrats were always right, they are seldom president so he relinquished his social standing and joined the great unwashed majority.

Yours for the home town boys.

WILL.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

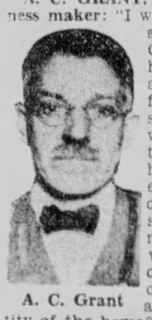
Today's Question: In Russia, you can get a divorce in 15 minutes. Would you like that system here?

Mary Smith

MARY SMITH, East End, stenographer: "I don't believe in divorce at all. I believe in a difficult divorce, however, if we must have it. A difficult divorce will cut down our divorce rate. If a person gets married, he ought to stay married."

Carrie Berger

MISS CARRIE BERGER, Etna, sales expert: "I'd rather have a little time to think about it. You can't say very much in 15 minutes, or bring in all the evidence. The evidence must come out. No, I don't think I'd like it. We want a tee-total divorce and a few shocks in each case."



A. C. Grant

A. C. GRANT, Ben Avon, harness maker: "I would not. It isn't according to God's plan to have divorces at all. He planned for people to stay married. It would do harm to the people to have such an easy system of divorce. Divorce should be hard, not easy. How would the children be taken care of? How about the sanctity of the home?"

Alice Peglow

MISS ALICE PEGLOW, Beltzhoover, stenographer: "That wouldn't be a bad idea. In some cases, it would solve our unhappy marriage question. It would raise our divorce rate, however, and I'm not sure that's so good."

Ruth Schreiber

MISS RUTH SCHREIBER, Dormont, bookkeeper: I'd think about getting married before I'd think about divorce. I can't think about divorce. If I were married, it might be different. Still, it might be easier to get a husband if he could get a divorce easier!"

Chris Knowlan

CHRIS KNOWLAN, Shadyside, fireman: "It's a little short. When a man and wife can't get along, they should be able to obtain a divorce without the time and expense involved under the present laws, however."

PROSECUTOR SPRAINS ANKLE

Four Important Witnesses Among Missing as Case's Delay Is Announced

The trial of Alfred W. Forney, reputed slot machine racketeer, was postponed indefinitely in Criminal Court today because of the absence of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, who is confined to his home with a sprained ankle.

Judge H. H. Rowand announced the postponement from the bench after a conference in chambers with Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty and Attorney Hiram D. Hirsh, representing Forney, who is charged with maintaining gambling devices and being a common gambler.

SIX-WEEK DELAY SEEN

Gardner is reported to have slipped on the floor of his home in Tarentum and may be confined to his home for six weeks, his first assistant, Andrew T. Park, said. The Forney case, he asserted, was too important to go on without the District Attorney's presence.

WITNESSES IN CANADA

Four important witnesses are deer hunting in Canada and this also is said to have influenced the commonwealth in asking for postponement. Hirsh said he was ready to place Forney on trial at any time.

Forney recently surrendered after having been a fugitive bail jumper for eight months. He is at liberty under $6,000 bond.

WILL CHRISTEN NEW TRAIN

The Pennsylvania Railroad's new afternoon train to Philadelphia, the Duquesne, will make its inaugural run Sunday afternoon, when Mayor Charles H. Kline and President James Rea, of the Chamber of Commerce, will sever the silken ribbon barrier to release it.

A representative of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society will christen the train with a bottle of water dipped from the "Point," the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers to form the Ohio.

E. W. Smith, vice-president; Harry Oliver, traffic manager; R. M. Flocker, passenger traffic manager; J. H. Redding, general superintendent, and F. L. Dobson, divisional superintendent, will be among those taking part in the ceremonies.

NEW TRAFFIC CODE WOULD PENALIZE ALL VIOLATORS

COUNCIL SEEKS TO END TAG 'FIXING'

Measure Codifies More Than 100 Existing Measures; Pedestrian Fines Included

An ordinance codifying about 100 existing measures for regulating traffic and apparently attempting to abolish the system of "fixing" tags for violations has been presented to Council.

Under the pending ordinance the tags would be placed with the city controller for distribution to traffic policemen through the safety director's office.

When a traffic policeman tagged an automobile he would also make an information before the magistrate of traffic court against the owner.

The owner, admitting guilt, would be liable to a fine of $1, $2 and $3 for the first, second and subsequent offenses of parking overtime in a permitted zone, and liable to a fine of $3, $5 and $10 for parking in a prohibited zone.

ADDITIONAL FINES

If the owner failed to appear in traffic court in response to the tag, a warrant would be issued for his arrest and he would be liable to an additional fine of $2.

The safety director would have to report to the controller each month the number of tags issued, and the magistrate of traffic court would have to report to the controller the disposition of all tags.

The controller would have to make a detailed report each month to the Mayor and to Council, and also make an annual audit of activity.

The proposed ordinance would provide greater protection to the pedestrian and also place upon him certain responsibility.

The pedestrian would have to observe the rights of drivers and not cross a highway in conflict with signal lights or police direction. Violators would be liable to a fine of $3, $5 and $10 for first, second and subsequent offenses.

WALKERS' RIGHTS

When the lights or the policeman's directions were favorable, the pedestrian would have the right-of-way over all vehicles, including those making right turns.

As further protection, automobiles would not be permitted to pass another car that was stopped at an established crossing.

The ordinance would not permit any person to stand in the roadway to solicit a ride under a penalty of a fine of $1, $2 and $3.

A driver would not be permitted to operate a car when the front seat was so filled with other passengers that the driver could not see traffic signals or reach the operative mechanism.

Other major features of the bill include the following:

Establishing safety zones for automobiles at theaters and other amusements places.

Prohibiting automobiles from stopping or parking at right angles to the curb excepting at locations designated by the safety director.

OTHER RULES

Prohibiting automobiles from stopping within an intersection, on a cross walk, in a pedestrian safety zone, on a bridge, or within 50 feet of a traffic signal light or beacon, or at a location that would interfere with a street car making a curve, or within 80 feet of an unilluminated sign.

Additional parking restrictions would be extended to all alleys or ways excepting in residence districts.

Parking would not be permitted within 500 feet of schools.

Freight busses and light transfer trucks waiting for calls would not be permitted to stand on streets except when receiving or discharging a load.

Taxicab stands would be open to all licensed companies.

Taxicabs would not be permitted to cruise in search of passengers and would not be allowed to stand at street car stops or at locations where other automobiles are not allowed to park.

THEY'LL SING IN CANARY SHOW

These youngsters' dad, George B. Fitzpatrick, 7306 Schoyer avenue, Swissvale, will enter these canaries in the canary show today at the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

CANARIES JOIN IN SINGING CONTEST

Birds of Many States To Vie in Massed Chorus At Annual Exhibit Here

More than 150 roller canaries will join their songs in massed chorus today and continue until December 14 at the Seventh Avenue Hotel, when the Iron City Roller Canary Club holds its first annual exhibition and prize show.

Aside from being a local project the event will take on an air of national importance with registered and pedigreed birds from many points in the United States scheduled to be present in the competition.

COME GREAT DISTANCE

The farthest entries will be from aviaries on the Cabin Creek ranch, Mont., and Minneapolis, Minn., according to George B. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the Pittsburgh club.

Judging will occupy the attention of proponents of the show today and Thursday, with the exhibit thrown open to the public on December 12, 13 and 14. Canaries will be judged on the basis of breeding, singing power, song register and appearance. Silver loving cups, donated by individual members of the club, will be awarded as prizes in six classes of judging.

Arrangements are being made, Mr. Fitzpatrick said, to secure a microphone and loud speaker apparatus in the hotel, so that those outside the room where the birds are being exhibited can catch the sound of their songs and musical notes.

ARRANGED IN TOURS

The canaries will be arranged, according to Mr. Fitzpatrick, in what is technically called "tours." These tours, he stated, correspond to the voice ranges of the human throat, male and female.

The rollers sing in 10 "tours." These include the Hollow Roll, Bass, Gluck, Gluck Roll, Water Gluck Roll, Water Roll, Schockel, Deep Bubbling Water, Hollow Bell Tour, Bell Roll and Bell Tour.

Fifty local pedigreed birds will be in the show as well as a number of others from various parts of Allegheny County and Western Pennsylvania. The show will be open to the general public.

4 ARE HELD IN LOTTERY CASE

Complaints to the police that many persons were losing money in the "clearing house" lottery led to the arrest of five men on the South Side and to their arraignment before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today as "suspicious persons." One was discharged, the others held for further investigation.

Fred Garnet, 21, of 1913 Larkins way, frankly admitted he was an agent for the lottery. His story was that he met a man named "Becky" or "Pecky"—he was not sure which it was—at Twenty-first and Carson streets every morning at 10 o'clock and delivered to him the receipts for the previous day from the sale of lottery tickets.

Arrested with Garnet were Walter Karski, 27, of 2517 Lebanon street; Andy Barker, 22, of 1910 Fox street, and George Barsetti, 42, proprietor of a store at 1831 Carson street. The latter was discharged.

Karski admitted being one of Garnet's sub-agents. Barker, accused of also being a sub-agent, denied it. Garnet, Barker and Karski were released on bail, pending a resumption of the hearing Friday.

Ernest Weiland, 29, of 102 South Twenty-first street, was arrested in connection with the campaign. He was taken while seated in an automobile containing, according to the police, stubs or duplicates of lottery tickets. He was held for further investigation.

Brandon Refuses Bet and Fines Woman

Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, today refused to bet when a woman offered to wager that if she were held for court she would not be indicted.

The woman was Mrs. Catharine Denas, 55, proprietress of a restaurant and rooming house at 1215 Wylie avenue. She was arrested early today, charged with keeping a disorderly house. Arrested with her were Dorothy Davis, 19, and Eugene Edwards, 38, roomers, and Delroy Vaughn, 32, Negro janitor.

When she told Magistrate Brandon that she was not keeping a disorderly house, he told her she was lying.

"I'm not lying," she retorted. "I'll bet you that they believe my story and I get off, if you hold me for court." Brandon fined Mrs. Denas $50, held Mrs. Davis for court on a charge of visiting a disorderly house and fined Edwards and Vaughn $10.

Cars With Private Rooms Shown Here

The Pennsylvania Railroad here today will receive several of the latest type single bedroom sleeping cars, made by the Pullman Company, and will open them to public inspection today. The cars are to be put into regular service on the Pittsburgher within a few days.

Each of the cars contains 14 single bedrooms, with the bed crossing sidewise in the car.

PIANO COURSE OFFER AMAZES

Pittsburghers are surprised. The news has gone out that the Sun-Telegraph has arranged for free piano lessons for everyone.

"How can that be done?" is the question on every side.

New methods and a scientific presentation of the course have made it possible.

Piano lessons are hardest during the first two years. That is the time it used to take to learn the fundamentals. At present, however, it is possible to cover that ground in three months. The keyboard is learned by playing melodies. The melodies teach the fingers the keys.

COURSE VALUED AT $35

This is how the method is being taught by the Wurlitzer Foundation Music school. The Sun-Telegraph is giving this course without cost to any Pittsburgher who desires to take it, be he 5 or 95 years old.

The only thing necessary to pay for is the music and the artificial keyboard used. These become the pupil's property. They cost only $2.50.

The course itself, valued at $35, may be taken by anyone who secures three 26 week orders for home delivery of the Sun-Telegraph. These may be obtained from any friend or relative who is not taking the Sun-Telegraph and has not taken it for 30 days.

Music teachers throughout the city have indorsed this new method. It enables the parent of a child, or the parent himself, to find out if he is interested in taking music lessons, without the usual expense to himself.

CLASSES STARTED

The course makes it possible for music teachers to instruct the more advanced pupils, without covering the hard preliminary work. The hard part for the pupil and teacher is done away with.

Classes have already started. If you are interested in learning how to play the piano, or any other instrument, enroll at once. If you desire to know something about fine music, to appreciate it better, join a class without delay.

You may enroll in the Wurlitzer Foundation Music School as soon as you secure one subscription to the Sun-Telegraph. You may obtain the remainder between then and the time of your first class.

5 BOYS HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Four Pittsburgh youths were held for court and a fifth for the United States naval authorities in the theft of an automobile by Justice of the Peace Lawrence B. Sutton, of Springdale, last night.

Those held were Edward W. Miller, Jr., 16, of 1611 Broadhead street; Edward McDonald, Jr., 17, of 1552 Broadhead street; Joseph Finley, Jr., 16, of 1621 Broadhead street, and Lester Walker, 16, of 6617 Apple street. They are alleged to have taken a car belonging to William C. Albert, of Baden, Pa., and in a collision wrecked a car driven by Dr. John Flynn, of Springdale, Sunday night. W. F. Miller, 18, a brother of Edward, on furlough from the Navy, was held for action of naval officers.

GLASSPORT HAS CURFEW LAW

Glassport has a curfew law that works, according to Police Chief William Rushe today. All children under 16 must be at home after 8:30 o'clock, unless accompanied by their parents, he said.

"But that isn't all," the chief declared. "It is surprising the very few adults to be found on our streets after midnight. It's getting so now that residents come to us and tell us why they're out after midnight.

CITY TAXI COST SLASHED

Council has reduced the city's taxicab bill in two years from about $57,000 to $15,000 annually, according to a report from a special committee that has supervised the transportation service.

Former Mayor William A. Magee eliminated city-owned automobiles and established the taxicab system. The plan was continued by the present administration with clerks in the Mayor's office issuing tickets for errands on city business.

Two years ago, the taxicab cost exhausted a $30,000 appropriation and in addition created a deficit of $27,000 that Council had to finance.

COST REDUCED

Council then decided to take over the activity and President James F. Malone appointed a committee to supervise it. The committee included Chairman John S. Herron, W. Y. English and Robert Garland.

The committee reported yesterday that the encouragement of the "drive yourself" system of rental lowered the cost of the service for a greater volume of transportation.

English said the innovation proved that Council could force employes to co-operate in efforts to save money. At first some of the employes feared Council's supervision would deprive them of transportation but they all "fell in line" upon learning that it would not be denied for legitimate purposes.

BALANCE LEFT

"It shows what Council can do when the members set their minds to a proposition," Garland declared. "The same degree of efficiency in other activities can be accomplished if we hold the departments to their appropriations."

P. J. McArdle said that is was no compliment to the city government that Council had to take over an administrative function and showed marked reductions without causing the service to suffer. It shows what the administration could do if the officials approached the solution of problems as did Council, McArdle averred.

The committee reported yesterday that a $20,000 appropriation for the current year will have an estimated balance after this month of $4,386. Last year the service, under Council's direction, cost $18,000.

Drainage Measure To Cost City $3,000

Council today will consider an ordinance appropriating $3,000 for additional drainage facilities on the Boulevard of the Allies at the ramp near Brady street, where rain washes earth from the hillside to the roadway and causes many automobile accidents.

CITY TO ORDER PARKING SIGNS

In place of the parking rules painted on trolley poles, which nobody looks at, according to Burton W. Marsh, of the Bureau of Traffic Planning, the city will put up in the downtown section 1,800 new signs, which will swing from the poles after the manner of the signs on old English taverns.

Advertisements requesting bids on the manufacture of the signs will be published shortly, and the contract will be let as soon afterward as possible. It is expected to have the signs up in the spring.

The signs will be of 12 kinds. Those forbidding parking at all times have red letters on a white background; those applying particularly to pedestrians will have blue letters on a white background, and those restricting parking to certain specified hours or bearing other instructions will have green letters on white background.

The signs have received the approval of the Art Commission and of President Hoover's committee on traffic signals.

'FIXERS' FLAYED BY ALDERMAN

Said to have become annoyed by persons trying to "fix" cases against alleged violators of the state automobile code which state highway patrolmen are prosecuting here, Alderman Thomas B. Jones today made it known that there would be no fixes on any of the 300 cases that are to be brought before him.

The 300 informations have been sworn out against local motorists for violation of the state motor code. Alderman Jones said about a score of drivers already have sent in their fines and thus waived hearings. Hearings are being held Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Overtakes Stolen Auto; Four Flee

An hour after the automobile of Walter Thatcher, of Albany, N. Y., was stolen in front of 245 Melwood street, early today, Patrolman Clarence Everitt found five men riding in it at Arlington and Warrington avenues, Mt. Washington. He gave chase and fired two shots. After running half a block the driver stopped the car and with the others abandoned it. The policeman lost trace of them in the darkness.

TRIO HOLDS UP 2 DRUG STORES

City-wide search was being made by police today for a bandit trio which held up two drug stores in Homewood within 10 minutes last night.

Two customers and a clerk were in the pharmacy of H. C. Henderson at 7701 Frankstown avenue, when the three armed men entered and forced them into the rear room. While two held them at bay, their accomplice looted the cash register of $63. They escaped in an automobile.

Ten minutes later, the same trio, police said, held up William C. McCaulley, in his drug store, at Idlewild street and North Homewood avenue. McCaulley, too, was forced into a rear room, while one of the bandits scooped $64 from the register.

Alighting from a street car at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, Nathan Wedner, of 5417 Butler street, discovered that $244 had been stolen from him.

Two women were being sought by police in connection with the theft of two Japanese weasel coats from a downtown department store. The coats were valued at $900.

Mrs. Mary Frannen, of 405 Station street, Wilmerding, was robbed of $125 while shopping in a downtown 5-and-10 cent store. The money was stolen from her purse.

USE PRINTERS IN BROADCAST

Automatic printers were used for the first time by state authorities yesterday to broadcast the discription of five youths wanted for an attempted hold up. The first message was sent out Saturday when it was said the system would be officially begun January 1.

The message was sent from Harrisburg.

FINANCIER DEBT $1,650,000

LONDON, Dec. 10. — (AP.) — Seventy-three proofs of debt totaling £276,132 ($1,380,660) were lodged at the first meeting of the creditors of H. S. Horne, a young London financier who resigned from several companies on November 27 after filing a personal bankruptcy petition.

Horne's total liabilities are not known at present, but he estimates them at £330,000 ($1,650,000). He attributed his insolvency to unprecedented depreciation of his holdings, which slumped £620,000 in value ($3,100,000). It was stated that the companies were not affected by his personal bankruptcy.

Hunts Blue Goose Nest At Pole, Already Found

By PENELOPE REDD

The Christmas messages to the Far North which will be broadcast from KDKA at 11:30 p. m. on December 14, will include one for George Sutton, Pittsburgh ornithologist, that will be like finding the traditional switches in the Christmas stocking.

George Sutton, who deliberately exiled himself for a year on Southampton Island within commuting distance of the Arctic Circle, will probably be perturbed by the information that J. Dewey Soper, of Canada's Department of the Interior, has already discovered the nesting place of "Kongovik," the Blue Goose.

Penelope Redd.

Sutton, who went in by the Naskopie, the only steamer to stop even annually at the head of Hudson Bay, where a post with 200 Eskimo colonists has been placed by the Hudson Bay Company, missed Soper with his news by a few days at the edge of civilization's last gathering place.

George Sutton's name has always meant the quest of the Blue Goose. W. Clyde Todd, curator of the ornithological department at the Carnegie Museum, curious about the nesting place of the mysterious Blue Goose of the Northland, took George Sutton out with him in 1921. Sutton observed the Blue Goose at Partridge's Creek in the marsh lands at the foot of Hudson Bay, the only known resting place of this bird in its long migration from the Arctic Circle to Louisiana.

Sutton's painted background was used for the Blue Goose Museum, the first group in any museum in the world.

But the quest was not ended—the nest itself must be found. This could only be accomplished by securing a long season for search. The season must extend from the end of the migratory period north, about May through the summer. Hence, Sutton's relinguishment of civilization, to find the nest beyond the white man's horizon.

FOUND IN BAFFIN LAND

Eskimos have reported the nest in Baffin Land but the efforts of the white man have hitherto been rewarded by failure. Indeed, J. Dewey Soper explored Baffin Land in the summers from 1923-1926. Eventually he determined on a year's exile to secure a long season. After desperate journeys by sled and canoe in Fox Land whose secrets are protected by the cold of the Artic Circle, he finally discovered nests built on the open tundra. He almost lost his life on his return journey to report his triumph.

So endeth the quest of the nest of the Blue Goose for George Sutton.

Of course, Mr. Sutton will have prepared valuable data and indubitably secured rare specimens of bird and animal life by the time he has been picked up next summer from Southampton Island by John Semple, the organizer of the expedition, and W. Clyde Todd from the Carnegie Museum.

The broadcasting to Sutton is sponsored by the Naturalists' Club, the Audubon Society and the Isaac Walton League, all of whom request friends to send messages.

East Liberty Children Seek Popular Teacher

With Christmas drawing nearer every day, East Liberty children are trying hard to find their most popular teacher.

East Liberty merchants are just as anxious as the school students, too. They have 15 DeLuxe model Philco radios, each worth over $200, which are to be awarded to the 15 most popular teachers. They do not wish to make any mistakes.

The Chamber of Commerce in East Liberty drew up a plan for these stores. Authorized East Liberty merchants give a ballot with each 10-cent purchase. This vote may be cast for any teacher in any school. The 15 teachers receiving the most votes will be awarded the sets as Christmas gifts.

Teachers are nominated by casting one vote for them. The Authorized East Liberty Merchants all have signs on their windows and in their stores, for identification.

It is rumored in East Liberty that a second theater party for boys and girls taking part in the "Earn Your Teacher a Christmas Gift Contest" is coming Saturday. This paper will publish the news if the party is held.

DEFINITE STEP TAKEN BY PLAN COMMISSION

3 Locations Urged at Meet As Hester Ends Offers; Final Study Starts Soon

Allegheny County has taken a definite step toward the ultimate construction of its proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall.

Thomas H. Hester, member of the County Planning Commission, at the meeting of the Planning Commission yesterday afternoon, definitely ended any further discussion of sites. His motion that all further hearings on proposed sites be discontinued, passed unanimously.

Hester's motion came after Former Mayor William A. Magee, counsel for the Allegheny County Town Hall Association, presented a proposed site for the hall bounded by Penn and Liberty avenues, Water and Barbeau streets; W. J. Strassburger presented a site bounded by Second avenue, Grant and Water streets and the Pennsylvania Railroad; and F. L. Osterling reviewed advantages of a site presented by himself several months ago on the North Side at the end of the Ninth street bridge. Both of the downtown sites, Magee said, were approved unanimously by the Allegheny County Town Hall Association.

QUICK ACTION URGED

"It is a year and a half since we started on this town hall," said Hester. "Sometime in May, 1928, hearings were started on five sites that were selected after Director Norman F. Brown's engineering department had made a study of 29 sites and eliminated all the rest."

"In August a letter was written by the commission to W. A. Magee stating that inasmuch as the Allegheny County Town Hall Association had never presented less than five sites at any of the hearings granted it, that it should decide on one site and present it, not later than October 1.

"Mr. Magee presented the Duquesne Freight Station site on October 7, but asked for 60 days' delay to complete negotiations with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Mr. Magee has now presented another new site which is a rearrangement of the freight station site and we know of no authority which has been given for the presentation of this site.

"The county commissioners have asked us to make a choice. President Hoover within the last 10 days has asked every governor in the Union to make a survey of public work in sight, and I think we should get down to business and prepare a recomendation of a site."

SITES DESCRIBED

Hester's resolution came after lengthy descriptions by their advocates of the three sites discussed yesterday. Magee, after announcing that the Allegheny County Town Hall Association would present two sites, introduced C. J. Kaltenbach, department of public works engineer and consulting engineer for the association. Kaltenbach announced that he would speak only for the Point site.

The commission will meet at the call of the chair to begin its final study toward a definite recommendation to the County Commissioners on a site.

CONDEMN BLAST BUILDINGS

Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr today condemned as unsafe all but one of the buildings in the Munhall explosion district.

The buildings condemned are frame structures at Nos. 938, 946, 952, 958, 960, 962 and 966 Eighth avenue, and 800 Ravine street, and out buildings in the rear.

The edifice exempted from condemnation is a two-story brick house at 954 Eighth avenue, occupied by Albert Jaffe.

It is not known if the Munhall estate, which owns the buildings ordered razed, will abide by Pfarr's decision or will contest it.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

All Society Turns Out For Ball

YOUNG folks and older folks went to the Cinderella Ball held last night at the University Club by the diocesan board of St. Mary's Hospital, and every was the ball so scintillating, I do believe.

The colorful [illegible] gowns of the [illegible] sober blacks [illegible] and gay [illegible] clustered [illegible] the ballroom [illegible] stairway [illegible] a brilliant [illegible].

And the [illegible] was the Beaux [illegible] the buds [illegible] McKay and [illegible] Brown, [illegible] slight Marjorie [illegible] sion of [illegible] given by [illegible] pajama costumes [illegible] satin, embroidered in gold and red, with [illegible] dresses. And [illegible] blue and silver [illegible] cornered blue [illegible] on snowy [illegible] Blue Danube.

And Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Brown gave a [illegible] dance. They [illegible] trunks and [illegible] and blue satin [illegible].

And for [illegible] gathered [illegible] boxes were [illegible] many of the [illegible] attending the [illegible] a large semi-circle for the entertainment.

I saw [illegible] from the desks to their chaperone mothers, to exchange [illegible] must admit. Just as I was leaving the ballroom I caught a glimpse of Mrs. Charles S. Wunder, who's been doing publicity for the ball. She looked very tall and slender in a form-fitting Nile green crepe gown, ending in a brief train. And with her was Mr. Wunder.

And another member of the younger married set there was Mrs. John Bissell in yellow chiffon. Particularly attractive was Mrs. Louise M. Hague in a soft Princess gown of white chiffon trimmed with many draperies and ruffles, and a brief cape of chiffon.

And arriving later in the evening were the Raymond Ford Morelands. Mrs. Moreland, the former Mary Louise Johnson, was in a long, clinging gown of black chiffon.

Among the first there were petite Mrs. Donald Scott Rodgers, the general chairman, who wore eggshell satin, with a deep uneven border of ruffled tulle, and Miss Marjorie Gathoofer, president of the board, in a black and gold gown, fashioned very long in the princess mode.

Standing on the stairway leading to the lounge I noted the Alan Magee Scaifes chatting with a group of friends. Mrs. Scaife, the former Sarah Mellon, looked regal in a sweeping gown of deep purple crepe, made in the princess mode. And she had orchids.

Near the Scaifes were the William F. Morelands, with Mrs. Moreland in black crepe with gardenias as the only note of accent.

And I was particularly interested in the costume of young Louise Evans. Her gown was one of the long, form-fitting princess gowns of black velvet. And she wore long black gloves!

The Paul B. Dickeys I saw dancing, Mrs. Dickey wearing green crepe. And Elizabeth Leovy was in a distinctive gown of orchid crepe.

Maj. Reginald Macdonald and his bride arrived in time for the Blues Revue, with Mrs. Macdonald wearing black chiffon.

Entertaining in her box was Mrs. Howard S. Evens in black velvet and beige chiffon, and the Arthur P. Woolfolks were there, back from their wedding trip. Mrs. Woolfolk, formerly Anna Knevals Childs, wore pale pink satin.

A smart gown of deep orchid chiffon with drapery of green extending from the low neckline to the instep, was worn by Evelyn Evans. I caught a glimpse of Martha McKelvy in white chiffon, and of Margaret Forrester in black tulle and lace. Neil Stewart Zane looked in a holiday mood in a gown of red satin, and Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, Jr., was in Nile green lace.

White crepe was chosen by Mrs. Louis D. Schmertz for her gown, and green crepe by Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie.

Mrs. Stanley Brown, in peach moire, was talking near the entrance of the ballroom, with Mrs. Gillespie. Another hostess entertaining in a box was Mrs. Robert Milligan, gowned in beige lace.

Very Spanish looked Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys in a gown of flame-colored chiffon with many narrow ruffles giving the skirt the smart petal effect. And I caught sight of Helen Leovy, in wine colored crepe, and of Mrs. Charles B. Jarrett in green lace.

Tall, slender Priscilla Hall was there in a smart gown of black crepe, fashioned very long with a smart decolletage. Dignified Mrs. Harvey Childs arrived rather early, gowned in black velvet, and with her was Mary Childs looking lovely in black velvet too.

Vivacious Helen McCance I saw talking with several groups, and her gown was of white moire, in princess mode. Her sister Betty wore peach chiffon. Peach satin with tulle giving below-the-knee fullness was worn by distinctive Frances Fitzgerald; green crepe by Mrs. Blair Childs; dark blue velvet by Mrs. George Singer Ebbert; green moire by Margaret Elliott, and pink crepe by Clodagh McCune. Mrs. K. Woodrow was there in black lace, and Mrs. Malcom Leach I caught a glimpse of, too.

Others there were Mrs. Fred Humphreys, of Greensburg, in peach satin; Mrs. Marshall Heron in red crepe, and the debutante Nancy Allderdice in royal blue velvet, with the back of the gown cut very low and outlined in rhinestones; Mrs. Bennett Rodgers in white satin; Mary Carroll in black velvet, and Mrs. St. Clair Childs in black chiffon and gold. The junior Thomas Fitzgeralds, home from their wedding trip, were at the ball with Mrs. Fitzgerald in green satin.

Attractive Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, was in pumpkin chiffon with gold lace, and Mrs. Cameron Mann in green moire. And Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., was in black lace, and Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., in red satin.

Youthful Florence Wainwright wore rose satin, and Marjorie Kimball, turquoise blue satin. Virginia Forsyth was in red velvet, and Mrs. D. Dickson in white taffeta, embroidered in pastel colors.

And many folks went to the Theater Guild's production of Shaw's "Major Barbara" before the ball. Stately Eleanor Munroe was there in a many-flounced gown of black lace, ending in a brief train, and Mrs. T. M. Jones III, in black lace with a black velvet coat, furred in white fox. And Mrs. Felix Snowden, wrapped in a coat of black velvet with a collar of white fox fur.

ALL of you know how hard it has been to make children eat food seasonable for their small persons and form habits of cleanliness and hygiene. So on the first of September the Junior League opened a Nutrition-Habit Forming Clinic in connection with the Children's Hospital, of which Miss Elizabeth Arbuthnot is chairman. The clinic operates three mornings a week and is assisted by Junior League volunteer workers.

For the arts and interests of the League the clinic has offered a poster contest to the students of Carnegie Institute of Technology, in the department of painting and decoration, for the best poster depicting what a nutrition clinic is. The League will offer three prizes for the three best ones.

On Thursday and Friday there will be an exhibit of all posters submitted in the Junior League clubroom in the Women's Exchange Building.

And I was also told that those in charge of the affair will be Mrs. Thomas M. Jones III, Mrs.

NEW FLATTERING COLOR FOR BLONDE OR BRUNETTE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The mode is showing a streak of yellow, but it is not in any way unpleasant. In fact, it is the reverse, for the streak of yellow in this case, resolves itself into a platform whereon blonde and brunette may meet. For one of the most important mid-season collections showed ever so many models in tilleul, a pale greenish yellow, that is ever so soft and delicate, and can be worn with a flattering effect, whatever one's coloring may be, and you must admit, that there are not many shades, that both blonde and brunette wear well.

THE new openings demonstrate in an interesting way, the accepted trend of the mode, and we know just what degree the startlingly new styles of the season have been modified and adapted to individual requirements. Women have discovered that like most rules those relating to clothes, can also be modified or ignored. So even the most bitter critic of the new mode has been mollified, and all is quiet along the Seine.

VIONNET has just presented her mid-season collection, and it was enthusiastically received by a distinguished audience. The clothes shown were, without exception, lovely, wearable and gracious. There were murmurs of admiration for the charming evening gown, which we were priviledged to sketch before its debut. It is of satin in the tilleul shade that we have so glowingly described, and it is most gracefully draped. The bodice is draped both at back and front—the decolletage being somewhat deeper in the back. A suggestion of blousing at the natural waistline softens the princess lines of this model, though the skirt itself fits extremely snugly about the hips and well down below them. Circular panels of uneven length, curving at the edge, form the lower part of the skirt, which has an extraordinarily graceful sweep of line in walking and dancing. Thus it can be clearly seen how the princess silhouette has been received, obviously it has needed but little modification to make it acceptible to the majority.

ILLUSTRATED, also, is a coat from Vionnet's new collection. It is of broadtail which is supreme in the furry and sartorial world this Winter. This beautiful afternoon coat is rendered even more attractive by the unusually interesting collar that starts at the right side in a shirred ruffle effect, ending in a flat scarflike end at the other side. Loose wing-like pieces attached to the lower sleeve lend a new line to the straight cuffs. At the front, the hemline of the coat cuts up sharply at one side making a point which is wrapped around the figure in warm accordance with the accepted coat silhouette of this house.

Women Told History of Carols

THERE is a distinction between a Christmas hymn and a carol; the latter is a popular song written to be sung anywhere and always set to a popular air, Twentieth Century Club members were told yesterday by Prof. Edward B. Reed, of Yale. Prof. Reed, who has made an extensive study of carols for years, gave a brief history of his hobby, telling how the name is derived from the old word "caroles," meaning dancing song.

It was in medieval times after the terrors and hardships of winter that the people welcomed the warmth of spring by dancing on the green to their own singing. At first the church frowned upon these songs and passed laws against them, but somewhere in the past the two streams of song, that of the church and that of the dancers, met and blended. Something of the history of carol manuscripts was included in his talk by Mr. Reed, who, by the way, is a son-in-law of Mrs. W. R. Thompson, whom he greeted in the audience yesterday.

Carols, many of which are sung to theatrical, dancing or drinking tunes, have taken such a hold, Mr. Reed stated, because they are of the people and are not literary gymnastics, as is much of the poetry of later times, and they have in them the fundamentals, generosity, hope and courage. The club choral, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas K. Cree and accompanied by Mrs. John E. Nelson, illustrated Mr. Reed's talk with old carols, some of them English, which, he said, are always hearty and sturdy and have a roast beef quality.

"Wives—Keep the Trousseau Habit"

by ELINOR GLYN
Famous Authority on Romance

HOW to hold a husband's love—keep romance in marriage—that is the problem put up to me constantly by innumerable wives.

Can it be done? Fortunately the answer is yes. How? By being always feminine—charmingly, delightfully, daintily feminine.

But there is more to this being feminine than many women realize.

First of all you yourself must feel your own daintiness, womanliness, before you can impress others.

One of the surest ways for a wife to gain perfect confidence in her dainty, lovely femininity is to wear charming lingerie and negligees.

Wonderful colors, soft shimmering materials, lace edged underthings! They just make a woman believe in herself—feel her inherent charm as a woman.

So great is the influence of color alone on the human mind and heart that the significance of charmingly colored feminine things is beyond estimating.

If a woman but keeps all this loveliness at its very best—as beautiful as when it came, new, from its tissued box, she is captain of her fate—irresistible.

Because she believes in herself she makes others believe in her. Confidence is contagious. Psychologists know this—successful wives know it—only those who lose out, or half lose out, disregard it.

"Some wives keep romance in marriage forever—isn't one secret the trousseau habit?"

But, women tell me, it is so difficult to wear lovely underthings always and keep them looking as wonderful, as colorful, as when they were new. Frequent washing (and we must be dainty) takes some of the lovely color and daintiness out of the garment.

To this I reply, "that is too often the case," but it need never be so if women faithfully use that invaluable product Lux—which is made especially to cleanse without disturbing the vibrant loveliness of the colors at all. If a garment is safe in clear water alone, it is just as safe in Lux.

Truly Lux has done more to keep romance in marriage than we shall ever know.

Try Lux FREE

Try the wonderful Lux care that makes the most feminine underthings an everyday asset. Just send your name and address to the makers of Lux, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. H-45 Cambridge, Mass.

After 12 washings with an ordinary good soap. Silk fibres a little out of place—lace damaged. Lustre slightly impaired—color off.

After 12 Lux washings Every thread in place—silk and lace fibres intact, color intact. The garment retains all of the qualities it had when new.

Keep the trousseau habit—with LUX

Kidnaper Obtains Ransom Money But Fails to Return Billie

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, young and beautiful, is in love with Guy Elliott, handsome aviator. Guy is perfecting a plane which old William Bryce is to manufacture. Pat meets Bryce's widowed daughter-in-law and wonders if Guy is intrigued by Barbara's beauty. Bryce sends Tom Burns, a workman, to jail for attempted robbery. Pat has gay times with Lee Templeton, young college student. Pat's father is stricken with pneumonia and dies. The family considers giving up the big house because of the heavy expenses. Guy, hoping to help the Dawns, tries to urge Bryce to manufacture his plane. He learns the old man has lost a fortune. Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest. Guy, fearing Bryce may use the money to cover his own losses, tries to recover it. Bryce reluctantly surrenders the bonds, swearing vengeance on Guy. He discontinues financing the airplane factory, but holds Guy to his contract which prevents another concern from selling Guy's plane. Billie Bryce is kidnaped. The same day a stranger makes off with Guy's plane with Pat in it. Guy disappears, the third person to vanish. Detectives find a few of Billie's hairs in Guy's abandoned automobile. Bryce receives a ransom note saying Billie will die unless $20,000 is paid. Bryce follows instructions given in the note and places the money at a designated spot. The money vanishes is spite of the fact that detectives have been watching the place.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THEY could not believe their eyes and went searching through the brush for the ransom box.

Their own eyes, their own ears had betrayed them. They had seen Bryce flash his light on the flume; had heard that definite thump as he placed the box. The five men, stationed within 15 feet of the flume's outlet, had observed Bryce as he stood nervously, watch in hand, and exactly at the moment of 12 he had thrust the watch in his pocket and deposited the ransom money.

Six and a half hours ago the money was there. No one had come since the money was placed. But it and the box were gone.

They struck their fists along the flume. They reached in and felt the wood. They dug all about it. There was no trace of the missing package and every answer they found for the baffling disappearance was soon discredited.

The flume was closed on the top, deep enough, but narrow; perhaps two feet deep, but less than 10 inches wide. No man could crawl through that space. Even a thin boy could not make it, crawling. But someone or something had arrived at the mouth of the flume and spirited away the ransom box with the $20,000 it contained.

They stared at each other in half angry bewilderment. All night they had watched—sure of trapping their quarry. They were wronged by this inexplicable failure.

How had the feat been accomplished? That no human thing had visited the spot after Bryce's departure, 10 men could positively swear. They were stationed along the ledge on the footpath and on top of the flume. An Indian trailer could not have glided, undetected, past this guard.

Could the man have been hidden near the flume's mouth, and, reaching up, removed the box? If so he would still be lying in the brush. They had raked it to the last leaf.

Might he have been secreted in a tree and with a pole fished the box from the flume? Rather impossible in this enveloping dark and in a silence where every sound rang out like a fire alarm. But the wildest suggestion seemed plausible in the face of this infuriating, mysterious disappearance.

They tore off sections of the flume covering carefully examined sides and bottom for a possible opening into some cavern where a man might hide and whence he might adroitly reach for the box. The flume was solid, dry and without any secret outlets. They followed it half a mile along the hill. It returned no answer to their baffled searching.

The ransom money was gone. Little Billy Bryce was not returned.

All morning Barbara Bryce sat in the living room, jumping violently with each ring of phone or door. All morning William Bryce sat with her.

They read and reread the note warning them to "WAIT!" How long would it be? How long could they endure?

By noon that Saturday the papers flashed with headlines of the ransom episode.

With the news that the police had guarded the spot Barbara collapsed.

They would kill him! There was no hope. Someone had led her child away; had come more viciously than death and lifted the little form from her arms. She might scream forever into the dark unknown that had swallowed him. It would not answer now.

Laura Dawn wandered from room to room—out to the garden — back across the patio. Even the flowers had a neglected air. And on the living-room table was a thick layer of dust. She went up absently and ran her hand across it. Her ring knocked on the wood. The faint sound dropped and was lost in the bleak, forlorn quiet.

Was it only last Saturday that she and Pat had gone whisking about here, cleaning the ashes from the fireplace, running the vacuum over the rug, shaking out the pillows and stopping there at Richard's smoking stand to recall with a half-weepy laugh little tender ways of his . . . the songs he would sing . . . the old, dilapidated slippers that he could not be induced to forsake—and how he would sit up till midnight, a book held stiffly before him, denying that he dozed even when the book dropped from his hands.

Was it only last Monday—five days ago—that Laura had waved goodby as Pat and Dickie climbed into the little car and Pat called: "I'm driving our son to school, mother." How young—how very childlike she looked with the little green hat perched rakishly on the back of her head and the shine on her lips and eyes. She had leaned out to kiss her mother goodby and had given a quick little tweak to Laura's hair.

How Laura tried to fasten on this happy moment! It passed. It gave way to a dark, forbidding image. She saw Pat, tall, slim, quiet, moving from her into a waste. Shadows loomed on the edge of it. They gathered ominously. Laura called out. But the girl didn't turn. She went on. She passed into the gray, shadowy silence.

Other pictures came . . . stark, relentless pictures. Often she saw the smashed plane with Pat and Guy dead or slowly dying in the wreckage. When her dreams were most pitiless she saw them creeping about, calling to each other, making terrible little whimpering moans. In the night she would lie awake seeing this; or she would start from some fitful sleep with Pat murmuring: "Mother, come—oh, mother!" Or Richard would be standing at the foot of the bed saying again and again with still, awful quiet: "Lo . . . don't you hear her . . . won't you go . . ."

During the day the memory of Richard's voice haunted her. She would go through life tortured with uncertainty. She would never know what had become of the girl—whether this death or some end more terrible, some dark, unnamable end, had come to Pat.

In this fiendish kidnaping with which she could not connect Guy, but with which both he and Pat were involved, some other may have stolen the plane.

And what, through all these days, had that other done to Pat?

The kindest she could hope was death. Death appeared not kind to Laura. She visualized Pat standing at Richard's side and running an impudent hand through her father's sandy curls.

How Richard loved her bright sophistication. How often, lying in the dark, he had reached down a hand and closed it over Laura's, saying with that tender gladness: "Lo dear, she's only teasing you. To me she tells the things that are deep in her heart. They're beautiful. Lo, like things that trembled not so long ago in yours." How he loved the girl; how wildly proud he was of every depth and sweetness. He wanted her joyous, arrogant, impudently glad.

No—death would not seem kind to Laura. She read now of the vanished ransom—the child not returned. Ah—they were afraid to bring back the little boy? They would end them all, they had the money and would give no thought to any mother's plea.

Unaware, she struck a hand harshly on the table. From the chair opposite Dickie's black eyes regarded her with bitter reproach. "Say—what do you think, anyway? Pat's not crashed! Dad's gone. That's enough!" The boy's voice rose to a sob. He came and flung himself in Laura's arms. "You don't think Pat's dead, too? Oh gee, ma, that'd be an awful dirty wallop."

But Saturday passed. It brought no end to their tortured suspense.

All roads from the city were guarded. Every possible suspect was held for question. A special detail kept guard at the flume. Police raced back and forth over the Ocean Shore road.

Cranks sent letters. And every one had solutions and theories. The most fantastic explanations were listened to and tested.

The newspapers summed up the history of the kidnaping. They printed pictures of everyone in any way involved—large ones of Pat, Guy, Billy and Barbara Bryce—smaller ones of Laura and of William Bryce. They called upon the police to track down this vicious fiend—to find the child.

And the police, made ridiculous by the failure of their trap, retaliated by holding a score of innocent men. They gave third degrees with reckless indiscretion. To no purpose.

"Let the police realize they are dealing with no ordinary criminal," one editorial noted. "There are many unexplained angles to this crime. It will take real brain work to solve the mystery.

"A young man of excellent reputation appears the most likely solution. It should be remembered that Guy Elliott had a most promising future and if guilty he can never resume his place in this or any other community.

"Would a criminal clever enough to have taken that ransom from under the very noses of five men with leveled pistols be so indiscreet as to leave an abandoned auto and a missing plane to connect him with the crime?

"If Elliott is guilty, let us have the proof. And quickly. We have heard enough of the Phantom. Phantoms do not kidnap."

Sunday afternoon a detective watching at the flume felt his blood suddenly freeze. From that outlet two dark eyes looked upon him—two dark, beautiful eyes.

LAMENT FOR THE PASSING FLAPPER

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

Cupid, to young man, "different, ain't she?"

FLAPPER was once a word we used—and it had a meaning—oh, such meaning.

Now the "word" has gone, and the pretty creature it meant is vanishing, too.

Her outlines are growing dimmer. The dizzy, whirling little dazzle that we have criticised—and loved—is dancing against the landscape of Nineteen Thirty like a fading mirage, soon to go blank like a pricked bubble.

Don't say girls will always be girls! We know that. But clothes make the woman, or the changing woman grows new clothes . . . whichever it is . . . with skirts half way to the waist, no sleeves and socks rolled into a doughnut at the ankle meant a girl that was totally different from the girl who wore a rat to prop up her Floradora pompadour and swished her skirts.

And it looks as if skirts, at least of an afternoon and evening, are going to swish again!

What will that mean? Another kind of girl and woman. And no crystal-gazer, no cartoonist, no anxious young man trying to bet upon what IT will be that will get his heart in the next five years can guess what she will be like.

Oh, meaningful word, you are old-fashioned. Oh, girl who was called a "Flapper," with the impertinent farewell flip of your baby-dress frock, you are old-fashioned, too—to the vanishing point. The longer, tighter, stranger-dress is going to do something to you, and Cupid and the young man with the votive offering wish they knew what that something will be.

Will it make you less of a pal and a more delightful sweetheart? Will you put jazz away in the attic with the cast-offs and fall in love with Dignity?

And what . . . if at all . . will you do to a fellow's heart? You hope you will give it a whirl and flutter such as it has not known these many years! I know that.

Long live longer—and not TOO much longer—skirts! if they will lend a little romance to the modern man's thoughts on WOMAN.

But here's a lament for that wild erratic dancing, brief-skirted little figure that is fading—fading—with a smile—and a smart tap of heels—and a smack of knees. She was a darling to draw!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Harry's Spying on the Kenellos Brings Results

MR. UNDERWOOD was plainly jubilant as he came into the living room of our apartment, but I gave him no chance to say anything about any discovery he had made, though my curiosity about the spy next the "tiger trap" was at fever heat.

"Have you seen Lillian since you came down?" I demanded.

"No, why?" Lillian's husband rejoined quickly, and at my involuntary exclamation of thankfulness, his eyebrows narrowed.

"What's up?" he asked and I quickly told him of Marion's letter with its news of Charles Owen, of Lillian's reaction to it, and of my wish to have him bolster the pretended belief in Owen's innocence of complicity in the plot against Prince George which I had expressed to her.

"You're a darling little liar, Lady Fair," he said when I had finished "and as you ought to know I'd swear black was white or any other color, any time you need such perjury. You can bank on me. Lil won't worry about that angle of the thing any more. Poor girl! she's having her share of Hades mulling over the possibility of my getting croaked though it's zero minus, in this business, and trying to keep me from thinking she isn't all serene. I don't want her to add anything more."

I felt my spine grow icy for I had seen the swift glance which Dicky had sent Harry at his protest that there was no danger in the springing of the tiger trap. But Dicky did not guess that I had seen it, and I quickly forced myself to an apparently interested query.

"Is the man downstairs displaying any interest in the rooms?"

"Is he displaying interest?" Mr. Underwood repeated enthusiastically. "My dear lady Fair, that pickerel downstairs has swallowed hook, line and sinker and is now going after the pole."

"Let's hear about it," Dicky said, drawing forward a chair. "Or do you want me to go down there and spell you?"

"Nothing to spell," his friend drawled, settling his tall figure in the chair as if he meant to stay there for the day. "The pickerel has swum away with the bait. In other words with a key to the room in his pocket he has gone out for a walk. After a while he'll come back and ask for the key, and then produce it from his pocket with profuse apologies for his own stupidity. But he will also have a duplicate key which he will have had made. What he will do next I cannot guess."

"Is that all he's done so far?" Dicky asked, his eyes on his friend's face, "vamoose with the key?"

"No, he's been quite the busy little cup of tea," Mr. Underwood rejoined. "From my hiding place in the closet next his room through which I had a dandy peephole, I could see everything he was up to in his own room, and by an arrangement of the mirrors I could see the balcony outside. First he gave his own room a thorough inspection, then he went out on the balcony, and—having been told purposely by the manager that his room would be quiet as the man in the next room was away for a day or two—he took occasion to peer into the room, and inspect the locks of the balcony. He thought he was safe enough, little thinking of the super-sleuth who was watching him."

He rolled the words in bombastic fashion, struck his chest with a flourish and sent us into laughter which relieved the tension with which we had been listening to him.

"He even tested a rung or two of the fire-escape ladders which lead from one balcony to the other and finally to the roof. You can bet your last match I was glad I'd tipped off the house detective to something I thought the Kenellos lad would try. And sure enough his next stunt was to ask the elevator boy if the roof were open to guests of the hotel, and when he was told yes, he went up there, and did a goose step all over the place, paying especial attention to the section directly above the room which is registered as 'Mr. George Jackson's.'"

"I suppose the big idea," Dicky commented, "is to have a second getaway to some other room in the hotel where another accomplice will be stationed."

"Exactly," Harry replied. "It wouldn't be difficult for an able-bodied man to shin up the fire-escape to the roof from the front, run across to the back and come down the rear fire-escape to a room in the rear. But which—"

He sprang from his chair.

"By the undipped heel of Achilles," he said theatrically, "I've been overlooking a bet, Dickey-bird, you do sentry-go in these two apartments until I come back an hour or two or three from now. Don't you let anyone leave either apartment except to go to the other."

He rushed out of the door leaving us staring after him, amazed and upset. What new menace had he discovered?

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

We Moderns

NEXT to being fat, the saddest fate is to find yourself a tall and languorous Gibson girl or a subtle siren type, in a "Hey-hey-girl" generation.

Now that New York debutantes have decided that all parties must break up at the "early" hour of 3 a. m., those snappy young business men can get home almost in time to have a cold shower and snatch a bite of breakfast, before showing up bright and peppy at the office.

When a woman gives a man up, it always leaves a void in her life; but when a man gives a woman up, it is usually because some other woman is crowding her out.

Now that all the other necessities of life, including the kitchen range, are being glorified and dolled up to charm the eye, many a woman secretly wishes that her husband could be made just a teeny-weeny bit more ornamental to harmonize with the color scheme.

Just about the time a woman has discovered how many minutes her husband likes his eggs boiled and he has discovered where she keeps the witchhazel, incompatibility sets in.

A woman would hate to miss the thrilling sensation of feeling herself fall in love; but, to a man, falling in love is like taking gas; he doesn't know that anything is happening to him, until it's all over, and he wakes up to hear the minister saying "Amen."

* * *

It doesn't so much matter whether or not there IS such a thing as future reward or everlasting love. It's your BELIEF in them that makes life worth living, and gives it all its flavor.

Turning a "good fellow" into a husband is seldom a success; the man who is all things to all men is never much of anything to any woman.

The hardest thing for the woman, who got him, to live up to, is a man's glorified memory of the woman he didn't get.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

At the Reception

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

The wedding reception is to be held at a hotel. Should the bride return from the church to her home to remove the veil? How is this arranged?

2. Should the bride remain in her wedding gown during the dinner?

3. Also, are pearls permissible for the bride to wear?

L. T.

NO, THE bride keeps on her wedding finery during the reception. She wants to be a "real bride" during the receiving hours and it would look strange for her to go to her reception dressed in informal clothes. She should arrange to go directly from the church to the hotel. Then, after the reception, she goes to her home to change to her traveling clothes. Or, if her home is far from the hotel and time is limited, she may make arrangements to have her traveling clothes at the hotel, and change in a room engaged for that purpose. But it is best, if she can go home.

2. Yes, the bride remains in her wedding gown until she changes to her traveling clothes.

3. Yes, pearls are the traditional jewel for the bride to wear. Sometimes they are a string of pearls given by her father, and sometimes they are the groom's wedding present to her.

An Antiquated Custom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it appropriate for a girl to be ring-bearer?

2. Is a 7-year-old boy too old to be ring-bearer?

UNDECIDED.

IF THERE is a ring-bearer at a wedding—and they are rarely seen at weddings nowadays, since they are regarded as too "theatrical" a feature—a very small boy is usually invited to have this "part." But, although I would not advise a bride to have a ring-bearer as part of her bridal processional, I see no reason why, if she insists on having one, a tiny girl shouldn't serve.

2. Yes, this age would seem to me too old.

A Casual Note

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am obliged to write to my doctor, and do not know the proper way to address him. Shall I write:

1. Dear Dr. Brown, or shall I spell out doctor?

2. Shall I write:

Dr. Brown
address—or Mr. M. A. Brown, M. D.?

3. Is it proper to write Dear?

F. R.

IT IS better to spell out Doctor, although it is not necessary to do this.

2. On the envelope write Doctor M. A. Brown or M. A. Brown, Esq., M. D.

3. My Dear Doctor Brown is the best form. My Dear is more formal than Dear.

Hotel Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

What do I do on entering a hotel with my husband—accompany him to the desk while he registers, or take a seat in the lobby?

READER.

TAKE a seat in the lobby.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Protect Yourself From Unclean Food

IN THE steamer chair next to mine is a fine old gentleman; eighty-seven years of age. He is crossing the ocean for the sixty-fifth time. Today I found him in reminiscent mood, bubbling over with most interesting stories.

DR COPELAND

Ocean travel today is far different from what it was a half century ago. It is joy now. It must have been agony then. I am writing this on a great liner that can traverse the distance from the English Channel to New York in a trifle more than four days. It was far different in the olden days.

My friend began his travels when it took weeks instead of days. Not only was the speed less, but the living and sanitation of that time were in marked contrast with the cleanliness and health protecting methods of today.

On one of these trips, in 1866 I believe, the old gentleman faced cholera. There were 1,300 persons on the crowded ship when the terrible disease was discovered. Almost immediately the vessel turned back to Liverpool, which port it had left three days before. Before it could land 300 persons had died.

I inquired what was done to protect the rest of the passengers.

"We were told not to drink beer," my neighbor said. Then he added in plaintive tones, "It did no good to follow this advice."

There is no doubt that food and drinks are the usual carriers of cholera germs. Without considering the merits or demerits of beer as a beverage, it is extremely doubtful that it ever carried cholera, no matter what else it may have done to the human family.

Unclean food, food contaminated by unclean hands, caused that epidemic, as it has produced many another. One of the privileges of modern times is our remarkable freedom from such infections.

Typhoid fever is like cholera in the way it reaches us. Long ago we learned that milk and water from clean sources and conveyed in their original state of purity give a guarantee of health.

Almost the only ailment commonly traceable in these days to contaminated food is diarrhea. Various of the simple intestinal disturbances may be due to such preventable causes.

You cannot afford to take chances on the raw foods. The ones that are cooked are made safe by the heating. Those that we serve as they are purchased must be selected with great care.

It was the neglect of such precautions that made possible the cholera trouble of 1866 and of all other years. My friend who is enjoying splendid health at an advanced age, is far safer now than he was in the olden days.

Shaw's 'Major Barbara' Has Shavian Epigrams By Half a Dozen Shaws

By GEORGE SEIBEL

PIRANDELLO, the Italian dramatist, wrote a play called "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The title might fit Shaw's Salvation Army episode called "Major Barbara," for here are six or seven characters in search of Mr. Shaw. And, having found him, they immediately copy his style, adopt his philosophy, take snuff out of his snuff box and sit on his front door step.

George Seibel

Which is to say the obvious about the play at the Nixon Theater, that its principal characters are all of them variations of the great St. Bernard whose bark is so unlike that people do not mind his bite.

The other characters are lifted from Charles Dickens, who died too soon to utilize the possibilities of General Booth.

"You clever, clever devil," says Prof. Cusins to Andrew Undershaft. He calls him Machiavelli, and Undershaft calls the Greek scholar Euripides. They're both Shaw, and so is Major Barbara, and so is Stephen, and for that matter there is a good deal of Shaw in Snobby Price and Bill Walker, under the Dickens exterior.

So here we have Shaw shooting at us from six or seven different angles, peppering us with epigrams until Right and Wrong look like the Gold Dust Twins.

It Is To Think

This play also makes people think. Perhaps that is one reason why there is little applause. People can't applaud when they are trying to get the snarls out of a crewel of yarn. They hardly have the ability to appreciate rare acting, which the Guild puts into this comedy in rich profusion.

Dudley Digges has not the same opportunity for showy comedy that he had last week, but all the more must his subtle and convincing picture of the munitions manufacturer command admiration.

Frieda Inescort also is deprived of the picturesque transitions that made her Liza last week so entertaining, but all the more she merits praise for the variant phases of her smiling missionary spirit.

Elliott Cabot as the Greek professor, modeled upon Shaw's friend Gilbert Murray, has that infectious twinkle which could persuade anybody that there isn't much difference, if any, between a Dionysiac procession and a Salvation Army parade.

But these three are only the outstanding members of the troupe which includes Courtleigh Harwood as an exuberant mincemeat-group, Ruby Hallett as an alcoholic soul to be saved, Edith Kent as a humorous hypocrite, Peter Watson as a banker afraid of a woman's tongue, and P. J. Kelly as the down-and-out worker who is Shaw's plea for old-age pensions, just one of his many pleas in this play.

Propaganda Plus

For here we have all kinds of propaganda. Even the "deceased wife's sister law" comes in for a delicious slap. Emotional religion is hit again and again. Tainted money, both of the munition manufacturer and the whisky distiller, is aired as if it needed airing badly.

And "middle class morality," which is to Shaw what a row of bottles was to Carrie Nation, is trodden and trampled and trounced by the six or seven Shaws who prance through this play.

Even journalism is not forgotten, for when Andrew Undershaft discovers that his son Stephen is fit for nothing else, he decides he might make a good popular journalist.

Like a juggler Shaw keeps all his colored balls in the air until the dazzled spectator has forgotten how many there are.

"Maj. Barbara" is Shaw at his best and most paradoxical. He is a clever devil, no matter what mask he holds up as he speaks.

And "Maj. Barbara" also shows the Theater Guild at its best and most commendable, whether in the finely atmospheric settings of Cleon Throckmorton or in the histrionic skill with which the dozen or more players conceal the dark secret that they are all vegetarians, anti-militarists, collectors of religions, members of the Fabian Society wearing long beards, and gifted with the richest dower of Irish blarney since Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

Romance

Mary Duncan is seen in a leading role in "Romance of the Rio Grande," screen feature of the bill in the Penn.

RIO GRANDE ROMANCE LASTS RATHER LONG IN THE PENN

Not the white teeth of Warner Baxter, but the dark velvet notes of George Dewey Washington, must be considered the best thing in the Penn this week. He has a voice, this man with the heroic and historic names, and if George Washington were to say he hadn't, which the Worse for George's reputation as a truthful chap. That voice is heard to very good advantage in several sentimental songs which, as he says of himself after his applause, went to the hearts of the audience, if not to their heads.

Fiestas and Coyotes

As for the white teeth of Warner Baxter, they are freely exhibited in the "Romance of the Rio Grande," a rather long-drawn-out picture made from a very fine novel by Katherine Fullerton Gerould. It's another old Arizona background, but the coughing of the audience indicated that the story as filmed had not cured their pulmonary troubles. It is an ambitious scenario, but, aside from the acting of Robert Edeson, as the old master of Santa Margarita, it proved that fiestas and howling coyotes are not sufficient to make romance.

Music Hath Charms

There is considerable gun-play on several occasions, and this is very well managed. First the hero is shot, and the heroine revives him with a theme song. This cure having worked so well, when the heroine is shot he tries it on her, and she revives pronto—proving the miraculous power of the theme song in talkie therapy.

Warner Baxter as the hero and Mary Duncan as the hero', Antonio Moreno as a very treacherous villain, and a pair of comedians in a comic Toreador song are all acceptable, but the fine story of Mrs. Gerould has become incoherent and choppy in adaptation.

Farina as a Star

"Our Gang" provides a comic full of humor, with Farina as the feature, and President Hoover talks about Commander Byrd, with oblique glances at a mike.

Dick Leibert's bit is about "Peter Piper's Peck of Pickled Peppers," and Elias Breeskin revives memories of Caruso. With the assistance of a pony chorus and some real horses, Nat Nazarro also presides over a race-track production in which his own dancing is among the best things.

Leginska Conducts And Plays Tonight

The Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra, with Ethel Leginska, pianist and conductor, will give the fourth May Beegle Concert in Syria Mosque tonight. The program will include Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy, played and conducted by Mme. Leginska, Wagner's overture to "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, Liszt's "Les Preludes," and Leginska's "Little Boy Blue" and "Old King Cole."

Helen Menken has the featured role in "The Infinite Shoeblack," dramatic play in Alvin.

MAIDEN SISTERS KNIT AND REBEL ON PITT STAGE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The drama of three maiden sisters—two of whom are under the Puritanic domination of the oldest one—is unfolded in "What a Woman Wants," the current George Sharp presentation in the Pitt. The production is an amusing drama and it gets kind treatment from Mr. Sharp's emoters, who this week are apparently under the influence of the guest-star presence of Margaret Anglin.

Pride, Mercy and Patience Worthington—ages ranging from 40 to 15 years above that live a secluded spinster existence in Lexington, Mass. Their daily companions are horse-hair furniture and cotton stockings, and they spend their time knitting woolen socks for tropical heathens—that is until a certain fateful day, occurring in Act No. 1, when Demon Alcohol enters their domicile in the form of a physician's prescription. Then havoc "commences."

One swig from the bottle and Patience openly rebels against the edicts of the staid and elder Pride. Two swigs and she is ready to go to Boston, furnish an apartment and "wear pajamas." And this latter intention sends them running for the smelling salts for Pride, who cries, "It looks like a snake is crawling into our Eden." Which brings the unsympathetic retort, "and I hope it brings a whole basket full of apples," from our heroine, the rebel.

A 30-Year Pursuit

Well, Patience lives up to her word, the apartment becomes a reality and it is there that the remaining two acts of the play's action occurs—action which results in Patience winning a man, Mercy getting a fellow who has pursued her for 30 years and the worm-turned Pride demanding the address of one of those face lifters.

Many other things and characters enter into the plot, of course. There is a baby for one thing and a butler for another. Then there is a Mr. East from the West, who believes he is pursuing Patience, but, who in reality, is being pursued by her. Also there are an orphaned girl, mother of the chee-ild; a villainous sort of shyster lawyer and a scalawag chauffeur.

Miss Anglin instills vitality into her role of Patience and, incidentally, into the whole play. She is the life of the party, so to speak. Like her character, she is a gadabout. While Patience supposedly runs around to dinners, concerts and theater parties, Miss Anglin is on the go, almost continuously, all over the stage. When she remains in one spot for more than a minute, it is an event. And everywhere she goes, a handkerchief goes with her. This handkerchief impresses as being a bit superfluous. But then, maybe Miss Anglin has a cold.

Mabel Kroman as the sister, Mercy, is a picture for any album as she sits there in her cotton hose and stern black dress and knits, knits and knits. And it can be said for her that she succeeds in subduing the Kroman personality and becomes, almost in entirety, the starved bit of femininity she is called upon to portray.

Alice Ann Baker does well enough with her Pride characterization and three-inch earrings, except that her face registers amusement at times when perturbation is more the order of the play. Others in the cast are Harland Tucker, Gus Forbes, Hugh Banks, Robert Fiske, Lucette Parker, Norman Porter and Arthur Sprenkle.

SONG WRITER MAKES GOOD ON SCREEN IN ALDINE

The romance between a Tin Pan Alley composer and an aristocratic southern belle is the motivating theme of "The Song of Kentucky," current talkie in the Aldine. Joseph Wagstaff, from the musical comedy stage, appears to advantage in the hero role. Lois Moran portrays the heroine.

The hero, making plenty of cash as the writer of popular songs, has a higher ambition. He wants to compose worth-while music. Eventually he does. It is a rhapsody and it is introduced as the climax of the production with Hero Wagstaff doing the conducting.

The Rhapsody Depicts

The rhapsody tells in music—what the cameras tell beforehand of the composer's love for the southern belle, of thudding hoofs in the Kentucky Derby and of a romance that seemingly has hit the rocks of ruin. And it is this rhapsody that is the means of straightening out a tangled plot and sending the heroine into the arms of the hero at the last fadeout.

There are some thrills—and mud and rain—in the racetrack episodes, which introduce actual scenes from the Kentucky Derby. There are some laughs, in the person of a song publisher. And there is some pretty vocalizing on the part of Mr. Wagstaff.

The picture has striven to catch the spirit of the Blue Grass region, but it is doubtful if it has. Too many side issues have been dragged in. Except for its music, it impresses as being merely ordinary.

Schenley Football Team to Be Feted

Members of the championship Schenley High School football team will be guests of honor tomorrow evening at a dinner to be given in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. by the Schenley Hi Y Club. A number of the members of the University of Pittsburgh football squad also will be guests, together with Coach Jock Sutherland and other members of his advisory board. William H. Boyce, Jr., who is president of the Hi Y Club at Schenley, will be toastmaster at the dinner, which will start at 6 o'clock.

Why Pay a $100.00 Tax for a Nuisance That Can Be Avoided?

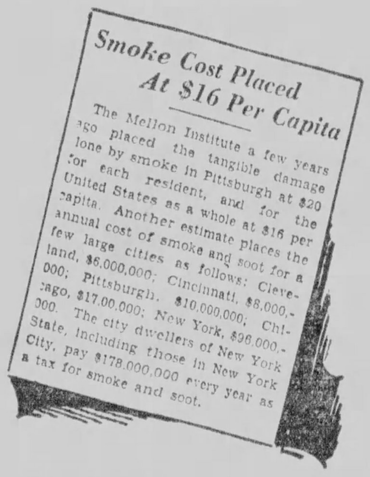
THE average Pittsburgh family of five pays $100.00 annually for smoke. You can't individually wipe out all of your share of that expense.

But a large part of it can be eliminated. The Bureau of Mines says, "About 60% of all the smoke in the atmosphere is made in the residential section in house-heating furnaces."

A large part of the cost to you comes from your own coal-burning furnace. By burning Hazelwood Coke you can have more uniform, healthful heat, a cleaner house, and less expense for cleaning, papering and painting. It will cost you less money to use Hazelwood Coke, and you will be doing your share toward making a cleaner, brighter, more cheerful and more healthful neighborhood.

By following the simple instructions of any Hazelwood dealer, listed below, you can burn Hazelwood Coke satisfactorily in your present furnace.

Reproduced from Dec. 1, 1929 N. Y. Herald-Tribune



Smoke Cost Placed At $16 Per Capita

The Mellon Institute a few years ago placed the tangible damage done by smoke in Pittsburgh at $20 for each resident, and for the United States as a whole at $16 per capita. Another estimate places the annual cost of smoke and soot for a few large cities as follows: Cleveland, $6,000,000; Cincinnati, $8,000,000; Pittsburgh, $10,000,000; Chicago, $17,000,000; New York, $96,000,000. The city dwellers of New York State, including those in New York City, pay $178,000,000 every year as a tax for smoke and soot.

Hazelwood Coke is properly sized for domestic use. The Bureau of Mines says, "The best size of coke for house-heating furnaces and stoves is between one-half and two inches." Hazelwood fills these specifications.

Ten Advantages of Burning Hazelwood Coke

To the Individual Home:
1. A cleaner house
2. More uniform heat
3. Better health
4. Less labor
5. Greater economy

To the Community:
1. No smoke
2. More sunshine
3. Happier people
4. More beauty
5. Less expense

Some Ethics of Carlyle Make Drama in Alvin As 'Infinite Shoeblack'

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

WITH a title born of Carlyle, "The Infinite Shoeblack," the same being predicated on the Scottish philosopher's declaration that no shoeblack could be made happy for more than an hour or two even by ministers of finance, practitioners in the art of upholstery and masters of the confectionary trade, one might expect almost anything that would be puzzling to have occurred in the Alvin last night. And something did occur—a revelation that the abstract can be dramatized. Quite successfully, too. Really amazingly successfully when it is considered that drama that actually clicks usually is based on palpable, observable entities.

Do not get the idea from this introduction that "The Infinite Shoeblack" is devoid of facts. There are plenty of them in the play, which, when it simmers down to the dregs, is a tragedy of fact, a little draggy for those who must have their pep, and a little obtuse to such of us who cannot think as deeply as Carlyle, but, in spite of such handicaps, dramatic. Right interesting, too. If we judge by its power to stir the emotions, it will not fail to find responsive audiences because it is affecting as well as effective drama.

Ideas Dramatized

As intimated, it is a sort of freak play in that it dramatizes, not people, but ideas. The protagonist is the infinite and the antagonist the gross world—the spiritual that is in all of us versus the animal that is in all of us.

There are people in the play, of course. They symbolize the ideas. To make them discernible and feelable the people of this play descend to sentimental love and even to war, although the latter merely is atmosphere, evidently designed to get the characters out of Edinburgh and into Cairo and to give the setting a little color that bare rooms of Scotia do not afford.

A most capable company gives "The Infinite Shoeblack" acting lustre that wins warm approval. Heading it are Helen Menken and Leslie Banks, the latter rating a little extra mention for having directed the production and designing the settings. Miss Menken's role is that of a girl seeped in philosophy but steeped in the incarnadine wine of life. The zest that boils within her tells her that she is no one man's woman and that the male of the species was made to be her plaything. And so well does she play her part that Miss Menken makes one believe that is just the sort of woman Mary is. Higher compliment to art cannot be paid.

Believes She's Good

Mary, played by Miss Menken, represents the carnal factor, Mr. Banks, the spiritual. She comes into his life when he, as a poor student, scarcely able to pay his room rent, takes her into his humble abiding place, ill, just as he had done for an injured cat. He does not believe she is as bad as she tells him she is. He loves her. The doctor he calls says her trouble is mental—that her emotional power registers many degrees above her physical capacity—that she needs a long rest. So Andrew Berwick, portrayed admirably as a blunt, outspoken, honorable student, does a dishonorable thing in order to provide money to send her away.

They meet again in Cairo, where he is a soldier with one empty sleeve and she is the pet of his commanding officer. Likewise she has become rich through an inheritance. And there ensues one of the strangest love scenes ever acted on any stage. He is for ideal love—holy love, and she must come to him because he is a man and they will go forth from there as man and wife, and she must leave all behind, even her money. She does. It is, as Andrew says in his Scotch dialect, "blethering," but it is effective drama in which both Mr. Banks and Miss Menken score heavily.

Ending Is Tragic

Sad to relate there is a tragic end, since the emotional power of Mary, of which the doctor had warned, got tangled up, somehow with her physical strength again, with the arrival of the stork, and the finale is an old-fashioned death-bed scene such as we have not seen since the young wife of Edgar Allan Poe died in the Nixon a few seasons ago. But it symbolizes triumph of the infinite.

The company is quite large. The author, Norman MacOwan, plays the doctor and makes a good job of it. Essex Dane makes the part of the mistress of a shady resort appear natural. Most of the others have roles of only minor importance but the little they have to do they do well.

BUCS' DEAL FOR FINN OFF

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Buc Trading Attitude.

ENS WON'T REJECT HELPFUL SWAPS

WHAT the attitude of the Pittsburgh club will be on the matter of player trades during the series of major league baseball meetings beginning today in New York was indicated by the deal swung suddenly last Saturday afternoon.

Lloyd Waner

As late as Friday, President Barney Dreyfuss repeated his November statement that it was the intention of the Pirate management to keep First Baseman Earl Sheely for next year, explaining that the big first sacker had not had a fair chance in the 1929 season owing to an early injury to his left arm that handicapped him in batting.

Twenty-four hours after that statement was made, Sheely, together with a big roll of currency (a much larger sum, by the way, than has been named in the various estimates), was traded to San Francisco for Gus Suhr, the slugging first sacker of the Seals.

The explanation is that the plan to retain Sheely was abandoned because an opportunity suddenly presented itself for the acquisition of somebody better.

THE further activities of the local club in the trade market this week and later will be watched with the greatest interest. The Buccaneer leaders are pledged to stand pat for the 1930 race, but if a chance offers to strengthen the team by swapping some of the present material the Pittsburgh chiefs will not hesitate to take advantage of it.

Of course, there are some players on the home roster who will not be sold or traded at any terms, such as Lloyd and Paul Waner, Pie Traynor and one or two others. For instance, while discussing the younger Waner, Donie Bush said before he gave up the managership of the Corsairs, that he would not trade Lloyd for any player in the country, and it is safe to say that the present management holds the same high opinion of the little centerfielder. But there are some others for whom trade will be considered if the right offers are made. No manager will turn a deaf ear to any proposal that promises to strengthen his team.

ONE vacancy in the big-time football coaching ranks has been filled by the signing of Lou Little to take the place of Charley Crowley at Columbia. But at the same time another vacancy has been created, as Little, in accepting the Columbia job, gives up his post at Georgetown, and it will therefore be necessary for the latter to find a new mentor.

Lou Little

What Little will be able to accomplish at Columbia is a question. Many football men who have observed closely conditions at that university say that Columbia will have to attract better material before it can expect any coach to get results. The student body is enormous, it is true, but the incoming football timber from year to year has not been of the right quality.

LITTLE'S action in signing with Columbia further complicates the coaching situation at Pennsylvania. Little and Bert Bell were the men most prominently mentioned at first to succeed Lou Young when the latter resigned at Penn after serving for seven years. But Bell recently accepted the backfield post at Temple and now Little is also eliminated. Lud Wray and Lon Jourdet have been named as possibilities during the last few days, but some hitch developed at a conference on Saturday, with the result that Sydney E. Hutchinson, chairman of the Penn Council on Athletics, threw up his hands in despair and departed for Falmouth, Fla. He will not return until next week, and in the meantime the matter of selecting a new coach will be shelved.

HAVING reached the world championship peak that he made his objective when he started to build up his team by buying high-priced young baseball players from the minor leagues, Connie Mack is said to be on the verge of parting with the first athlete he bought when he started on that undertaking.

The player in question is Third Baseman Sammy Hale, whose acquisition from Portland after the season of 1922 was followed by the purchase of Paul Strand, Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane, Lefty Grove, Max Bishop, Joe Boley, Ossie Orwoll, George Earnshaw and others. It is said that Mack figures Hale has outlived his usefulness as a member of the A's and is ready to drop him. A deal to send Sammy to the Browns or White Sox is reported probable.

THERE is at least one veteran hockey man of prominence who thinks the new rules are all wrong and doesn't hesitate to say so. He is Odie Cleghorn, former manager of the Pittsburgh club, and now a National League referee.

Odie Cleghorn

Odie refereed the Blackhawks-American game in Chicago Sunday night and stopped here yesterday en route to New York, where he will officiate in the contest between the Americans and Toronto tonight. Asked what he thought of new hockey, the former Pirate skipper said he could see nothing to recommend it.

"WHY, it isn't hockey at all," declared Cleghorn. "The new rules have increased scoring, there is no denying that, but they have destroyed real hockey. You don't see clever stickhandling, or fine inside work any more. It's just a wild shirmish of the kind the kids used to put on for mere fun on the frozen rivers and lakes. More goals? Undoubtedly. Uncertainty? I'll grant you that, too. I refereed a game the other night in which one club was leading the other 3 to 1 with only four minutes to play. It looked to be all over, yet the trailing team tied the score and then won out.

"THESE things the new rules have provided. There is no question, either, that the game is drawing for the present. They had to lock the doors in Chicago Sunday night, the same crowds have also been the order elsewhere around the circuit. But whether this will keep up or not remains to be seen.

"Baseball fans wanted more hitting, but they have been given too much of it and have tired of joke home runs. It may be the same with the increased scoring in hockey. Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa all are sour on the rules. I don't blame them. The stuff they are getting isn't hockey in any sense of the word and I shall not be surprised if the old rules are restored, at least in part, next season."

BENNY OOSTERBAAN, famous all-America football star of the University of Michigan until two years ago, captain of the 1927 team, and ranked as one of the greatest ends of all time when he and Benny Friedman formed the outstanding forward-passing combination of the country, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday to accept an

SCOTT RULED VICTOR OVER VON PORAT

By JACK DEMPSEY,
Referee of Von Porat-Scott Fight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. I disqualified" Otto Von Porat last night and gave the fight to Phil Scott for the very adequate reason that Von Porat hit Scott a terrific left-hand foul blow as the first punch in the second round.

Von Porat's punch was a straight left shot with great power for a point far below Scott's belt. It was neither a hook nor an uppercut. The blow landed far down in foul territory, and Scott crumpled helplessly to the floor.

I started no count. None was necessary. I saw the punch start, I saw where it landed. Scott was fouled and crippled and there was only one thing to do. I did it. I awarded the fight to Scott by disqualifying Von Porat.

BLOW IS ACCIDENTAL

The fight started off in fast and furious fashion. It promised a million dollars' worth of action. Together with everybody else, I looked for plenty of fireworks all the way. And then came the regrettable finish in the second.

I'm sorry that Von Porat had to lose on a foul. He is a good, clean fighter. His low punch undoubtedly was accidental, but that, unfortunately for him, did not excuse him. The ring rules are clear on what a referee must do under such circumstances and I acted in keeping with the rules.

VON PORAT DISMAYED
17,000 Astonished by Quick Finish of Big Fight

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Just a jolly bit of action crept into the situation before Phil Scott, the long, languid heavyweight pride of Great Britain, collapsed here last night from a low blow at the start of the second round and won his much ballyhooed match from the fierce punching Otto Von Porat, of Norway and Chicago, on a foul.

Almost 17,000 of the faithful, drawn to the big battle palace to see a fight and simultaneously come to the aid of a sweet charity, the Christmas Fund, looked on in amazement as the sad-faced Norwegian opened the second round of a 12-round encounter with a sweeping left hook that toppled the tall Briton to the canvas in agony. The blow apparently was very low.

Not the least amazed of all the onlookers was Jack Dempsey, once the king of the heavyweights, refereeing his first major bout. While Scott, his face twisted in pain, toppled slowly like a tree undermined on a river bank, and Von Porat stood around looking very much dismayed, Dempsey made a confused effort to bring order out of chaos.

The Old Man Mauler, once the master of every situation in there where the going is rough and tough—and judgment must be swift, seemed hopelessly at sea. Dempsey first motioned Von Porat to continue, then rushed over to help the fallen Briton. Then with Von Porat's aid, he carried Scott to his corner while the packed house, still stunned and unaware of the significance of it all, looked on in astonished silence.

DECISION IN DOUBT

The decision was not announced until Dempsey had consulted with a half-dozen official-looking per-

'Tunney Is Next,' Shires Says In Victory

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Victorious in his first professional boxing bout, Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires wants Gene Tunney next.

Shires made his bow at the White City arena here last night and spent just 21 seconds of his first fight for profit in knocking out dangerous Dan Daly, a Cleveland youth who also was making his initial appearance as a professional heavyweight.

After the bout, Promoter Jim Mullen told Shires his next opponent would be George Trafton, huge center of the Chicago Bears, of the National Pro Football League, but Charles Arthur noisily and firmly refused the assignment. Trafton is managed by Red Grange.

"No more punk fighters get any free publicity through me," was Shires' ultimatum. "I want the best or none. Get Tunney out of retirement for me."

The great one was only mildly stirred by his quick victory and the circumstances surrounding the show. It drew a capacity crowd of around 5,000, with gate receipts of approximately $12,000.

"Big crowd?" Shires asked. "What's 5,000 people when 55,000 used to turn out to see me play the Yankees."

PIRATES DROP NEGOTIATIONS FOR STAR

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. Coincident with the annual sessions of the National and American leagues this afternoon, officials of the Pirates went into a huddle with other baseball men with a view of disposing of two members of the squad.

Manager Ens has several players who perhaps will not be with the club next season and negotiations were on today to sell two of the men. Ens and Dreyfuss did not care to disclose the identity of the athletes, feeling that publicity at this time might have the effect of handicapping the deals.

SPIKES WILD RUMORS

Ens took occasion to throw cold water on a lot of wild rumors regarding deals that have not been discussed and which are not even contemplated by the Pittsburgh officials.

The Pirate bosses also announced that the negotiations looking toward the purchase of Second Baseman Mickey Finn, of the San Francisco Missions, were entirely off. The dickerings were halted for two reasons: In the first place, Wade Killefer and his associates are asking a price for Finn which the Pirates consider exorbitant. The other consideration involves First Baseman Gus Suhr, who has just been purchased by the Pittsburgh club from the San Francisco Seals, of the Coast League. The acquisition of the slugging infielder has caused the Pirate officials to conclude that they don't need Finn.

"I think we're just about set in the infield," Manager Ens told the Sun-Telegraph correspondent this afternoon.

And then Ens disclosed that he expects to start the season with George Grantham on second base; Pie Traynor will be at third; Dick Bartell, or some other youngster, at short, and Suhr at first.

"Suhr looks good to me," continued Ens. "He should supply the punch we did not have last season. Everybody who has spoken to me since the deal was made boosts Suhr as a re-

CELTICS LOSE FRANCHISE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The franchise of the New York Celtics in the American Professional Basketball League was declared forfeited by officials of the circuit last night.

The announcement was made by J. J. O'Brien, president of the league. O'Brien said the league had under consideration applications from two cities, one in the West and one in the East, for the New York franchise. He declined to state what cities were seeking membership but said definite action would be taken within a few days. In the event neither application is granted, the league will operate as a seven-club circuit with franchises held in Paterson, N. J., Syracuse, and Rochester, N. Y., Brooklyn, Cleveland, Chicago and Fort Wayne, Ind.

FARMER COOPER TOO GOOD FOR BELMONT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Old Man Experience, in the person of Farmer Joe Cooper, the Terre Haute veteran, proved too much for young Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the main bout at Motor Square Garden last night, and Jimmy took quite a pasting before the final gong clanged at the end of the tenth round.

Making his second appearance in the Garden, Cooper left no doubt of his superiority over his opponent, carrying the fight to him all of the way and winning eight of the 10 rounds, in direct contrast to his work the night he won a questionable decision over Buck McTiernan in the same ring several weeks ago. That night he fought only in the eighth and ninth rounds, being outboxed by McTiernan in the first seven and also in the final frame.

COOPER TOO RINGWISE

The awkwardly clever Cooper knew entirely too much for Belmont, making his first start as a big leaguer or main bout fighter at a big club, and the issue never was in doubt, although his aggressiveness gave Jimmy the first round and he did enough hard and wild swinging to carry the fifth by a shade. All of the others went to Cooper and the closing rounds were tough ones for Jimmy, who was bleeding badly from the nose and mouth and otherwise was in distress.

It was well that the judges agreed in their votes for Cooper last night, for the referee's ballot

Phil Scott Quit, Von Porat's View

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Otto Von Porat admitted after the fight last night that he had struck Phil Scott low, but declared that his opponent took the "easiest way out." Von Porat added:

"I hit him below the belt, but nowhere near as hard as he made out. It wasn't really hard enough to drop him off his feet. I never fouled a man in my life. I never even have been warned for hitting low. Scott had a chance to get out, and he took it."

IOWA TOPPLES DUKES, 35-26

IOWA CITY, Dec. 10.—A pair of second half rallies made possible by sensational long shots were not enough to overcome the rugged University of Iowa basketball team here last night and Duquesne University, of Pittsburgh, lost the first game of its Western invasion, 35 to 26.

Led by Capt. Benedict, who scored half of the Dukes' points, the Pittsburgh quintet kept the result of the game in doubt until the final three minutes of play. The score at the half was 15 to 7.

The Dukes play Loyola in Chicago tomorrow night. Last night's lineup:

SCOTT DEMPSEY

VON PORAT

The elimination heavyweight battle between Otto Von Porat, Norwegian of Chicago, and Phil Scott, British champion, in Madison Square Garden, New York, last night, ended most unsatisfactorily when Scott went down under the first punch in the second round and claimed a foul, which was allowed by Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, in the role of referee for the charity bout. FOUR PANTHER STARS ARE HONORED

By Howard Harpster

(All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928)

Howard Harpster

With the exception of a few scattered intersectional games and two between all-star teams, the 1929 football season is a thing of the past. That football reached a new height in popularity and prosperity during the season cannot be questioned and in a brief review of the year many interesting facts are brought to light.

The three outstanding teams of the country were the University of Pittsburgh, Purdue and Notre Dame. These teams were undefeated and untied and all played difficult schedules. Notre Dame probably faced the toughest schedule of the year, for there was no letdown for Coach Rockne's Ramblers anywhere along the way.

The section of the country where the best all-round football was played was in the Middle West. This section's superiority is best shown by Grantland Rice's statistics showing that the Middle West defeated more than 90 per cent of all its western, southern and eastern opponents.

IRISH DRAW THRONGS

Notre Dame, the traveling team from South Bend, led all other elevens in attracting spectators and played before more than 550,000 people during the season. The Irish tilt with Southern California drew the largest crowd of the year, 120,000 jamming their way into Soldier Field, Chicago, to witness the spectacle.

Georgia Tech, last year's national champion, went through a season that was quite a contrast with the fine record of 1928. The Golden Tornado lost six games and fell far into the depths.

The annual mythical all-star elevens are with us again, and they are as popular as the crossword puzzle fad of a few years ago. Last year, there were something like 20 so-called real all-star teams, not any two of which were exactly alike. This year there will be even more.

Since the selecting of these teams has become so popular and everyone is coming out with the "only" authentic eleven, I have decided to enter an eleven of my own choosing in the race.

PICKS ALL-STADIUM TEAM

The team which I have chosen comes under the head of an "All-Stadium eleven." The men selected are only players who appeared in the Stadium during the season and are chosen on the showings in their games there.

This eleven is not in any way supposed to be official or authentic. It is chosen without prejudice or favoritism. I am giving no reasons for my selections, but offer them for what they are worth.

Here goes:

ENDS — Donchess, Pitt, and Flanagan, Tech.

TACKLES — Twomey, Notre Dame, and Levine, Wash-Jeff.

GUARDS — Montgomery, Pitt, and Cannon, Notre Dame.

CENTER — Moynihan, Notre Dame.

QUARTERBACK — Carideo, Notre Dame.

HALFBACKS—Uansa, Pitt, and Elder, Notre Dame.

FULLBACK—Parkinson, Pitt.

PITT, TECH TO OPPOSE THIS STAR

FRANCIS TAPPAN, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA END

PITT IN 1928 ROSE TOURNEY GAME

Pictured above is one of the real stars of the University of Southern California Trojan eleven which Carnegie Tech meets at Los Angeles next Saturday and Pitt opposes in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, January 1. Tappan has been named as an All-America end by many selectors of all-star teams. In the background is the Rose Bowl, with the Pitt team of 1927 in action against Pop Warner's Stanford team in the game on New Year's Day, 1928. The Panthers, captained by Gibby Welch, all-America halfback, went to the Coast undefeated, as is this year's outfiit, and lost, 8 to 7. Dick Hyland is carrying the ball for Stanford in the picture. Strangely, he recently was in Pittsburgh, as a writer for the Hearst newspapers, attempting to negotiate a Christmas fund game between Pitt and either Fordham or Colgate in New York. Because of the Tournament of Roses bid, which was anticipated, Pitt had to decline the offer.

COOPER VICTOR OVER BELMONT

was for a draw, and any disagreement by the judges would have made a decided heat the official decision, and it would have been as far out of line as the award to Cooper over McTiernan, who witnessed last night's fight from a ringside seat prior to leaving for Hot Springs, Ark., to rest up following his knockout defeat in three rounds by Mickey Solmen at the Moose Club last Friday night.

In his only bout between his meetings with McTiernan and Belmont here, Cooper was technically knocked out by Tommy Freeman in one round in Cleveland.

BOTH DRAW BLOOD

Belmont fought as well as he could last night in view of the fact that he was outclassed. He took a bad body beating as Cooper repeatedly delivered a backhand jolt to the body in close, and also stood up under a lot of hard raps and chops to the head in the clinches, where he was unable to tie up Cooper or fight back. At long range, his hook was virtually useless against Cooper's straight left, which constantly was bringing him up short. Cooper forced him to fight along the lines the Farmer dictated and the veteran's trick of catching Jimmy's hooking and swinging blows on his gloves virtually nullified the latter's long-range attack.

Belmont's spurt in the fifth round drew the blood from Cooper's nose, but the flow was immediately checked and the Farmer more than evened up with the stream he brought from Jimmy's nose and mouth in the last two rounds, in each of which he forced the protector from Belmont's mouth. Jimmy slipped to the floor a number of times during the bout as he missed blows or tried to evade Cooper's counters. He undoubtedly would have been able to make a better showing if he had had the use of a straight left jab, which he will have to develop for future bouts. His left hook takes too long to wheel into position for working purposes.

Both Cooper and Belmont weighed 146 pounds at 3 p. m.

RUDY WHIPS HERMAN

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, 147, handed out quite a beating to Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, 146½, in every round of the eight round semi-final, the best bout on the card for action. Jackie taking the punishment well and fighting back hard.

Two technical knockouts opened the show, running up the Garden's string of such ending to 12 in 14 consecutive fights. Referee Red Robinson stopped the second bout to save Gene Reed, of Charleroi, 140, from further punishment at the fists of Young Joe Walcott, Washington (Pa.) Negro, 144, in the fourth round. Reed was punched around badly all the way and was bleeding from a cut on his left eye and reeling from a furious two-fisted punching when the referee intervened.

Elmer Freeman, of the East End, 149, making his professional debut, was a setup for Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, 146, in the opening bout and Referee Al Grayber humanely stopped the slaughter in the fourth round. Freeman took counts of eight and and nine in the first round and was a bloody mess from the second round on.

AMATEUR SHOW NEXT

A good-sized crowd witnessed the show, the last card of professional battles in the Garden until Christmas afternoon. An amateur show for a Christmas fund is scheduled next Monday night, with Art Shires, fighting first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, appearing as referee.

Red Robinson and Al Grayber alternated as referees, with Frank Brown and Jock Simco serving as judges, A. C. Couch as timer and Bill Schuster as announcer. Robinson was the referee in the main and second bouts.

Between Rounds

Pete Wilstort, of Chicago, 22-year-old 105-pounder, would like to fight George Pafka here. He is managed by the Carres brothers, of Chicago, and numbers Ike McFowler, Tom Toner, Andy Mitchell, Walter Maxey and Seal Harris among his victims.

Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, who has been visiting friends in Sandusky, O., witnessed the Christmas Fund boxing show in Cleveland last night and will return here before heading East for bouts his manager, Jimmy Bronson, is arranging for him.

Cuddy DeMarco, McKeesport lightweight, has an object in mind in taking on Danny Russell, of Baltimore, in the first 10-round bout of the all-star card at McKeesport Thursday night. It is to show the fans that he is in fighting trim again following a lay-off and thus earn the right to meet Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., in the windup of the following show in the Tube City.

Promoter Jim McGirr has completed the card for Thursday night's show. He has Ike McFowler, of Johnstown, and Chuck Taggert, of Butler, heavyweights, in the main bout; Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, and Georgie Safron, of Canton, O., junior-lightweights, in the semi-final and DeMarco and Russell in the first 10, with Tommy Heilmann, of Donora, meeting Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the six-round preliminary.

AMATEUR SHOWS TONIGHT

The Emerald A. C. stages its first amateur boxing show of the season in the Penn Armory, East End, tonight, while a team of five local amateurs will compete in an inter-city tournament in Buffalo.

The complete card for the local show: 118-pound class, Johnny Warner, Clairton, vs. Joey Leonard, Pittsburgh Lyceum; 126-pound class, George Guba, Clairton, vs. John Hazel, Pittsburgh Lyceum; 135-pound class, Eddie Hebner, Clairton, vs. Dick Pritchard, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Bobby Burns, Emerald A. C., vs. John Ardinger, Willow Club, 147-pound class; John Burso, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Ray Clark, Willow Club; Jack Wilson, Emerald A. C., vs. Lee Landson, Willow Club; 160-pound class, Max Elling, Willow Club, vs. Bernie Shields, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

Tommy Loughran, offended by Gene Tunney's remark on the latter's return from Europe that he wasn't surprised by the three-round knockout of Loughran by Jack Sharkey, because Loughran "lacked knowledge of the finer points of boxing," is a classic. Tommy says it isn't too late for Gene to put the mitts on with him to settle which is the cleverer and that Gene never gave all of the contenders a shot at his title as Tommy did with his light-heavyweight crown before quitting the division.

Goldie Hess boxes Cecil Payne at Los Angeles tonight; Kid Chocolate meets Pinky Silverberg in Brooklyn; Young Zazzarino battles Ralph Esposito in New York; Bucky Boyle is in with Henri de Wancker, and Johnny DeMarco boxes Georgie Mallick at Allentown, Pa.; Sammy Mandell boxes Manuael Quintero in a non-title match at Miami, Fla.; Art De Champlain meets Jimmy Slavin at Gotham, N. Y.; Davy Abad battles Mickey Cohen at Denver and Young Jack Thompson mingles with Bermondsey Billy Wells at Minneapolis.

Curley Reese, claimant of the heavyweight championship of West Virginia, boxes Jack Edwards, of Cleveland, at Clarksburg, W. Va., Thursday night. Lew Vine and Louie Columbo will box the semi-final.

PROFIO TO BOX ZINK

Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Joe Zink, of McKees Rocks, have been matched to box the semi-final to the Young Saylor-Tom Maico bout at the Moose Temple Friday night. Promoter Francis Flynn hopes to complete the card today.

Owing to a conflict in dates, the Cleveland-Pittsburgh amateur boxing show at the Keystone A. C. Friday night is off, the Cleveland team being unable to come here. In place of this program a bill of battles featuring local talent will be staged.

SCOTT BEATS VON PORAT

sons, who crowded into the ring while the handlers of Scott grouped on one side of the former champion shouted "foul" and Von Porat's handlers shrieked "knock-out" from the other. The round itself lasted only 25 seconds, but the confusion that followed left the decision in doubt for minutes.

From the ringside, it appeared that Dempsey had no desire to award the bout to Scott on a foul, but the actions of the Englishman, a picture of agony, left nothing else for him to do. Scott went down easily, but apparently a progressive foul had been inflicted, for his pain increased steadily. He had to be half-carried from the ring.

ROSENBLOOM VICTOR

In a 12-round semi-final Maxie Rosenbloom won the decision over Yale Okun in a fast, rough go. Both are among the four original nominees of the New York State Athletic Commission, named to battle for recognition here as the new light-heavyweight champion. Rosenbloom weighed 172½; Okun, 170¾.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Two games are scheduled tonight in the Alegheny County League, the Goldensons opposing the champion Duquesne Lafayettes at Duquesne High School, while the Franchinas open their home campaign by engaging the Allentown Turners at Columbus Temple.

Only one regular, Bobby Angelo, who is coaching at McKees Rocks High School, will be missing from the starting lineup when the Goldensons take the floor tonight. Angelo will report in time to start the second half of the game. For a time it was feared that the Goldensons would be unable to present their strongest lineup, but Rubenstein and Rosenberg will be on hand.

The Goldensons, fresh from their victory over the Charleroi Lions, are expected to give a good account of themselves against the champions. The South Siders have one of their best teams in years, and are picked to make a determined bid for the championship.

FRANCHINAS READY

The Franchinas are reported in fine shape for their inaugural battle with the Turners. The Franchinas have added several new performers to their roster and with most of last year's regulars back they should present a strong front against Allentown at Columbus Temple.

Tomorrow night will be a gala day on the South Side, the Goldensons opening their home campaign against the Homestead Ackermans. This contest has South Side basketball enthusiasts agog inasmuch as both teams include in their lineups many South Side favorites. The Homestead Ackermans have the two Klinzing boys in their lineup and this fact alone is certain to swell the attendance at the South Side Market House.

The Goldensons will be able to present their full strength against the Ackermans and as both teams are reported in fine physical condition fans across the river are anticipating a real battle-royal.

MORRYS RALLY TO WIN

The Morry-Fintex five rallied, after trailing for three-quarters, to defeat the Elizabeth quintet, 25 to 19, in their Allegheny County League game in the Duke gym last night. Ayers, Lou Reilly and Lippe were the stars.

In the West Penn League the Schneider Club trimmed the Knickerbockers, 30 to 18, while the Penn Five lost to the South Side Falcons, 41-34.

Equitable Life nosed out Trinity Cathedral, 36 to 35, in a last minute rally, after trailing for most of their Central League tilt.

Sales and Service bested Equitable Gas, 42-15, and Pittsburgh Railways copped from Bylesby, 16-15, in the Philadelphia Company League.

Real Estate Savings triumphed over the Rieck-McJunkin quint, 34 to 16, in the Commercial and Industrial loop, while the Mt. Washington Triangles set down St. Paul in the Metropolitan circuit. Rox beat out Ambridge, 30 to 29, in the Rox League.

BASKETBALL RULES QUIZ

Play No. 14.

In a game between Dartmouth and Pennsylvania a personal foul is made against Austin, of Dartmouth. His teammate, Morse, thinking he is the one who was fouled, picks up the ball and makes good on the free throw. What is the correct ruling?

Answer.

The referee rules that the goal does not count and that the ball is to be put into play at center.

Dribbles

Coach Fred (Sonny Boy) Yetter will have a fully organized team to represent the Keystone A. C. next year's champions, as he has been showing the Olympians in form of late and it is expected to see it triumph over the Rieck-McJunkin quint. This is the only game scheduled in the West Penn League tonight.

The Mt. Washington Triangles at Equitable Life basketball court, at Polish Falcon Hall, Pennsylvania avenue, Penn League basketball game. The K. of C. is setting the pace.

The St. Joseph Club of the South Side Church League won away to a [illegible] when it copped its game from Sacred Heart, 36 to 20. McDonald, Red McMahon and Most starred for the winners.

Any team desiring a game with the Crafton Cubs would do well to communicate at once with Manager Joe Cooper, at home and abroad [illegible] Call at Lafayette 9404.

TECH DRILLS AT ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. TODAY

LOCAL GRIDDERS FEEL CHANGE OF CLIMATE

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 10.—The fast-think tourists of Carnegie Tech, soiling by easy but nevertheless exasperating stages across the nation for a football battle Saturday in Los Angeles with Southern California, stopped off here today for the second practice of the trip and almost a full day's layover.

New Mexico spread its best warmth and sunshine as a greeting to the Pittsburgh football party, which with the abundance of wives included in the personnel, resembles a musical comedy cast as much as a football team. The footballers themselves took great delight in stretching cramped muscles in Dodge City yesterday, and tumbled right merrily from the Pullmans today for another extended bit of dry land campaigning.

GREAT WORKOUT

Yesterday's workout in the Kansas town was a very satisfactory one to all concerned. While the weather was right snappy, it was not too cold, and Coaches Waddell and Steffen put their athletes through a long drill. As was the case during the last week of home work in Pittsburgh last week, particular attention was paid to the aerial attack. Harry McCurdy tossed the pigskin far and wide, high and low, short and long to Pete Flanagan, Rosenzweig, Johnny English, Dutch Eyth, Joe Morbito and all other eligible pass receivers who may cavort on the turf of the Los Angeles coliseum Saturday.

Indications today are that much the same routine will be carried out. The change in climate is beginning to have its effect, and even the best conditioned players are finding it a bit more difficult to keep plugging at top speed. There is a definite shortness of breath among the Tartans, which does not, however, interfere with their workouts at the dinner table. It never does.

Strangely enough, the Skibos have absolutely refused to be awed by the impressive record of U. S. C., impressive despite two defeats. Any football team that can score 400 points against 43 must have something on the ball besides a prayer. But the Plaid won't worry. If anything, the Tartans are going to enter this game with Southern California in a better frame of mind than they were for the game Thanksgiving Day in New York with the Violets. And on that day they felt chipper enough to ring the bell for a 20-0 triumph, which was, to say the least, decisive.

GALLUP, N. M., NEXT

Leaving this city at 3:10 a. m. tomorrow morning, the Techites will arrive in Gallup, N. M., at 7:15 for breakfast and then continue onward to Winslow, Ariz., for luncheon and a practice in the afternoon.

On Thursday, we (I am speaking as one of the boys now) will take in the Grand Canyon, Mother Nature's big yawn. Then, Friday morning, bright and early, entirely too early for a none too ambitious sports writer, we hit Pasadena, the end of the journey.

Milestones

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lapp, the well-known Middle Western football official, traveled as far as the Rockies by sleeper with the Carnegie party. Then they continued on to Los Angeles, where they will see the game Saturday.

The Skibo rooters make a snappy appearance in their checked wool, bright blue traveling sweaters, gifts of Graduate Manager Overend.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lawson, also accompanying the Tartans to the Coast, have a strangle hold on the trip bridge championship, with the Waddells, Mr. and Mrs., running a close second.

Several gigantic Kansas jackrabbits were viewed by the lured travelers yesterday. Johnny Dreshar wanted to get off the train and capture one, figuring on using the ears for fans and sending the tail back home for a powder-puff.

These Kansas jacks, by the way, are as big as horses or almost. They sit along the track and stare very smugly at the passing trains. And we stare right back. The rabbits have the edge. They don't have to get dressed in upper berths.

ARMY POINTS FOR GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Army's football squad today settled down to real work for the coast game with Stanford.

Coach Jones has ordered a light scrimmage for this afternoon, the first of a series of brushes in which the varsity will work against Stanford formations as executed by the plebe eleven.

The Cadets held a short workout yesterday which included calisthenics, kicking and passing.

TROJANS WORK HARD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—With 10 gridiron clashes behind them and two more in the offing, the University of Southern California football players today settled down in earnest preparation for their game Saturday with Carnegie Tech.

Dummy scrimmage was held yesterday by the Trojans, who worked until dark on plays of the invaders. Coach Howard Jones gave his players warning that in their anticipation of the Tournament of Roses' clash with the unbeaten Panthers of Pittsburgh, they must not overlook the impending battle with the Tartans.

Local Women Links Stars Make Grade

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 10.—Three Pittsburgh women made the second division in the annual women's season-members tournament, the qualifying round of which was played here yesterday. They were Mrs. W. C. Fownes, Jr., with 55-45—100; Miss Helen B. Morrison, 53-52—105, and Mrs. G. A. Magoon, 57-52—109.

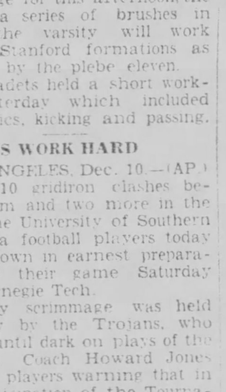
invitation to give a series of talks on "Sportsmanship" at some of the city's high schools.

Oosterbaan spoke yesterday at Carrick High and Knoxville Junior High and will be heard at other local schools during the remainder of the week. Benny is now a member of the coaching staff at Michigan. He served in that capacity in both 1928 and 1929. "I wouldn't attempt to make any more predictions about football," he said. "I thought we were going to have a winning team at Michigan this year, but was disappointed. However, there are other years coming."



Otto Von Porat

IT IS to be regretted that the heavyweight elimination bout in New York last night, between Phil Scott and Otto Van Porat, did not go a more decisive distance and end in more satisfactory fashion. As far as fistic regulations go, Von Porat merited the disqualification he suffered in the second round and Scott was entitled to the award he received when struck low. But decisions won on fouls are always unsatisfactory, and last night's ending and the shortness of the distance traveled leaves the question of superiority between these two title aspirants as high in the air as ever.

ART SHIRES, stormy petrel of the Chicago White Sox, who decided to take up the ring game during baseball's off season, surely made a fireworks start in Chicago last night, when he knocked out Dan Daley, of Cleveland, whoever he is, in the quick time of 13 seconds. But the victory of "The Great" Shires is far from being as impressive as it appears on paper. It doesn't mean so much that the Sox first baseman is so sensationally good as it means that Daley must have been "terrible."

The result only bore out the general suspicion that Daley was a fistic nobody with a fake reputation, sent into the ring for the sole purpose of being knocked flat by Shires, so that the latter could be built up as a future drawing card. The Illinois boxing commission would have been following the right course, probably, if it had acted on its first impulse and forced Shires to meet a real fighter or stay out altogether.

DANVILLE, KY., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Walter Grabruck, 21, of Staunton, Ill., halfback, was elected captain of the Centre College football team last night.

Haas Says He Hit a Strike for World Series Homer

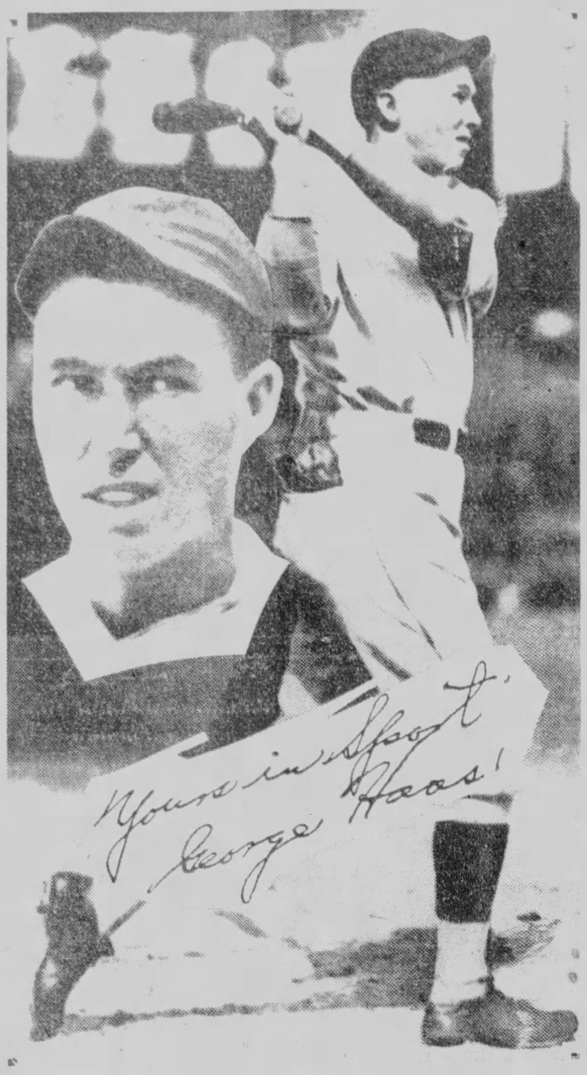
★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

THIRTY-TWO — TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1929

DONS DEPART

W. D. HARRISON and Don Saunders, Pitt sports officials, are to leave for Los Angeles tonight. They are to fly from Columbus, O., to the coast.

MULE HAAS "TELLS ALL"



MULE HAAS

In a letter to Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Mule Haas ends the controversy about what sort of a pitch he slammed for his all-important home run in the deciding game of the recent world series. Large photo shows him at bat for the Athletics. Insert is a closeup of him when he was a member of the Pirates. Signature is taken from his letter.

HAAS SAYS HE HIT A STRIKE FOR HOMER

What sort of a pitch was it that George (Mule) Haas, centerfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, hit for his home run in the ninth inning of the final game of the world series this fall? The fans have been debating that point ever since the series ended with Haas making the wallop that tied the score and set the stage for Bing Miller's wallop to end it in the same frame.

In a letter of reply to an inquiry on the subject from Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Haas, a former Pirate, says he picked out one that was letter high (the letter on his uniform) and over the plate. In other words, it would have been a strike if he had missed it. He says it is his custom not to try to outguess the pitcher when he goes up to the plate, but to take a swing at the first good pitch that comes over. He was set for his momentous wallop, and writes that he knew that from the impact, the ball was ticketed to go over the fence.

USES PICK-UP BAT

Among other things, Haas relates that he used a bat which he picked up in a trade with Charley Dressen, of the Cincinnati Reds. George gave Charley two bats for one that suited his fancy and he had this stick with him on his big day.

Baseball stars often take a fancy to the model cudgel of an opposing player. The Athletics, it seems, were in Boston the same time as the Reds when the two players negotiated the trade.

Haas also discloses that the sun field of Shibe Park at the time of Hack Wilson's falldown in the world series was quite a handicap to the ball-tossers. His letter:

"MONTCLAIR, N. J.

"DEAR FRIEND CHRILLY: Received your letter and I take this time to thank you for your congratulations. I guess it was hard for the National League to be beaten again by us American Leaguers, but, Chilly, you know how it is—when a fellow gets his chance he is going to do his best, and I will tell you here is one boy who was bearing down.

"I have heard a lot of arguments about the ball I hit off Malone. Well, Chilly, I will tell you that I am not a guess hitter—I go up to the plate with the idea that I am going to hit the first good ball that comes up. The ball I hit was about letter high and over the plate. I was set, as I mostly am and I let the ash go. As soon as I hit it I knew it was over the fence.

"Funny thing about the bat I used that time. It was a Charley Dressen bat. I made a trade with him up in Boston. I gave him two of mine for it.

"Shibe Park was tough at that time of day, but I never have any trouble there during the year. 'Tis not nearly as tough as the Yankee Stadium.

"Yes, Chilly, I think we have a great team. Simmons is a great ball-player. I thing he is the best righthanded hitter in the league.

"Well, it won't be long now and I guess it will not make anybody mad.

"Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and asking you to give my friends my regards, I am,

"Yours in sport,

"GEORGE HAAS."

liable performer who can hit the ball to all fields.

"Shortstop seems to be a little doubtful, but we all know that Bartell can play the position. However, when we get to Paso Robles we will make some experiments with Eagle, Sankey and Clarke, all of whom are shortstops. Bartell seems to have the inside track on the job right now, but the matter has not been decided. In other words, it's an open spot, and the boy who shows the most stuff in training will start."

M'KECHNIE ACTIVE

Bill McKechnie is a conspicuous figure in the bustling lobby of the Commodore. Skipper Bill has let it be known he will trade any or every Brave.

"It's going to be a long, hard struggle," said McKechnie. "The first thing I have to do is clear away all the deadwood which has been collected up there. The next thing I have to do is pick up the best-looking young ballplayers I can find. My first concern is to get a good catcher.

"I can finish last with any ball club, so there is no harm in making changes."

Donie Bush was another prominent manager in the big gathering. Donie had a big laugh over the performance of his colorful first-sacker, Art Shires, who score a K. O. last night as he made his ring debut.

Bush, like McKechnie, is in quest of a good catcher, and will go to extremes to land one.

ROBIN AFFAIRS MESSED

The Brooklyn muddle was just as badly scrambled as ever today.

"Well, how many managers have you fellows appointed for the Dodgers today?" shouted Wilbert Robinson, as he pushed his way into the center of a group of news hunters.

Robbie was in his usual jovial mood. If he is in danger of being dethroned by the pugnacious and elderly Steve McKeever, Robbie doesn't seem worried.

Uncle Robbie has some god news on Glenn Wright, former Pirate star, now a member of the Brooklyn team. Glenn was out all of last season with a bad shoulder. He underwent surgical treatment some time ago and the result was highly beneficial, it is reported. Glenn has been playing tennis and apparently is regaining the use of the once great arm.

Camp made the winning shot at the end of the twenty-third inning, having an unfinished run of 11.

Weiner Charges Philly Boxing Is 'Racket'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Frank Wiener, chairman of the State Athletic Commission yesterday characterized boxing in this city as a "racket" and declared that unless the sport chose to remain under state supervision he would ask the State Legislature to abolish it.

Wiener, who has had frequent verbal clashes with certain boxing interests in the last year, gave his opinion of the boxing game in a talk to the City Business Club.

DETROIT LATE IN CANCELING

By TOM BIRKS.

Soccer officials at Detroit certainly took plenty of time in calling off the National Cup tie between the Pierpoint Motors and the Walkerville club. Had the Motors taken an earlier train, they would have been on their way before the calling-off message arrived.

It is possible the bad weather set in late Saturday evening, but the writer had the same experience some years ago. After being appointed to referee the western national final btween the Detroit Celtics and the Chicago Bricklayers, it was decided to play the game one week later, but the writer, as referee, never got the message, and landed in Detroit one zero Sunday morning to handle a game that had been called off. And nothing to do until late that evening to get a train back to Pittsburgh.

But J. B. Stark and Arthur Sale went out of their way to give a lonely Pittsburgh official a good time in the Michigan city.

Like a shot out of the clear blue sky comes another booster for Heidelberg, and all the name stands for in the soccer world. In a recent issue of a periodical devoted to soccer, a local player has arraigned Western Pennsylvania soccer officials, and if that little paper has anything of a sale all over the country, the local demigods are going to get a fine black eye.

So, after all these weeks, the soccer column of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, having fought a single-handed fight against the suspension of the national amateur champions, finds someone else stringing along against the most deplorable decision handed down in the history of the game. Now these high soccer moguls probably will have the poor soccer player on the carpet and suspend him, unless he can prove his assertions, and he probably can.

For many years Pittsburgh's delegation to the national soccer convention have not been taken seriously, and when they did start to bask in the limelight of the nation's soccer, a thump in the back, what might have been expected from another delegate, was received from our own state association, and the finish of that convention made us look silly in the eyes of real diplomats.

RAY KISER WINS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Ray Kiser, of Oklahoma City, 131, defeated Milton Manguno, New Orleans, 133, in a 10-round bout here last night.

PIRATES MEET HUB SKATERS

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The Boston Bruins, 1928-29 world champions and pace-setters for the American Group in the new campaign, expect to strengthen their lead tonight when they meet the Pittsburgh Pirates, tailenders in the same section, in a National League game here tonight.

The Pittsburgh skaters arrived here today from New York, where they suffered their sixth straight setback at the hands of the Rangers Sunday night. The invaders are weakened by the absence of Herb Drury, star center out with a broken hand, and the locals are odds-on favorites to add to their list of triumphs.

The Bruins defeated the Bucs, 6 to 2, in a meeting in Pittsburgh earlier in the season.

Manager Adams has warned the locals against overconfidence, for he realizes that six straight defeats are just about enough to put any club in a desperate mood, and he expects the invaders to come out fighting.

Tonight's game will mark the close of the Pirates' road trip. They are to meet the New York Americans at Pittsburgh Saturday night. The probable lineup for tonight's game:

Pirates.		Bruins.

Frederickson	C.	Carson
Darragh	R. W.	Oliver

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

BOND REVIVAL EXPECTED IN WALL ST.

Dividend Disbursements to Furnish Vast Funds for Investment; Gold to Move

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—With the huge January reinvestment demand approaching investment bankers are hopeful of a further revival in the bond market.

The fashioners of new security patterns are looking forward to an increased public demand for bonds, and in fact are considering means of transforming some pending stock deals, which were held up by the bursting of the speculative bubble, into bond deals. In the last fortnight, bonds have displayed quiet strength, with more pronounced gains in the foreign list, which offered the highest yield. The imminent reopening of the New York capital market is good news to foreign governments and industrials, which had been starved for funds for more than a year, when this market was too absorbed in domestic speculation to fulfill its new role as world banker.

BILLION RELEASED

On January 1, it is expected that domestic corporations will pay out to investors more than a billion dollars in interest and dividend disbursements. This huge flow of funds from corporate treasuries into individual pockets will not only help to sustain the buying of consumable goods, but will also heighten investment power. Although some of this money will doubtless go into bonds, a substantial portion will probably also flow into the stock market. The total disbursements of corporations to investors this year will have reached the computed total of $6,500,000,000, the largest sum ever distributed. In spite of the October-early November break, the closing weeks of this year will be characterized by a record number of payments of increased dividends, about which announcements in many instances have already been made.

In connection with the large expenditures which the railroads have announced for the coming months, the remarks of L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central, on the new philosophy of spending are timely.

SPENDING FACTORS

"Two factors," he pointed out, "have governed railway requirements in the past—enlargement and economy—with enlargement getting the more attention of the two. The diminishing rate of traffic growth, plus the new emphasis on operating efficiency, will no doubt cause economy to rank first in the future. The possibilities of business in that direction are large, for any railroad that can will gladly spend money to save money. Unless increased earnings justify credit expansion, however, the lessening need for enlargement may also handicap the ability of the railroads to make extensive purchases, even in the money-saving field."

Paul H. Nystrom, authority on retailing at Columbia University in commenting on the view that human wants are insatiable, said:

"Consumers' wants for all classes of goods are definitely modified and limited by several factors among which may be mentioned PURCHASING power, physical limits of consumption, changing living conditions, the competition of other goods serving the same purposes or even different purposes, and changing consumer tastes."

GOLD TO MOVE

America is prepared to lose more gold within the coming months. The total withdrawals, some bankers believe, may run as high as $500,000,000. It is reported that France is taking additional gold in accordance with its gold hoarding policy. To do the maximum good for world trade, gold might better flow to other countries in greater need of the precious metal, such as Germany and England.

The raising of the capital blockade at New York, as a result of the reduction in brokers' loans, goes part of the way toward restoring a world credit equilibrium. The process will not be completed, however, until France, the second largest repository of gold, radically modifies its banking policy. The country is now in a position to export capital, and its continued failure to make long term loans tends to upset world economic balance. The immediate barrier is the survival of obsolete tax laws, which were passed during the inflation period for the purpose of stopping the flight from the franc. Now with the franc stabilized, there is no need of such further restriction. The best judges of the banking situation in France recognize this, and the Bank of France is known to favor radical revision of the tax laws so that France can become an exporter of capital, making Paris a world banking center.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The seasonal stiffening of money rates continued to withhold buying orders from the bond market today and prices again moved irregularly in an exceptionally thin market. Most of the changes in the early trading were fractional and a majority was on the down side.

Liberty fourth 4¼s moved briskly on a small decline. The tendency of the government group was downward, but volume in most instances was light.

Time loans were quoted nominally at 5 per cent flat for all maturities, representing an advance from yesterday's rates. It was said, however, that no money had been offered at the 4¾ per cent level on Monday. Call funds were in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 4½ per cent.

NEW YORK Dec 10 (AP.) Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows; 000 omitted in sales column. (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.)

Rallies and Slumps Alternate on 'Big Board' As Sentiment Shifts

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.) — The stock market alternately blew hot and cold today in reflection of frequent shifts of speculative sentiment. The market opened irregularly lower, rallied briskly before the end of the first hour under the leadership of U. S. Steel common and then bobbed up and down in the afternoon, with gains outnumbering losses. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume.

U. S. Steel common, which ran up sharply yesterday on unconfirmed rumors of an early stock split up and then plunged downward on the announcement that no director's meeting is likely before the regular meeting on the last Tuesday of January, advanced 4½ points to 184½ but had difficulty in maintaining the gain. The monthly tonnage report showed an increase of nearly 39,000 tons in unfilled orders last month, the third successive increase, but this was accounted for largely by the sharp curtailment in operations rather than from increased business.

RAILS IN DEMAND

Railroad shares were in good demand, the omission of the Norfolk and Southern dividend being offset by an increase from $7 to $8 in the annual rate on Virginian Railway. Pittsburgh and West Virginia was marked up 5 points, Union Pacific 4½, New York Central 4¼ and Baltimore and Ohio, New Haven, New York Harlem and "Katy" common advanced 3 to nearly 4 points. Activity and strength of St. Paul preferred was based on unconfirmed reports of dividend inauguration on that issue early next year.

Public utilities also presented several points of strength, with American Telephone, International Telephone, Western Union and American and Foreign Power in brisk demand. Detroit Edison was one of the few soft spots in that group.

UTAH COPPER UP

Utah Copper, which did not sell yesterday or last week, jumped 25 points on one sale. A. M. Byers ran up more than 7 points and Simmons and American Can extended their gains to 4 points. Otis Elevator, International Silver, National Biscuit and Eastman Kodak dropped 3 to 5 points.

The official rate for call money was again maintained at 4½ per cent, with a plentiful supply of funds reported to be available. The time money market was firm.

Polish Equipment Financed by U. S.

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 10.—The Ministry of Communications has signed a contract with Lilpop, Rau and Lowenstein to provide the State railways with 14,000 freight cars and 1,100 passenger coaches on ten years' credit. The order will be executed in seven years. The arrangement will be financed by the Standard Car Finance Corporation of America and the credit obtained will in two years total $20,000,000.

In addition to these advances the American group will supply the Lilpop firm with $1,000,000 to enable them to increase their output. The Americans also propose to establish a factory for rolling stock to supply Poland's neighbors with railway material.

The conference was called by the Federal Farm Board. It will be in session two days.

BOSTON - MAINE PROSPECTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—While the Boston and Maine Railroad's 1929 earnings will be about the same as for 1928, when $8.45 a common share was shown, the time is not far distance when net income will be increased, says a survey by the Wall Street Journal. The road will have spent approximately $71,000,000 for rehabilitation in six years ending December 31. Considerable part of the improvements have been paid out of income account. Including equipment, retirements, improvements charged against operations in excess of normal requirements are likely to amount to about $5,210,000 this year. This is equal to 13.20 a share on 395,051 shares of common outstanding.

The program for modernizing property for the most part will be completed in 1930. Consequently, earnings for that year should run considerably above 1929 and those for 1931 would be stepped up rapidly, possibly to more than $20 a common share. If traffic holds up, resumption of common dividends is likely soon. It probably will be discussed at the directors' meeting today. However, there is little likelihood of action being taken at this time.

Central Equipment Trusts Authorized

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The New York Central is authorized to issue $5,895,000 of second equipment trusts of 1929 4½ per cent certificates which will be sold at not less than 97.02 per cent of par and accrued dividends. They will be dated December 1, 1929, and mature in 15 equal instalments beginning December 1, 1930, and continuing to December 1, 1944, and issued under an agreement providing for a maximum issue of $11,175,000.

Sears Inaugurates 13-Month Calendar

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Effective January 1, Sears-Roebuck will put into operation the so-called "13 months a year" schedule, each period covering a period of 28 days, similar to that adopted by many other business houses. This allows for a better comparison of business volume year by year. Employes of the company, which number about 40,000, will be paid on the basis of the new schedule.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—Wheat was due 2⅛ to 2⅜ pence lower. Opened 1 to 1¼ off, and at 12:15 p. m. was 2¼ to 2½ pence off.
Close 1¼ to 1⅝ pence lower.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Price movements on the Curb Market were indecisive and highly confusing today, as opposing forces struggled for control. The heavy selling pressure apparent late yesterday again appeared at the opening, only to give way momentarily during the morning before another bull drive in the utilities. By early afternoon, however, the bull forces weakened under increasing liquidation, and prices once more began to yield. A firmer tendency in the money market, and a feeling in some quarters that the recovery of last week had been unjustifiably rapid and had weakened the market's technical position, were depressing factors.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Small Incomes Enjoy Biggest Tax Reduction

—By B. C. FORBES—

SECRETARY MELLON'S income tax reduction cuts down payments by those having less than $9,000 net income by two-thirds, but lightens the payments on high incomes by only one-twentieth, or even less.

Is this why Congress has shown such readiness to indorse the changes?

Secretary Mellon's own income tax will be cut less than 5 per cent, contrasted with cuts of over 60 per cent on $4,000-$8,000 incomes and 48 per cent on $10,000 incomes.

Here is one instance where the charge surely cannot be made that the poor are being fleeced and the rich favored.

CONGRESS should give heed to the monster petition requesting relief for those who have actually to earn their own incomes, in contrast with those who enjoy incomes they don't personally have to earn.

Corporations are permitted to deduct from their earnings substantial allowances for "depreciation."

How can Congress contend that the man who earns his living by the sweat of his brain or body doesn't suffer, in course of the years, depreciation of his ability to make money? The human mind and body wear out just as inevitably as any mine or oil pool or factory or machinery or railway equipment or ship or forest.

After all, the high-earnings period of a man's (or a woman's) life is very limited. It takes the normal professional man, for example, many years of expensive education to qualify him for his life's work. Then it commonly takes other years for him to gain sufficient experience and recognition to win anything like generous remuneration.

Similarly, the young business man ordinarily has to serve long years in subordinate jobs before he can reach a responsible, well-paid position.

Not many men under 35 or 40 are fortunate enough to earn big salaries.

WHY would it not be fair to tax such individuals more considerately than those who inherit incomes or receive incomes from other sources for which they don't have to toil?

DO YOU know just how much income tax you will have to pay under the new law?

The following table tells you. The compilation applies to a married man with no dependents. It assumes that all income not over $10,000 is earned income. Also, that one-quarter of the income in excess of $10,000 is earned income. Also, that one-quarter of the income in excess of $10,000, until the maximum of $30,000 earned income is reached, is also earned.

OF COURSE, a great many well-to-do and wealthy persons whose income taxes have been reduced by only a very small percentage, will benefit from the lowering of the corporation tax from 12 per cent to 11 per cent. This is equal to a reduction of 8 1-3 per cent in the total amount which each corporation will have to pay. This saving naturally accrues to the benefit of the owners of the corporations, the stockholders.

Statistics recently published showed that corporations paid on their 1927 incomes a total tax of $1,130,674,128. The saving of 8 1-3 per cent on that amount would have meant $94,222,844.

It will thus be seen that the cut in the corporation tax will amount to a considerable item on this year's record-breaking net earnings.

WILL Congress please give a little more thought to those who have to earn their own incomes?

CLIMATE NEVER AGREED WITH HER

Lady From Poland Had Bad Time Till She Found World's Tonic.

"For ten years I had the worst kind of catarrh. My nose was so sore that it would bleed at the least opportunity, and I was getting so deaf and had head noises that I could hardly hear what people said. My nose was either stopped up or running all the time, and I coughed every morning for a half hour after I got up before my throat was clear. I wonder that my health did not break before it did," said Mrs. Mary Graybowski, of Ambridge, Pa., who came to this country fifteen years ago from Poland. "There was something about the climate here that never agreed with me. I think it must have been the fogs, like most people. I thought catarrh was a blood disease, and that it would stay in the nose and throat. But I learned differently. Last year my stomach got so bad that I could hardly eat, my liver was so sluggish, my stomach would swell up, and I had to take physics all the time. I was dizzy most of the time. I could not take care of my home and my children.

"While I was so miserable, Mrs. Patalas visited me one day and told me about a wonderful new medicine that is brought from various parts of the world, which she said was something like the medicines we used to get in the old country. She said it was called World's Tonic because the ingredients came from many parts of the world. I was interested enough to get a bottle and try it. It was the most helpful medicine I ever took. In a week it had cleared up my stubbornness and my stomach was feeling better. In two weeks that medicine fixed my stomach so that I have had no trouble with it since. In another two weeks my nose was clear and the head noises left me and I now can hear as good as I ever did, for the first time in years, and my cough had entirely ceased. In six weeks all signs of my catarrh had disappeared, and I felt better than I had since I left the old country. And it all came about from this medicine only. I did not have to take any pills or anything else with it. We keep it in our family all the time now." World's Tonic can be had of Dow's (formerly McClintock's), also May's, Mayflower, or of any other first class drug store. (B-874)

Mellon Offers New Treasury Bills

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The first offering of treasury bills to be issued by the government in its financing was announced yesterday by Secretary Mellon, who said bids would be received on a 90-day issue of $100,000,000 up to 2 o'clock on the afternoon of December 13.

The bills will bear the date of December 17 and will be sold at a discount to the highest bidder to be redeemed next March 17 at face value. The secretary said no bids for less than $10,000 would be received and that all offerings must be made in a multiple of $1,000.

The announcement of the offering comes immediately after the closing of the books of an issue of $325,000,000 of 3¼ per cent treasury certificates which was more than 100 per cent over-subscribed in two days, drew the attention of treasury experts who watched to see if the bills would prove as popular as the certificates. The bid for the bills must be made to Federal Reserve banks and their branches.

Loss of W. P. Hamilton Deeply Mourned

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE world of financial journalism suffered a keen loss yesterday with the passing of William Peter Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal and widely read author on economic subjects.

For 21 years his terse comments on finance and world affairs exerted a tremendous influence among leaders in banking and commerce, although during most of that time his identity was hidden behind the anonymity of his paper's editorial columns. He is best known for his book, "The Stock Market Barometer" in which he further developed Charles H. Dow's theory of averages as a guide to stock market operations.

As broker, soldier and newspaper man in many parts of the world he gained a knowledge of business and international affairs which has seldom been matched. An Englishman of Scotch extraction, he was one of the last survivors of the older school of journalism marked by such eccentric figures as Greeley and the elder Bennett.

Joined London Exchange

HIS 63 years of life were rich with a range of experience of which his keen mind made the most. In his early life he was a member of the London Stock Exchange but in 1890 he heard the call of the press and joined the staff of the Pall Mall Gazette under the editorship of William T. Stead. As correspondent he travelled to many parts of the world.

His newspaper career was only interrupted by a period of service in the South African war as lieutenant of engineers in the British auxiliary forces. He later went to Australia as a representative of London newspapers and in 1899 came to New York and joined the staff of the Wall Street Journal.

Writing for Wastebaskets

HIS first work here was the writing of a column of stock market comment which he handled in a sparkling manner for many years. All during this time he had his eye on an editorial job. He used to like to tell of the hours of his spare time spent laboriously pounding out editorials for submission to Thomas F. Woodlock, then editor of the paper. Hamilton wrote 200 editorials before one was accepted for publication without change. But his persistence and ability could not be ignored. In 1908 he was made editor.

He was fearless in his policies. Although naturally a conservative he never failed to scathingly criticise either political or business leaders whom he thought to be in the wrong.

Numbered among his friends was a host of influential men in all parts of the world. He and Gen. Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England and former vice president, had a warm attachment for each other.

A News Beat

DURING the Spanish-American War, before Hamilton came to this country, he was on a paper which had instructed him not to use the dispatches of a certain news agency because of its tendency to report battles which had not taken place. But Hamilton received one dispatch of a naval engagement. His first hand knowledge of war told him that this was the real thing. He used it and was fired. A few days later it was proved to be an accurate account of Dewey's victory at Manila Bay. For this beat he was asked to return to his desk but Hamilton refused.

THE SWITCH LADY

LOUISE GROODY, the actress, sticks to the social register. She has specialized from Ogden Goelet to Bill Gimbel, to Jack Harriman. Okay's little boy, the J. Harrimans, Nancy Munds having exploded . . . Jade Stuka, who charges from 10 Gs for their portraits, is free from Paree . . . Richard Aldrich and Mrs. Rogers and the attractive Dorothy Feiner are betrothed . . . Life and Death in Sing-Sing . . . Warden Lawes is the only book sold in the prison canteen . . . One of the safety razor groups had a guy $50 last wk who threatened to sue after cutting himself a piece of throat . . . The G. Hartleys are having it Reno-vated.

A. Shaaf of the New Yaukar is garboing G. Hallock of the Long Island Hallocks with the sealing slated for Jan. . . . Ruth (Smart Set) Waterbury and D. Wallace are Just Pals, as the saying goes . . . Despite the recent excitement Goldman-Sachs and the Lehman Bros. have given a full yr's salary to employes as an Eckmus gift . . . The former Mrs. Jack Thomas will bride it again . . . Dick LaMarr is burning up the long distance wires every yawning to baby-talk to Sally O'Neil with coastal reports arguing that Harry Richman likes too . . . Claudia Dell and Eddie Silton are Those Ways . . . You never hear a musician call it "jazz."

ARE YOU KNOWHAT

GRANT MILLS and Vienne Osborne are Youknowhat . . . Arnold Johnson the baton juggler, is another "The Sap From Syracuse," which is not his home town . . . Harriet Hoctor will top the prima ballerinas again in Dance mag's all-Americans for '29 . . . Tommy Edison claims he can make rubber out of goldenrod, but Fred Allen says for years men have made whoopee out of orchids.

Louis A. Werba's dotter, Lil (Mrs. Art Cremo) is in Reno having it Youknowhated . . . The J. Searle Barclays (Nita Naldi) are dwelling in Aga Kahn's house over in the old country . . . Guy Lombardo holds a violin in his hand while leading his orchestra but hasn't played a note on it in nine months . . . Three popular disks are "At the Grave of Father Powers," "The Dying Gambler" and "We Want Farm Relief" . . . Much of the success of the recent Community Drive in Cleveland is attributed to a campaign poster showing a mother holding a baby, with the slogan: "Give As A Mother Gives" . . . The mother in the picture has no wedding band on her hand.

GOOD-TIMES NOTE

THE downtown hush-parlors in town have dropped the tariff on champagne cork from $1.50 to six-bits . . . The Casanova will assess them $10 per convert with dinner New Year's eve, but the Mayfair waived $25 for buffet and b'fast arrangements and all the mineral juice you need . . . The Oyster song is out of the "French-man" frolic with Evelyn Hoey rating a "third listen." Hurray! . . . Lorelle McGarvey, who just married Dutch Moore's bow, is a new Geo. Bancroft find . . . The Julian M. Solomons have had it legally changed to the Julian M. Stevens, certain Gentiles being funny that way . . . The Court of Star Chamber in England in 1839 exercised the power of cutting off ears, branding the foreheads, and slitting the noses of the libelers of important personages. Tee-hee.

Mickey Alpert, owner of the popular Cocoanut Grove, Boston, and Mildred Plain of the Back Bay blue-bloods will middle-aisle it . . . Ethel Norris of "Rain or Shine" and "Great Day" and a Harvard boy ditto . . . The Lew Brices (Mae Clarke) have reconciled . . . It's a girl over at the Edward Molyneaux's of 25 Fifth Ave. . . . Famous locals will feel better knowing that the N. Y. University Hall of Fame has cut its requirements so that you can make it now after you've been embalmed for ten yrs. instead of having to wait 25 . . . Walda Winchell, 2, will tell you that the fur on her new coat is made of "pussy feathers."

JAY JAY NO MORE

JAY GOULD, the actor who married plenty of Manville coin, now calls himself Clare Gould which is a gent's name down South but a chorus girl's tag up here . . . Jack (Follow Thru) Haley has signed with MGM for $3,500 a week. It's about time, too . . . The snootier lads are wearing white kid gloves throughout the meal, and without plushing! . . . They slashed wages and staffs up at the Shubert's last wk . . . Lil Damita has her tootsies manicured daily, but worse still, George "Doubleday" Doran has his paws done as often . . . The Jed Hoyts have phfft! . . . The New York editors made such a fuss about Tunney being replaced in the Social Register by Lindbergh, overlooking Ruth Elder, who crashed it by welding Walter Camp, Jr.

At Elsa Maxwell's party at the Ritz, A. Woollcott came as Elsa Maxwell. There will be a Britt Haddon Scholarship at Yale in honor of the late editor of Time, who was a good guy . . . The coat-room gel in the East 40s Childs' will sew up that damned little coathanger ribbon while you dine . . . Add Similes: So attractive she makes heads turn quicker than the pop of a champagne cork in a second-rate cabaret . . . Alfred DeLacey, head of a Cambridge, Mass., book shop was socked $800 and 4-months in the local gaol for peddling a copy of D. H. Laurence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover" . . . The John Emersons (Anita Loos) are going to Hollywood this week to get a laugh.

NILE TEMPLE HOST TO HEAD

Members of the Airys Temple, Daughters of the Nile, are today entertaining the supreme officer of the organization at a ceremonial and banquet in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Mrs. Laura McGregor, of Butte, Mont., supreme queen, is the guest of honor, while many officers from other states are in attendance. Mrs. Anna M. Rote, of Pittsburgh, was to preside at the ceremonial opening this afternoon and at which a large class will be initiated.

Mrs. Arthur Meyers is in charge of arrangements. It is the first function of the temple since organization last April.

Woman in Indiana Talks to Kin on Ship at Sea

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 10. (INS)—Mrs. Isaac Born, of Indianapolis, yesterday enjoyed the distinction of being the first Hoosier, if not the first American, to talk over the telephone from an American city with a passenger on board the Leviathan while the ship was at sea.

A ship-to-shore telephone service was inaugurated by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at noon Sunday. Mrs. Born placed a call for her brother, Herbert S. Weil, who was aboard the liner 200 miles off the New York coast. Ten minutes later the call had been completed. Mrs. Born said her brother's voice came to her as clearly as would have a local call.

She paid $24 for the first three minutes and $8 for each minute thereafter.

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

After awarding a $500 prize to a painting at the National Academy of Design, the judges discovered that the painting was hanging upside down.

It must be said, to their credit, that they did not let this panic them into a reversal of opinion.

The logical alibi would be for the judges to issue a statement declaring they studied the effort from every angle, and reached their verdict while standing on their heads.

As a matter of simple justice, all the other artists should petition for permission to hang their pictures upside down.

ALONZO TRIES TO GET RUTH AWAY FROM IT ALL
But Author of "Palaces of Sin" Sniffs Dark Plot

Yesterday you will recall that the author and Alonzo, "the Society Ape," are engaged in an argument over the Michigan Beauty's conduct—as this innocent girl has been induced to drink none and has even permitted Alonzo to tie her shoe lace as she giddishly places her foot upon his knee.

"I WAS disgusted and ready to leave," says the author, "but I was determined to stay until the 'debauch was over in order to protect Ruth if possible. About 4 o'clock everyone but myself and the hostess was as full as "ticks," and Ruth not being used to this sort of thing, it had made her deathly sick, so I suggested to the hostess that she be taken home.

"'Never!' asserted Alonzo, 'in this condition.'

"'Why?' I remarked.

"'I want you to understand I am Ruth's escort,' says Alonzo. 'I will call my carriage and drive her around in the crisp air and she will be all right.'

"'No you don't,' I cried. 'You will not drive Miss Ruth for a few minutes or a few hours unless I am with you, as I know your motive!"

Tomorrow we will publish the account of the terrible consequences of this hot exchange—the battle of wits.

Christmas Spirit Grows As Shopping Days Go By

Christmas shopping! With only 13 more days in which to do it, according to the calendar and the little reminders one encounters here and there, it is speeding up. The gentle pressure of Santa Claus may be ignored for a time because it is gentle. But it is persistent—always evident as the consciousness of a soft voice urging one to make purchases of gifts for loved ones now and have done with it. His advice is being listened to more and more daily, hence the increase in the number who crowd the aisles of the stores.

Somehow or other we never can regard this as mere trafficking—so much goods for a dollar. There is too much in it that is associated with deep and holy sentiment—the outpouring of hearts—to consider Christmas shopping as anything to be profaned by a commercial thought. Because it imposes upon us the burden of preparation and the sacrifice of a little time we are prone to regard the bartering angle with a little dread, but, in our dreams and memories of past Christmas days, we always think, not of the work they entailed, but of the joy they brought to us. If we always look at it that way, as we should, the stores will be transformed into elysian fields and the gifts we select will bloom as flowers of love.

And, really, the stores, ever efficient, have removed every reason for dread. The arrangements and the classified range of gifts are potent to make selection easy and swift in the earlier part of the shopping season, and in the earlier part of the day even now, when the 24 hours that pass each day scarcely account for the speed at which Christmas draws nigh.

Christmas is for mother, for dad, for sister, brother—for the kiddies, for all of us. Yet the atmosphere is wholly juvenile. Toyland and fairyland are the symbols of the season. Alice, from the looking-glass and wonderland, is the little goddess, who enshrined alike in memory and motivation, is the presiding spirit. Sweet, gentle Alice, your slaves, guided by Santa Claus, crowd around your throne. The hum of their happy voices and the clatter of their feet are united in a carol that breathes the incense and the magic of the desert where wise men wandered twenty centuries ago guided by the light of a wondrous star that beckons us and leads us, too.

Criminals Prove System Of Education Is Faulty

William Randolph Hearst last week on this page called striking attention to the pitiful and terrifying breakdown of our prison system, in an editorial entitled "What Is A Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Doing In Sing Sing Prison?"

The boy had been mysteriously stabbed to death by fellow convicts.

Three years ago last Easter, Mr. Hearst in a signed statement announced his conviction that "we can cure criminals only by a practical application of the principles of Christianity."

He pointed out at that time that the principle of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth and a life for a life had had some thousands of years of unsuccessful trial in dealing with transgressors against the laws of society, and that the experiment was getting less successful every year.

He urged that, with respect to our erring brothers, we make a trial of PRACTICING what we PROFESS and give the teachings of Christ a chance to work. Mr. Hearst said further:

"Greater severity does not prevent crime; it merely seems to promote crime.

"The time for the state to protect itself against the criminal is before the criminal is made.

"Most criminals are not born; they are MADE.

"Crime is mainly a matter of education—of education in crime—of lack of education in decent directions.

"The state cannot protect itself against the criminal to any sufficient degree after the criminal is created. It can only punish.

"And what the state really punishes in a criminal is its own neglect, its own failure to do its duty to the citizens.

"The most important work of the government is education. It is only through adequate education that good citizens are made—citizens capable of successfully conducting a republic.

"Criminals are indications of the failure of our educational system, not merely the failure of our legal system.

"AND THE NUMBER OF CRIMINALS INDICATES THE EXTENT OF THE FAILURE."

In the three and a half years since those words were written, the policy of frightfulness, in dealing with wrongdoers, has yielded another three years of desperate results.

Hangings and electrocutions have multiplied, but murders and other crimes of violence have increased still more rapidly.

Jurists tell us that in the United States only one criminal in ten pays any penalty, yet the prisons and jails cannot hold the multitudes condemned to their care.

New York State's Crime Commission asks the Legislature for THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS for new prisons in a single one of the 48 states. President Hoover is alloting the Army disciplinary barracks at Leavenworth to the federal prison there, to house its overflow, and he begs Congress for funds to build new prisons.

But for education he can think of nothing except to appoint two new commissions, which next year or the year after may tell him whether THEY think anything should be done about the matter.

No wonder Mr. Hearst wrote last week:

"It is time the American people gave thought to the human problem that is on every side of them—the problem of poverty, the problem of ignorance, the problem of crime.

"Anger will not solve the problem.

"Revenge will not solve it.

"Cruel and unnatural punishments will not solve it.

"Jail penalties for small offenses will not solve it.

"Shotgun murders over trivial infractions of unjust laws will not solve it.

"Associating children with hardened criminals will not solve it.

"Herding erring brothers into jail until the prisons are packed with twice the population they are supposed to hold, and until the President frantically calls to Congress for more prisons for more criminals, will not solve it.

"No penal or political system which multiplies the population of the prisons at the rate of 10 per cent a year will solve a situation which is daily growing to be more and more of a danger to the moral and social life of the nation.

"Wake up, citizens of America, and do your duty to yourselves and your fellowmen.

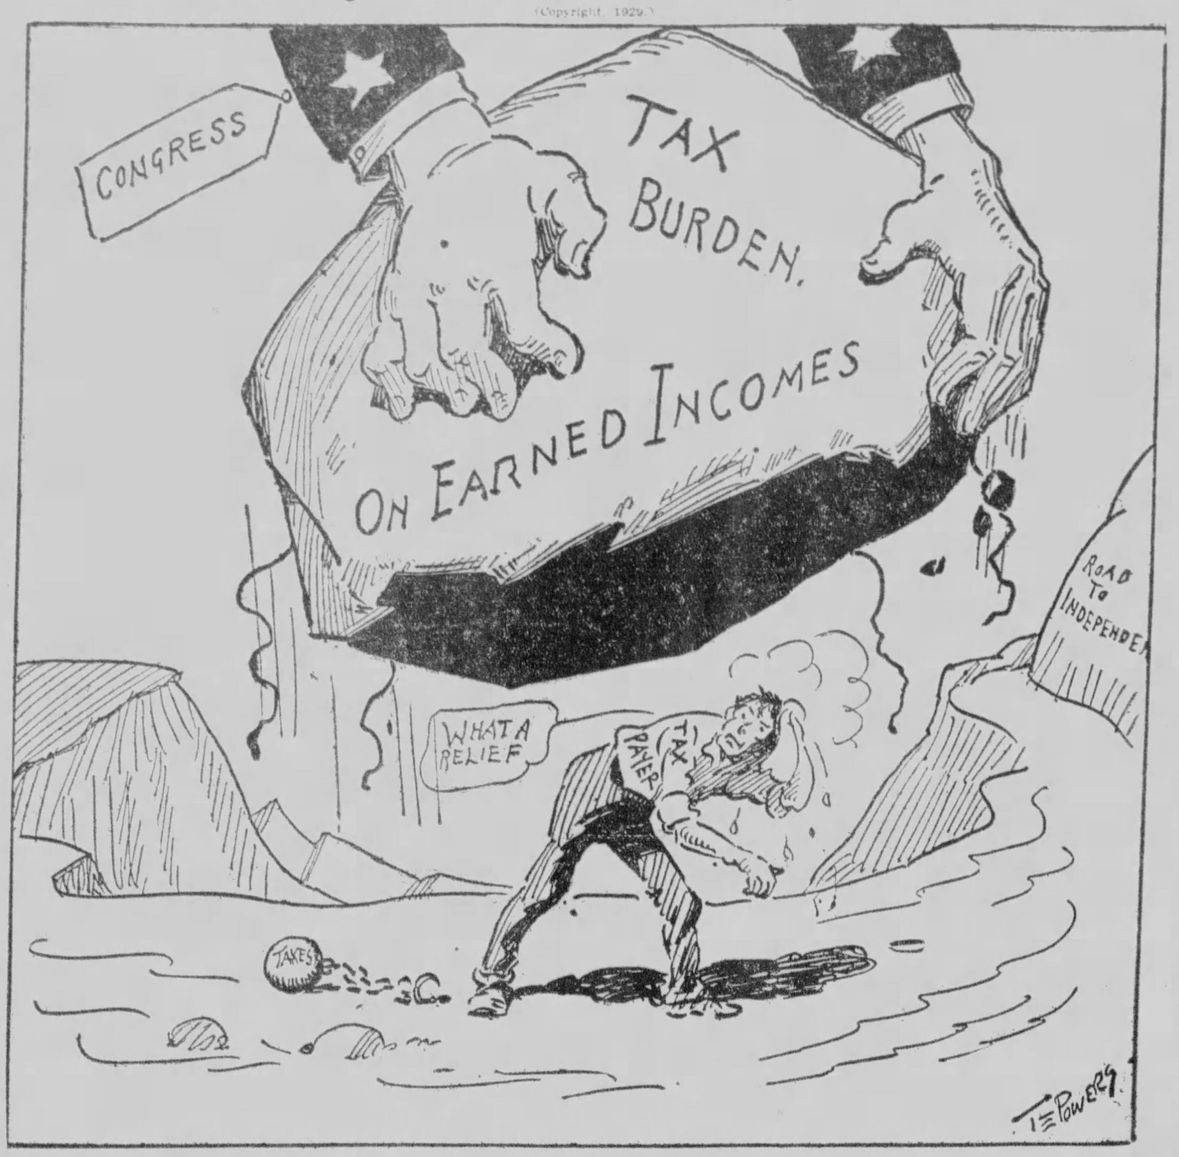
"If you ask:

"'AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?'

"The answer is:

"'YOU ARE!'"

A Heavy Load to Carry—Lift It!



"Bugs" Baer Says:

A Presidential Message

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S condensed message of 12,000 words is not bogie for the course.

"Bugs" Baer

Mr. Coolidge abbreviated his annual outline of mystery to 8,000 words with the facts overlapping like the leaves of an anti-choke.

The idea of a presidential message is to smart up the orphans of the Senate.

After reading the marathon epistle and nibbling at its contents, the Senators dash out and defend the opposite goal.

Bill Taft once took his pen behind his ear and dashed off a curt warning of 35,000 words to the legislators. The subject was mostly about the conservation of white paper.

A presidential message is a compilation of executive policy even though the lawmakers seem to think it is the A. A. U. rules for filibuster and bolts.

We consider the Senate fortunate to get one of those balloon sized manuscripts when you realize that our national magazines will pay two dollars a word for it.

The White House had remarkable success as a school of journalism.

So has the Senate. The House seems to be an institution for backward students.

Mr. Hoover will be gratified to know that his political scenario is being judged by competent re-write men.

They may think it is very O. K. But may send it back because there is no love interest in it.

The Senate may even have that famous printed form: your manuscript is interesting and very original. But we are not using that type of story this year.

The proper method of putting over a message to Congress is to make it an adventure story with plenty of romance and a handsome aviator as the menace.

Then Fox, Famous, Paramount or Warner Brothers will step in and bid one million bills for the picture rights. The plot will be twisted around so that John Gilbert controls the Senate and Greta Garbo is speaker of the House.

The message will be stolen between the Treasury and Capitol Hill by Lon Chaney acting as the slippery ace of the high tariff tribe. It will be recovered in the twelfth reel with dialogue, thus giving us excitement with our punctuation.

This not only improves the message but gives us the chance to put up our Chief Executive's name in electric lights in direct competition with oyster crackers and cigarets.

THE INVADER

By Herbert Kaufman

WATCH the STEERAGE GANGPLANK.

The man whose children will probably pay wages to YOURS is about to arrive.

Suddenly restricted chances, yonder, compel him to migrate where he can devote his force and talents to more profitable use than the Old World lately permits.

His own land no longer offers the prospects pre-war conditions assured.

You'll find him a different type from the average alien, who in past years blindly gambled in the lottery of survival.

Cultured, informed, and specifically trained, his competition threatens the security of clock-watchers and job-botchers, EVERYWHERE.

You're apt to EXAGGERATE the value of a prior start, nativity and familiarity with our distinctive methods and prejudices.

DON'T, however, lean TOO heavily on such slender advantages. Temporary handicaps MAY restrain his initial progress, but it shan't be long until the new tortoise will be running AHEAD of the overconfident hares.

Your generation is so intoxicated with the vision of EASY MONEY that extravagance of energy and wealth, squandering of vital time and thought, have largely become national failings.

You've acquired a hundred little, loose habits he never learned, and pamper scores of wasteful hobbies his thrifty ambitions can't AFFORD.

His canny instincts will immediately note your weaknesses and suggest lines of attack which smug self-satisfaction can't repel.

While you're practicing the latest DANCE steps, he'll be studying the last TEXT-BOOKS.

WHILE you're motoring, he'll be maneuvering, finessing—sharpening wits upon humble whetstones you deem beneath a gentleman's dignity.

He isn't hampered by false pride. He springs from people who don't bother with such nonsense—from a social group which doesn't ape the excesses and imitate the diversions of entrenched affluence.

He'll manage without the indulgences you're habituated to believe essential to status and comfort.

At home, he was not allowed to confuse luxuries with NECESSITIES.

So he won't be ashamed to let service instead of STYLE wear out his clothes. He'll NOT pay a premium for the flashy distinction of living in a showy neighborhood.

He'll save MONEY and he WON'T save himself. He'll take orders cheerfully and despise no task with a dollar hidden in it—that was drilled into him from childhood.

HE'LL be indurated with the conviction that industry and persistence are still touchstones to success in the United States.

He'll join a night SCHOOL, not a night CLUB, and fly with the EARLY BIRDS, not the OWLS.

Your eyes are on the man above—therefore you don't notice the one creeping from the rear.

His bad English will throw you off guard, but he'll soon be thinking mighty good American—as you'll discover when you meet to match TRADING wits.

Prepare for him, or in the end you'll WORK for him.

The signs along our streets are strange with names unknown to yesterday. But in more than one sense, they are SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Once, the Continent mainly sent us those whom she did not need—her UNSKILLED and UNTAUGHT surplus.

But, "tomorrow a NEW order cometh."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

DR. WATSON has been telling the world how children's lives can be molded by putting them in the right environment . . . and some good people think it's all nonsense. The little foxes of the Santa Barbara islands can testifiy that it isn't nonsense.

Long ago, in the pleistocene age—and your guess as to how many thousands of years ago that was is about as good as the scientist's — California was a wider land than it is now. And the little foxes roamed all over the land, chasing the gray rabbits, that were then almost as big as a fox is now.

Then along came a terrific convulsion, and the rim of the continent tumbled into the sea, leaving only points protruding here and there as islands. On two of those islands, off that place which is now called Santa Barbara, some small foxes huddled, looking wistfully back to the mainland, which they were never to reach again. It had been a land of plenty, but here on these barren strips there was never a rabbit — only great swarms of insects, an occasional tiny bird, a stray fish cast up on the beach. Slim pickings for foxes, but it's wonderful how creatures can get along if they are put to it.

That was vague thousands of years ago. Still the little foxes live on Santa Barbara Island, just a few miles off the shore, but their mainland cousins would hardly know them now. They were fat, husky beasts when they were set adrift, with strong, hunting legs and fierce, chewing jaws. Ancient skeletons prove that. But today—deprived of the chase and the strong, tough meat—they have shrunk to tiny creatures, the size of house cats. Their teeth are delicate as pins, fitted to fly fare or the soft flesh of fish. Their jaw hinges have become frail—their leg bones are as weak and delicate as a bird's.

But back on the mainland their brothers, who continued to hunt and gorge, have become as powerful and swift as little wolves.

That isn't all. There were elephants in the land in those days. Some of the elephants, like the foxes, were marooned on the islands. They are finding the skeletons now, and, at the same time, unearthing the remains of the mainland elephants from the great asphalt pit near Carpenteria. The mainland elephants were huge brutes, 15 feet high at the shoulder, bigger than any circus elephant today. But the island elephants, before they vanished, had dwindled to dwarfs scarce eight feet high.

That's what environment will do to an animal, human or otherwise. You AREN'T what you're born. You're what your food and climate and associations make you.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

THE family out in Iowa had just got a letter from Sam, their boy in New York. Sam was spreading out, and had been traveling in Europe. He come home with big news. He and his wife had adopted a little Russian baby.

Now, Dad, out in Iowa, didn't think this was a very bright idea. He says, "I always said Sam would do something foolish and disgrace himself some day. He never looks ahead more'n a day or two. Now look. When this here baby gets old enough to talk, who do you reckon is going to translate its Russian slang into English for that foolish Sam and his wife?"

Text for Today

I waited patiently for the Lord; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock, and established my goings.—Psalms, xl:1, 2.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE amount of specialized tissue that a body can lay down is limited. For this reason, after we have lived for some 40 years our more specialized tissues begin to wear away; gradually, but with gathering speed, we lose weight.

This wearing-away chiefly involves the more specialized tissues. Skeletal or connective tissues, which consists of anatomically undifferentiated cells loafing about among a scaffolding that they have built up, is relatively unaffected. It is the brain and muscles, the kidneys and liver that shrink. We cannot see or hear as acutely as before, our muscles are less powerful, our digestion is less efficient, our brains less active and less accurate.

H. G. Wells.

The chemical basis of this wearing out is at present not understood. Old age seems to be associated in some way with defective calcium metabolism; the brittleness of senescent bones is due to the resorption of lime salts into the blood. Moreover, there seems to be an accumulation of poisonous substances in the blood.

The slow exhaustion of old age may also be complicated by other changes; in the great majority of old people (but not in all) there is a gradual stiffening (sclerosis) of the arteries, and there may be a similar stiffening in other tissues.

Sooner or later one or other of the essential organs fails and the body dies.

It is important to realize that our cells do not die because mortality is inherent in their internal structure. They die because they are parts of a very complicated system based on co-operation, and sooner or later one of the tissues lets the others down. Death is a consequence of incomplete organization; the tissues die because they are parts of an imperfectly balanced body.

How far it may be possible for a body to sustain its balance and continue indefinitely, or at least for a much longer period than the normal life of its species, is an interesting matter for speculation. Such a prolongation is not nature's ordinary way.

But there are long-lived species which do remain recuperative for relatively long periods. Parrots will last out 80 years and eagles 100, and such a fish as the carp, especially if it is protected from external danger in a garden pond, seems able to go on almost without a limit.

There is evidence for 150-year-old carp and for pike which have lasted for two centuries. Some trees have an enormous span of life. The baobab of Cape Verde is supposed to endure 5,000 years and the sequoia-gigantea of California almost as long.

The prolongation of the restless, various human life is a much more complex issue than that of keeping alive a captive bird or fish.

Ilya Metschnikov was disposed to ascribe many of the phenomena of senility to decay in the large intestine, and sought to correct this by a liberal use of koumiss—soured milk, such as the long-lived Tartars consumed—which abounds in bacteria whose products check intestinal putrefaction.

For a time koumiss was a fashionable drink among the elderly, but after the death of Metschnikov, at the age of 71, faith in his remedy declined.

In the young and developing adult certain secretions from the intestinal tissues of the reproductive glands play an invigorating part in the growth and strengthening of the body, and various experimenters have tried to restore the dwindling supply of these secretions as age comes on. Steinach seeks this end by local surgery, which for a time at least reanimates the declining tissue.

Voronov grafts new tissues taken from young apes, in the effective region. There are other fairly obvious applications, by injections and so forth, of the same idea.

Resort is also made to the substance and secretions of the thyroid, the pituitary body and other ductless glands which influence the growth processes.

Steinach, Voronov and various other workers indubitably produced some remarkable rejuvenescences.

But also they have had distinct failures and disappointments. Much more experiment is needed in this direction before we can confidently and safely hold back the advance of age.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A glittering world has suddenly tarnished for those orchidaceous ladies with purple pasts. Their plight since the upheaval in Wall Street has grown increasingly tragic. Hundreds in the 60's and 70's fondle empty jewel cases and face apartment evictions.

Margin players themselves, they were taken for the proverbial "cleaning," and sugar daddies can offer no aid, for they, too, are "stoney." Such creatures come under the heading of "Luxuries," and for the time luxuries are a drug on the market.

For the past five years, they have been riding the high wave of a prosperity they never knew before. They had duplex apartments, jewels, limousines, French maids, ermine wraps and charge accounts inked in red—which means such bills must go to gentlemen's offices only.

Their discreetly sinful lives were a round of noon-day breakfasts, the massage and beauty saloons, bright-jacketed novels, reckless shopping and the cocktail hour call of the mysterious gentleman known to the impudent West Indian elevator operators as Mr. A— or some other initial.

In the social isolation, not even riches could prevent, their companionship was chiefly with fashionable dogs or with a white-capped and aproned Nanette or Lucille. It was a life of langour, but also a life of friendless monotony.

And a topsy-turvey market beached them on the shoals of stark poverty. Frantic letters and telegrams were unheeded. Telephone calls to private secretaries were answered with: Mr. A. and his wife are resting with friends in the country."

There should have been a lesson in a cursory review of the 1907 panic, when the records showed more than 50 crepe de chine ladies in an agony of sudden despair quaffed acid or jumped into the Hudson. But there wasn't. Quick wealth will come again—and with it quick ladies. And quick descents.

One of many heroic figures emerging out of the market maelstrom to me was a very rich man who at 4 in the afternoon was penniless. His wife and daughter were arriving after a long stay in Europe two hours later. He met them gaily at the pier, carried them off to a cafe for a dinner celebration and on the way home—unable longer to stand the terrific strain—slumped to the floor of his limousine in a dead faint. He is today in a wheel chair.

* * *

There seems to me to be a dirty dig some place in this personal announcement in a morning paper: "A young lady employed as a tea room hostess in a Jersey town would like to meet some people of intelligence. Box 2-A."

* * *

Louis Mann's enormously wide-winged high collar has long been one of the Broadway institutions. He was actually offered $500 a week for advertising space on it. Mr. Mann has the happy faculty of laughing off the jibes, and the collar has endured for 24 years. There is no particular mystery about its origin or continuance. A similar collar was worn in one of the actor's early plays. It was comfortable and, he thought, becoming. Thus in time it became his trade mark.

The theater has many who are distinctive for some odd sartorial doo-dad—Ziegfeld for his blue collars, George White for his tiny bow tie, Walter Catlett for his Byronic shirts without necktie, Belasco for his reversible collar, Earl Carroll for his paddock overcoat, George M. Cohan for his baggy cap and Walter Hampden for his puff tie.

Writes an ex-service man: "The trouble with the last war was the fellows who got it up didn't fight in it." And there's a brilliant editorial in a homely sentence.

She came out of a hotel lobby with that exquisite glaze a beauty parlor imparts and an imperious tilt to her head. She stood at the curb obviously agitated. A cavalier detached himself from a group nearby and with a sweeping bow inquired: "May I be of any service, Madam?"

"You may call a cab," she replied coldly, "but don't let it work you into a flirtation."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU have lots of enthusiasm at first, but it soon lags and finally disappears.

An idea comes by which you can improve your finances or your knowledge. You are enthusiastic about it—want to get right at the undertaking.

But you don't do it, because you never start, and enthusiasm dwindles. Finally you let the matter drop and jog along as usual.

What is the use of disturbing yourself, anyway? So uncomfortable to try to do anything and keep after it because things are always developing to take your attention.

You handle all your bright ideas after this fashion.

After all, what is the use?

And as a result you are no better off in money or other definite gain than you were a year ago. You look back a good many years and know that it is a desire to be free from worry and responsibility that has kept you from ambitious efforts. Yet if you had pursued more diligently the suggestions of your fertile brain you might be more free from worry at the present time, for dodging worry can't be done successfully and indefinitely.
